School Board Acts on Three Major Topics

By WALTER S. CLARK JR.

The Board of Education of the Kingston School District Consolidated met Thursday night and took action to bring major developments on three fronts.

The Board:

Exemptions, Vote, Bond

● Moved to re-evaluate school tax exemptions on properties owned by residents 65 years of age and over with income of less than $3,000 a year, to decide whether to continue allowing exemption because of the loss in revenue the first year.

● Approved an election to choose an organization to act as the exclusive bargaining agent for the teachers' negotiating unit or to determine that the staff does not wish such representation. The election will be held Oct. 13.

● Approved a bond issue of $175,000 and awarded contracts to pay the cost of alterations of the Vocational Building, Kingston High School.

Ira M. Shaw, associate superintendent for business management and Harold E. Keator Jr., chairman of the Business Management Committee, told the board that the New York State Legislature will no doubt be pressed to continue and to increase exemptions for those over 65. They suggested that the board should review the local situation and plan for the next year.

Shaw and Keator recommended that the Board should decide whether the district should continue or discontinue allowing exemptions for the 65-year residents and over, if and should the Legislature increase the exemptions.

A report submitted showed that in the City of Kingston exemptions of $428,200 were allowed for 270 property owners over 65. The total for the district including exemptions allowed in parts of the townships within the district, including the city exemptions, was listed at $599,776 for a total of 517 elderly taxpayers.

Keator noted that if the Legislature should increase the exemptions it might overburden other taxpayers in the district. It was noted by Arthur Withall, board president, that the assessors in the district decide whether a person is qualified for the exemption, and not the school board.

The decision to call for the election to determine the bargaining agent for the teachers came after numerous meetings of officers of the Kingston Teachers Association, the Kingston Teachers Federation, Board of Education and members of the administrative staff. The sessions were held to work out arrangements for the implementation of the Public Employes Fair Employment Act in the school district.

The American Arbitration Association has been chosen to conduct the election, the cost of which will be shared equally by the KTA, KTF and the Board of Education. Voting on Oct. 13 will take place at eight polling places. The teachers' group receiving the majority of votes will be declared the exclusive bargaining agent for all teachers.

The teachers' negotiating unit shall include all professional personnel except superintendent, associate superintendents, assistant superintendents, administrative assistants, principals, assistant principals, directors, assistant directors, supervisors, coordinators, department chairmen and deans.

The movement for the teachers election began in 1962 with the KTF spearheading the effort. After the board's approval of the election last night Vernon Outwater, president of KTF said:

Notes Primary Objective

Seven-Member Plans Board For Saugerties

By LYNN MULVANEY

The appointment of a seven-member planning board, the first for the Town of Saugerties; an attempt to purchase 25 acres adjoining Cantine Memorial Field and a $270,000 estimate for water district improvements topped the agenda of last night's meeting of Saugerties Town Board.

Rec Facility Eyed

Named to serve from one to seven years as planners were: George Turner, an assessor; Irving R. Oltmann, now serving the Ulster County Planning Board; Albert J. Cawein, assistant city editor, Kingston Freeman; Roy Olmquist, Ferroxcube Corp.; Dr. Richard Messina, Saugerties dentist; Carleton King, nurseryman and Albert Conte, insurance adjuster.

The appointments, made by the board become effective immediately.

Part of Estate

The board voted further to go on record as being interested in the possible purchase of 25 acres of land from the Knaust Estate for use as a recreational facility.

The property, which is adjacent to the existing Cantine Memorial Field is both level and wooded. Population increases in the town have put an added tax on the present facility and the board has expressed the feeling that more picnic, parking and play fields are required to meet the needs of the people.

An estimate of $270,000 for Glasco water district improvements was given by engineers, Brinnier and Larios.

New Connection, Pit

The report proposed that a new connection to the Saugerties Village water main at Overbaugh Street with a new meter pit to be located there. The line would continue down Overbaugh to Simmons Lane, Apple Tree Drive to a right of way which would cross connect with a six-inch pipe on an unnamed street between Apple Tree Drive and Keith Avenue. The line would also take in Edith and John Streets, Blue Hills Drive, Lamb Avenue, Oak Lane, Willow Road and Barclay Lane. One portion of the main would connect with a one-million gallon storage facility.

$22,000 Estimate

Approval of the Board of Water Commissioners must be forthcoming before any action can be taken.

Washington Avenue Ext. residents, who previously requested a water main tie-in with the nearby village received notification that the cost estimate on that proposal is $22,000. Assessors must hold a public hearing on property assessments for that area before a tax rate can be established to accommodate the proposed change.

Donald Jankowski of Mt. Marion Park presented a petition calling for a speed reduction in that area. Approval of the State Department of Traffic and Control is needed before action can be taken.

Superintendent of Highways William Brown presented specifications for a new town pickup truck. Bids for the vehicle will be opened Sept. 26 at 2 p. m., Town Hall.

Show Bad Manners

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP)—Civil rights demonstrators staged a "sit- and lie-in" Thursday in the City Hall office of Mayor Henry Maier and left it damaged and clogged with debris.

Police, who had been told by the mayor to let the demonstrators "show the nation their bad manners," arrested five of the group of nearly 100 after fighting broke out in the waiting room outside Maier's executive office.

Heads for Moon Landing

Spider-shaped Surveyor 5 started its intended 65-hour, 221,575-mile lunar journey aboard an Atlas-Centaur rocket at 3:57 a. m. EDT today.

A Smoker's Dilemma

WASHINGTON (AP)—The director of the National Cancer Institute has been off cigarettes for 23 days. And he admits woefully, "I miss them very much."

But Dr. Kenneth M. Endicott adds: "I'm really glad that I stopped."

After smoking for 30 years—slightly more than a pack a day at the end—the cancer expert finally quit because "I was simply in an impossible position." Endicott was getting it from all sides.

State Population Zooms

WASHINGTON (AP)—The population of New York State has grown by 9.2 per cent since the 1960 census to an estimated 18,335,000 residents, the Census Bureau said Thursday.

The population in the nation, overall, rose by 10.4 per cent in the last seven years to 197,884,000 persons as of July 1, the bureau said.

Defoliage Tactics For Viet Barrier

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chemical soil-killers will be used in South Vietnam warfare for the first time under the Pentagon's new plan to create a barrier against infiltrating North Vietnamese troops.

Ground Fighting Continues in Vietnam . . . See Story on Page 5.

The Pentagon said earth-poisoning agents will be sprayed over the cleared barrier zone atop South Vietnam to prevent jungle growth from returning and providing concealment for invading Communists.

New Dimension

Introduction of the sterilants will add a new dimension—and perhaps a controversial one—to an already wide-ranging chemical program aimed at wiping out vegetation including crops in certain areas of South Vietnam.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara announced plans Thursday for the barrier—actually an early-warning zone sown with mines and electronic eyes and ears. He elaborated little about its operation.

Confirmation of the long-rumored move came at a news conference at which McNamara labeled Michigan Gov. George Romney, a Republican presidential hopeful, as "blind to the truth" in accusing the Johnson Administration of misleading the public about the war.

McNamara also announced:

—The remaining two brigades of the 101st Airborne Division will be among the additional 45,000 men destined for the war zone by June 30.

—A new Army division, the 6th Infantry, is being created in January to offset troop deployments from strategic forces based in the United States.

—The Pentagon's open-housing program will be spread nationwide to end what he called "a shameful story of discrimination" against Negro servicemen. Housing sites near military bases which refuse to admit Negro servicemen will be placed off limits to all military men in those areas.

McNamara bared few details about the proposed infiltration barrier other than to say its components would range "from barbed wire to highly sophisticated devices."

The idea is not to block the southward flow of enemy troops— McNamara said that can't be done—but to slow infiltrators while electronic alarms alert U.S. commanders. Mobile American units could then be rushed by helicopter and tank to the point of infiltration.

If extended completely across South Vietnam below the so-called Demilitarized Zone, the trip-wire zone would be more than 40 miles wide.

Mum on Laos

McNamara refused to say whether it would also cut across Laos through the jungle network of roads that make up the Ho Chi Minh trail, used by Hanoi to get men into South Vietnam.

To Shun Figurehead Image, Thieu Claims

SAIGON (AP)—Bolstered by Premier Nuyen Cao Ky's failure to win control of South Vietnam's new senate, President-elect Nguyen Van Thieu made plain today that he intends to be No. 1 in fact as well as name in his country's new government.

The chief of state refused to appear on a U. S. television program with his vice president-elect, bringing into the open the long-smoldering feud between the two victorious running mates in Sunday's presidential election.

Thieu appeared for the taping today of the National Broadcasting Company's "Meet the Press" program, but only after telling NBC officials he would appear alone or not at all. NBC originally had invited Thieu and Ky together and said both camps agreed two weeks ago that both men would appear. The program was to have been taped Thursday morning but Thieu backed out at the last minute, saying through a spokesman he had not been properly informed.

After a day of consulations, it was agreed that Thieu and Ky would appear together this morning, but late Thursday night Thieu changed his mind and said he would only appear alone. A spokesman for Ky told NBC the premier had decided to step aside.

The original plan for the program had called for the four American newsmen on the program's panel to alternate their questions between Thieu and Ky.

Appears for Taping

The program will be broadcast in the United States Sunday.

The forced political marriage of the two military leaders on the same ticket was an uneasy one. Both men had announced their intention of running for president, and their quest for support was threatening a split in the armed forces.

Thieu made no move to assert his position as No. 1 until it became apparent that Ky had failed to pull into office with him any of the several senate slates he supported. The senate has a strong Roman Catholic bloc which Thieu—a Catholic—apparently feels is to his advantage. The question of face in the relationship between the two men always has been important to Thieu. As chief of state and technically the superior of the premier, Thieu was said to be constantly annoyed when newsmen and foreign visitors usually paid more attention to the flamboyant, better known Ky.

Intra-Party Fight Looms

Travia Heading for Federal Bench

By CHARLES DUMAS

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Assembly Speaker Anthony J. Travia, now doubling as president of the State Constitutional Convention, finally has agreed to accept appointment as a federal court judge.

Sources close to Travia, the most powerful Democrat at the State Capitol, told The Associated Press that Travia hoped to move to the bench before the year is out.

Steingut Staking Claim

Assemblyman Stanley Steingut, a Brooklyn colleague and political rival of Travia, is moving behind the scenes to stake out his claim for the assignment. Steingut challenged Travia for the job in 1965 but lost after a protracted struggle.

Assembly Majority Leader Moses M. Weinstein of Queens, a staunch ally of Travia in the 1965 fight, also wants the post and is prepared to battle Steingut for the honor.

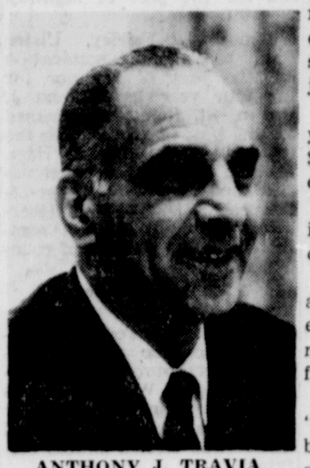

The vacancy would be filled by decision of the Assembly's Democratic majority, provided a contender could muster 76 of the 90 Democratic votes. A majority of the 150-member Assembly is required for election.

GOP Decided Fight

During the 1965 contest, neither Travia nor Steingut could marshal enough support from within their own party. So Republicans stepped in and settled the fight by casting their votes for Travia.

The U.S. District Court seat earmarked for Travia — by appointment of President Johnson — had been held by Matthew T. Abruzzo of Brooklyn, now retired. Early in his career, Travia was Abruzzo's law clerk.

The 55-year-old lawyer-legislator was offered the appointment more than a year ago but has deferred making a decision until recently.

ANTHONY J. TRAVIA

Earlier this week, rumors swept Albany that Travia finally had decided to give up the rough-and-tumble of his 23-year career in the Assembly for the security of a lifetime federal judgeship.

The court post pays $30,000 a year. As speaker, Travia is paid $39,000 but must stand for re-election every two years.

Obeying the protocol in such instances, Travia has declined to confirm or deny the reports.

But persons close to him acknowledged today that Travia expected Johnson to send his name to the Senate for confirmation some time this month.

Meanwhile, he told a reporter, "I'm here today and I expect to be here tomorrow. But," he added with a smile, "that's as far as I'll go."

In response to questioning, Travia said that, should he be appointed to the bench, he still would have time to complete his convention assignment and to campaign for adoption of the remodeled Constitution by New York voters.

The convention is striving to complete its work by Sept. 26 and send its recommendations to the electorate in the Nov. 7 election.

Travia observed that several weeks usually elapse between the time a judicial nominee's name is sent to the Senate and ultimate confirmation of the appointment.

Rosendale Soldier Decorated in Viet

The Army Commendation Medal for heroism in Vietnam has been awarded to Sp/4 Robert J. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Smith of 91 Main Street, Rosendale.

Now on Leave

Smith, currently home on 30 days leave, was wounded twice during his years' tour in Vietnam. He was hit by shrapnel in February of this year and received minor wounds in June.

The Citation

"For heroism: on this date, during Operation Billings, Private First Class Smith was serving as a rifleman as his battalion was securing a landing zone near Chi Linh. At approximately 1200 hours, the battalion was suddenly attacked by an estimated regiment of Viet Cong.

"Company commander received word that the reconnaissance platoon was receiving the brunt of the attack and had sustained heavy casualties. Smith immediately volunteered to accompany a squad which was going to the aid of the reconnaissance platoon. While constantly subjected to intense hostile small arms and automatic weapons fire, Smith and his comrades moved 400 meters to the besieged platoon's position.

"After securing the area, Smith's squad set about treating the casualties and moving them to cover. Several times, Smith entered a Viet Cong kill zone to help the wounded men to a rear area where he treated their wounds and prepared them for air evacuation. While returning to the platoon after carrying casualties to the landing zone, Private Smith and his comrades were attacked by eight Viet Cong whom they quickly killed.

"Through his outstanding courage and devotion to duty, Private Smith significantly contributed to the rout of the Viet Cong and saved the lives of many of his fellow soldiers.

"Private First Class Smith's actions are in keeping with the finest traditions of the military service and reflect great credit upon himself, the 1st Infantry Division, and the United States Army."

Clings to Free Tuition Plan Despite Problem of Credit

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Constitutional Convention President Anthony J. Travia clung to his free-college plan today despite claims that it has destroyed investors' faith in the State University's credit.

Eyebrows were raised in the convention Thursday when the State Housing Finance Agency reported that bankers had spurned a $46.6-million offering of bond - anticipation notes for university construction.

Renewed Effort

Republicans took an I-told-you-so attitude and vowed to redouble their efforts to block Travia's drive for a policy of providing free college educations for all New York residents, regardless of their means.

But the Democratic leader, after mulling over the development, told The Associated Press that he was not going to be deterred.

"If this is eventually approved by the voters," he said, "we can make arangements that will guarantee outstanding bonds — and take care of future borrowings, too."

The notes were offered to investors in New York City by the Housing Finance Agency as a matter of routine. The agency handles borrowings for the State University Construction Fund and had marketed $300 million in obligations without incident.

But, the agency reported, it suddenly found no takers for the new offering, designed to raise funds on a short-term basis — to be repaid later from long-term bond issues.

Issues Statement

In response to inquiries, the agency issued a statement that said:

"We are advised that the absence of bidding is attributed to the concern of the prospective purchasers that it may not be possible for the agency to redeem the notes through the sale of definitive bonds, because of the recent act by the Constitutional Convention which would require the Legislature to establish a system of free higher education.

"Such action, if finalized, would apparently bar the State University from continuing to impose tuition charges which form the basis of repayment of the Housing Finance Agency bonds issued for State University purposes."

The agency's controller, Charles A. Fursa, said this was the explanation given by banks that normally invest in its bonds and notes.

During debate on the free-college plan last week, Republicans protested that it would force removal of tuition charges from the State University system, although the money had been pledged to pay off bond borrowings for expansion of university facilities.

Issue Warning

They warned that investors might react unfavorably.

GOP Minority Leader Earl W. Brydges said after Thursday's development that the turn of events was "highly disturbing."

He added:

"It indicates a freightening lack of confidence on the part of the financial community in what normally have been attractive investments.

"Even more disturbing are the implications for the future of public higher education in this state — unless this convention takes action which will reassure potential investors."

Travia noted that Gov. Rockefeller had been among Republicans who opposed his free-college plan and that the Rockefeller family had influential standing in the state's financial community.

"You can put it any way you want," said Travia, "but I can't help wondering whether this reaction by the bankers wasn't arranged, for a purpose."

In any event, Travia said he would hew to his original course.

The free-college provision was forced through the convention by its Democratic majority over strong Republican protests. Like all propositions, it requires a second approval before it is included in the charter to be submitted to New York voters.

Travia said he intended to press for final passage without any change.

Free Tuition Article Attacked by Delegate

As a result of the no tuition move, state university construction bonds could find no takers yesterday.

Bell said today, "The failure of the state to sell state university construction fund bonds is the first visible result indicative of the manner in which Convention President Travia has been running the convention."

Berates Majority

"The Democratic party has majority control and with that control comes the responsibility of leadership and the duty to act responsibly. Propositions must be considered on their merits and not on the narrow basis of partisian political advantage."

The local delegate noted that when the free education article was passed last Thursday, "this potential danger was raised on the floor in debate by Republican spokesmen but they were beaten down." Travia exercized "magnificant political control over his delegates, ramming the free education article through."

Bell brought attention to the fact that the free education article has great political appeal in New York City.

Cites Example

"If the proposition were considered on the merits it becomes obvious that it is unsound. Why should the child of a millionarie receive a free college education, medical school educaion, internship and post graduate work the cost of which has to be paid for by some citizen perhaps earning $8,000 and attempting to support a wife and five children. A wealthy child subsidized in some cases may mean a poor disadvantaged child denied.

"New York State's system of higher education today is the finest in the nation through our various regents scholarships, scholar incentive awards and state guaranteed student loans, any child who has the ability and desire can secure the benefits of a higher education. The Constitutional Convention is a great opportunity for statesmanship to prevail. Unfortunately President Travia has chosen to run the convention on the basis of narrow partisan political advantage."

Freer Heads Demo Slate at Esopus Caucus

George Freer, Union Center, was selected to head up the ticket for local political office at the Town of Esopus Democratic caucus held Thursday night. The caucus held at the Town Hall, Port Ewen, was attended by 164, the largest number of voters to attend a Democratic caucus in the history of the township.

Runoff Vote

Interest in the caucus was heightened by a contest for nomination for the post of supervisor between Freer and Lewis C. Kirschner. Several nominating and seconding speeches were made for each candidate. In the runoff, 158 Democrats voted with Freer receiving 91 votes and Kirschner 67 votes.

Candidates for the other town offices to be voted on in November were selected without opposition. Mrs. Dora Guida, Rifton, was nominated for the post of town clerk; Frank W. Lutz, Port Ewen, was named for the post of tax collector and Edward F. Van Loan, Port Ewen, received the nod for the post of highway superintendent.

James J. Fairley, Ulster Park, received the nomination for the post of assessor for the four year term; John J. Dugan, St. Remy, was named for the post of assessor for the two-year term; Frank Hart, Esopus, was given the nomination for the post of justice-of-the-peace; Mrs. Helen Oberkirch, Ulster Park, was nominated for the position of councilman.

Mabie Presides

The caucus was opened by Walter Bailey, Town of Esopus Democratic party chairman. Incumbent town Supervisor Roger W. Mabie was elected presiding officer of the caucus and Mrs. Winifred Neher was elected caucus secretary.

A committee for the purpose of filling vacancies, if required, was appointed and consisted of Walter Bailey, Cornelius Lynch and Mrs. Marilyn Coffey.

After the selection of candidates, the caucus was addressed by Dr. Gerald P. Gorman, Ulster County Democratic party chairman and by Mrs. Rose Hogan, vice-chairman of the Ulster County Democrats.

Ask Legislation To Aid Migrant Labor Status

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Raymond R. Corbett, president of the New York State AFL - CIO, called today for federal legislation that would permit migrant workers to bargain with their employers and wages and working conditions.

The state's 33,000 migrant farm workers are the "poorest of the poor" who, by exclusion from labor bargaining laws, are "denied the effective right to help themselves," Corbett said in remarks for a hearing of the Senate subcommittee on migratory labor.

The subcommittee is considering legislation to extend collective bargaining to farm workers, prohibit harmful agricultural child labor, and improve programs of recruitment and placement of workers.

The subcommittee will inspect housing and survey working conditions of the migrants in the Rochester area. Sen. Harrison A. Williams, D-N.J., subcommittee chairman said. Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., is presiding officer of the hearing, and Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R - N.Y., is a panel member.

Corbett also scored the exclusion of farm workers from unemployment insurance, state minimum-wage laws, and sickness and disability benefits.

Woodstock GOP Names Slate

Woodstock Republicans, meeting in caucus Thursday night, named their candidaes for the November election making only one change in the slate that now presides.

For the post of assessor, four years, the nomination went to George W. Eichler. The incumbent, Fred G. Freitag, did not seek reelection.

Candidates renominated include: supervisor, William R. West; town clerk and collector, Marjorie Harder; superintendent of highways, William Klementis; justice of the peace, Rudolph C. Baumgarten; councilman, Arthur McDaniel and assessor, Birge H. Simmons.

Trailers Going Shortly

Two concessionaire's trailers parked at Dietz Stadium this summer have been the subject of considerable controversy and vandalism. Efforts of the City Clerk Thomas R. Lyle to have the owner, Fred J. Davi of Saugerties remove them have not been successful.

The city, which has an ordinance prohibiting trailers within its boundaries, may have to resort to legal action, Lyle said.

Reached by phone today, Davi told the Freeman he plans to remove the trailers "within a day or two."

He explained that because someone broke into the trailers this summer and police were investigating the matter, he has been hesitant to move them from the site.

Meanwhile, the city offered Davi the use of a small building on the stadium site for use as a refreshment stand.

Boat Course To Be Offered

The Mid-Hudson Power Squadron will offer its free course in small boat handling starting on Monday, Sept. 11 at 7:30 p. m. The classes will be held at the Kingston High School and will run for about 13 weeks.

This course is offered free of charge to the public as part of the Power Squadron's program of safe boat handling through education and cooperation with the agencies of the United States Government charged with enforcement of laws and regulations relating to navigation. The classes are open to men and women over the age of 16. Ownership of a boat is not required.

The opportunity for skippers, and would be skippers, to learn safe, happy boating through the skillful teaching of this unique organization should not be missed. Philip DeGrandis of Poughkeepsie, commander of the Mid-Hudson Squadron, expressed his conviction that many tragedies, and near tragedies, could be avoided by participation in the free Power Squadron's courses.

The classes include safety afloat, seamanship, small boat handling, equipment and government regulations, rules of the road, manners and customs, aids to navigation, charts and the compass. All of the instructors are members of the Mid-Hudson Squadron.

Local Salesman Named Winner of Humble's Award

Humble Oil & Refining Company, from its Northeastern Region offices in Pelham, N.Y., has announced the presentation of a 5 year safe driving award to Vincent M. Cahill of Sunset Garden Apartments, Kingston, N. Y. Mr. Cahill is associated with the company's marketing office in Kingston.

Paul Remick Jr., operations manager of Humble's eight-state Northeastern Region, indicated in making the announcement that the awards are made annually to recognize the accident-free driving accomplishments of employes under the company's safety program.

"The best designed vehicle on the road is only as safe as the man behind the wheel," Remick stated in making the announcement. "Our safe driving training stresses defensive driving techniques and the need to watch out for the other fellow. The practice of avoiding trouble by anticipating it enables our trucks and automobiles to achieve some 21 million miles of safe driving annually."

List Sales Rise For Grand Union Through Aug. 26

EAST PATERSON, N. J.—Sales of The Grand Union Company for the five-week period ended August 26, 1967, totaled $84,328,860, it was announced today by the large food and general merchandising chain. This represents a gain of 9.8 per cent over sales of $76,778,399 in the comparable period of 1966.

For the first twenty-six weeks of the company's fiscal year, through August 26, sales were $439,158,578, an increase of 7.7 per cent over sales of $407,805,115 in the corresponding period a year ago.

Grand Union, which operates supermarkets and Grand Way discount department stores in 11 states, Washington, D. C., and Puerto Rico, had 541 retail outlets open at the end of August, 1967, as compared to 533 at the same time a year ago.

New Hercules Plan

Hercules Incorporated of Wilmington, Delaware, and Dainippon Ink & Chemicals, Inc., of Tokyo, announced today that approval of the Japanese Government is being sought for a new joint venture to manufacture specialty paper chemicals under an exclusive license from Hercules.

The proposed new company will offer to the Japanese paper industry a variety of wet-strength resins, wax and resin emulsions, neutral sizing agents, and special-type defoamers.

Bridge Traffic, 'Take' Up

Traffic and revenue along the Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge increased during August compared to figures recorded a year ago, it was disclosed today.

$57,874 Revenue

According to information published by the New York State Bridge Authority, 213,485 vehicles traversed the the bridge during August, collecting monies amounting to $57,874.75. Last year's totals were 203,709 vehicles crossing with $56,053 paid receipts.

Revenue collected from the five-bridge complex, dubbed the State Bridge Authority, is used to pay off State bond issues. The authority is considered a self-sustaining unit.

However, not all bridges recorded an increase. Poughkeepsie's Mid-Hudson Bridge listed a decrease of 23,217 vehicles crossing and a loss of $9,276. The authority said 436,288 vehicles used the bridge during August compared to 459,505 a year back. Money collected showed $116,210. Last August $125,486 was collected.

Figures for the other bridges are as follows: Rip Van Winkle Bridge — 191,479 vehicles for Aug. of 1967; 190,133 for August '66. Revenue collected totaled $58,496 this August; $56,185 for last August.

Bear Mountain Bridge—226,569 vehicles for Aug. of 1967; 234,718 for Aug. of '66. Monies appropriated totaled $59,557 this Aug.; $61,719 a year ago.

Cheaper Toll

And last, Newburgh-Beacon—389,902 vehicles for Aug. '67; 310,693 a year back. Revenue collected amounted to $107,359 this Aug.; $157,526 for Aug. of 1966. The decrease in revenue, despite increased traffic, is a result of a bridge toll reduction. The toll used to be 50 cents per crossing. Today it is only a quarter.

Beethoven Backwards

JAMESTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — As offbeat entertainment, the Chautauqua Symphony Orchestra presented a backwards version of the first part of the first movement of Beethoven's Fifth Symphony.

Walter Hendl, who was directing the orchestra at Chautauqua Institution, asked French horn player Lester Salomon to write every note for every instrument backwards, from end to beginning.

To get into the spirit of the performance, Hendl had the players turn their backs to the audience. He conducted the unique arrangement from the rear of the platform.

Governor's Compact

The National Governors Conference next month will give top priority to the request of the Midwestern Governors for an interstate compact that would let a Governor request National Guard forces from a neighboring state if hard pressed to put down civil disorders. The request grew out of criticsm of Guard performance in last month's ghetto riots.

The Midwestern Governors, evenly divided six Democrats and six Republicans, found common ground in their wariness about asking Washington for military forces to put down disorders. They agreed that the first responsibility for maintaining law and order belongs to the state and local governments.

Also, they agreed that the states should have commensurate authority over the social and economic programs that are largely Federally financed, and which are designed to eliminate the causes of discontent, resentment and discrimination by reason of race or poverty. Thus they felt they could eliminate the causes of violence.

It is questionable if such a compact would be constitutional, unless it is authorized by Congress. Congress approved a civil defense compact for New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Connecticut in 1952. This could be a precedent for a National Guard compact among all 50 states. But any authorization would be limited. The Guard may be called at any time on Federal duty and the final word for its disposition lies with the Commander-in-Chief of the armed forces.

Legislative Backlash

When 59 Republican freshmen replaced as many Democrats in the House of Representatives in January, they created a legislative backlash that brought a marked shift to the right in both houses of Congress. Should the trend continue in the election next year, the effect may be felt both in the control of Congress and even in the election of the President.

For these freshmen Congressmen were the first result of a philosophic swing in the electorate that has just come to light. If they mirror the desire of their constituents, they mean that the country is turning away from the liberal philosophy introduced by Woodrow Wilson and expanded by Franklin D. Roosevelt and his successors; and is wondering if it should take a breather to consolidate some of its gains before embarking on new adventures.

These thoughts are based on the rating given members of the Congress by the organization called Americans for Constitutional Action, which was founded in 1958 to promote the election of constitutional conservatives to Congress.

ACA found the House took a conservative stand on 48.4 per cent of the legislation before it this year, a rise from 43.8 per cent the year before. The Senate, where the change in membership was not so marked, took a conservative stand 45.2 per cent of the time as against 41.6 per cent last year.

House members were rated on their votes against increasing the debt limit, rent subsidies, food stamps, the Teachers Corps, aid to elementary and secondary schools and other administration programs. Senate ratings were based on opposition to a consular treaty with the Soviet Union, to continuation of the Appalachian regional development program, to an increase in the debt limit and several other issues.

In a sense, ACA is the opposite to Americans for Democratic Action, which usually rates members of Congress for their liberal votes. That rating, when it comes, will still show an edge to the liberals, but eroded from recent years. These ratings reflect the current struggle in Congress and the one ahead in next year's campaign. If it is an accurate mirror, then the election should be one of the closest in years, a duplicate of the Kennedy-Nixon fight of 1960.

Three gangsters were overheard on a tapped telephone plotting the murder of an informer who was giving information to the Federal Narcotics Bureau in Brooklyn. The informer was subsequently slain. The hoods were indicted for his murder. Since, wiretapping was held unconstitutional, the accused men must be released, though their plotting was verified. No wonder prosecutors fear police are now handcuffed.

The United States expelled two Soviet embassy officials for espionage. The Soviet Union expelled two American diplomats. Then three Soviet cars disappeared in Washington. Three American cars disappeared in Moscow. The game seems to be a modern version of the Biblical eye for an eye. The cold war name for it is, keep face.

Rep. Hale Boggs of Louisiana, the Democratic Whip, has an explanation for the lethargy of the 90th Congress. "People aren't demanding anything new," he said. That is why there is no sense of urgency. He might also have added, so much money has already been appropriated, Congress might better go home before it bankrupts the country.

David Lawrence Says

Cities, Not Congress, Should Control Rats

WASHINGTON — A most significant example of how easily public opinion in America is misinformed—if not misled—is the impression prevelent today because the federal government is unwilling to spend 40 million dollars to control rats.

On the surface it might seem that Congress is indifferent about the hazards to people from rat bites and the damage to property that can come from what appears to be a "population explosion" of rats. When Congress refused to grant the request by President Johnson that 40 million dollars be spent over a two-year period for rat control, the idea somehow spread across America that the problems of the cities are being neglected, even though the great proportion of the estimated 90 million rats of the country are in rural areas.

Are the towns, cities and counties going to sit back and expect the federal government to do their jobs for them? Rats are not a new phenomenon, and methods of controlling them have been available for many decades. The fact is that some major cities, like Detroit and Milwaukee, have rat-control programs and have substantially reduced the incidence of rat bites. Disease developing from rat bites has been virtually eliminated in many of the cities.

It was the feeling of Congress that local communities with a rat problem should be responsible for the handling of it. If Congress were to be required to take care of the prevention of rat bites, there are plenty of other bites—from cats, dogs, pigs and horses—which could give the federal government an interminable responsibility.

Experience has shown that the most efficient means of fighting rats is a program of starvation and poisoning. The first step—already a part of the sanitation code of most cities and towns—is that all garbage and discarded food shall be stored or disposed of only in metal containers with tight-fitting covers. Once food is made unavailable, hungry rats will eat certain poisons which are harmless to humans and other animals but are effective against rats.

There is one function in all this for the federal government. It is to make studies and provide guidance. Three federal programs dealing with the rat problem already are in existence. The Department of the Interior studies rat-control methods, and gives information on the subject, in a project costing 27 thousand dollars a year. The Public Health Service spends 229 thousand dollars annually on research into rats, and the General Services Administration uses 200 thousand dollars a year to get rid of rats in federal buildings.

It is estimated that it costs about 600 thousand dollars per hundred thousand of human population to exterminate rats, or six dollars per person. Thus, a federal program of only 20 million dollars a year would have little effect on the 90 million rats. If, however, every city fulfilled its job of rat control, the cost would be spread throughout the muncipalities of the country. Experts say that if cities enforced ordinances requiring the proper handling of garbage, and then carried on a program of poisoning, the rat problem would disappear.

The furor over rats is an illustration of how easily cities can forsake their own responsibilities and begin to rely on the federal government for everything. The finger of blame on rat control needs to be pointed not at Congress but at those cities which have neglected to institute programs known to be effective in getting rid of rats.

If the federal government is called upon to deal with every problem of the states, cities and counties, the national debt will grow substantially every year, and the economic condition of the country will be adversely affected. There is a better chance to handle welfare programs and their expenses at the local level than in Washington. But local governments apparently are beginning to feel that if the federal government is to be in the business of taking care of the public welfare on almost everything, it might as well drive out the rats, too.

Congress for once has shown courage in refusing to spend federal funds on a problem which states and cities can handle on their own.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

A note from Jack Mulligan, publicity manager of Time Magazine, says: "I'd like to draw your personal attention to the enclosed material from the current issue of Time; it may prove of particular interest to you." The enclosure is a lead story on Lyndon B. Johnson. It tells how isolated he is; how insulated from us, the people.

The President is about as isolated as a naked beauty in Times Square; about as insulated as a Peeping Tom with an eye to 100,000,000 keyholes. I have never known a buttinsky like Lyndon Johnson. In the eleven days I spent with him and his family—in the White House and at the Texas ranch—it became obvious that no subject was too small for his interest; nothing at home or abroad escaped his scowling gaze.

I don't run Time Magazine. Nor would I risk the presumption of telling them how to write their corkscrew publication. However, certain personality flaws show up in it. Time would rather damn than praise; belittle than assess; ridicule than report. It has been, for almost 45 years, an experiment in group journalism. The result appears to be sophisticated cant on a slant. Often, the most surprised reader is the Time reporter who researched the story.

". . . Lyndon Johnson," the article says, "seems strangely insulated from his countrymen's doubts and fears." Ever see a man who has just knocked over a beehive? That's my impression of the same man. He's busy slapping, cursing, running and he is acutely aware of the indignation of the bees.

Mr. Johnson, in truth, is close to a Big Brother complex. He devotes too much time to television news reports, too much time to newspapers and columnists, too much time to reports from executive assistants, and ambassadorial reports that should concern Dean Rusk rather than the President.

"One of his favorite rooms in the White House," the story continues, "is a small private study a few steps down the hall from his oval office. Heavy green curtains keep the sunlight out; the phone is muted to reduce noise . . . In this womb with no view, he is at ease, cheerful, convinced that the country and the world are in tolerably good condition."

It is not one of his favorite rooms. My notes show that, in a 16-hour work day, he spent 37 minutes in this alcove. The rest was divided between his huge office; the office of Juanita Roberts, his secretary; the yellow room on the second floor of the White House; a couch in the Rose Garden; and his bedroom.

The "womb" is an adjunct to the office of Mr. Marvin Watson, the appointments secretary. It was used by Presidents Truman and Eisenhower for cat naps; it is now the place where Lyndon Johnson likes to meet with "unofficial, unrecorded visitors": a diplomatic hideaway.

I could not, and would not, be an apologist for Mr. Johnson. He has as many faults as the geologic crust of California.

But, when Time speaks of civil rights and intones: "Instead of being seen on the ghetto battlegrounds this summer, he has repeatedly posed for pictures chin-chucking and nose-nuzzling with his infant grandson," they cause wonderment and dismay among men who still regard journalism as a professional calling.

". . . the big difference between Johnson and the four Presidents he knew—Roosevelt, Truman, Eisenhower and Kennedy—is that for all his vitality, his political acumen and his impressive record of legislative achievement, he fails to communicate effectively and consistently with his constituency."

This, I believe, is a fact. Some of the President's speeches sound like high school term papers. They limp from platitude to platitude, and they lack the one great strength Lyndon Johnson has—fight. He looks like a battler; he is a battler; he has conviction and courage, but he sounds like a haloed martyr who is suffering in silence.

His popularity is low; his enemies outnumber his friends. The press often exercises its freedom by making contemptuous jokes about Lyndon. The Presidency of the United States has not been at such ebb since Harry Truman ran against Thomas E. Dewey. Next year, it is likely that millions of people may vote Republican—not because of faith in the candidate — but as a protest against Lyndon Johnson.

If so, the loss of key states may be ascribed to Mr. Johnson's unshakeable determination to play Gomer Pyle. He is, I assure you, magnificent as a fighter and he can point his index finger, narrow his lids, and hit you with more facts than a cop at the scene of an accident.

The sweet sad solemn face Mr. Johnson presents to the American people now is about as spurious as Cassius Clay swearing that he is not a fighter, he's a minister. The President might show his true colors to advantage by teeing off on Time. . .

Critics War on McNamara

WASHINGTON — Biggest backstage debate in Washington and the Pacific is whether Secretary of Defense Bob McNamara will resign.

The top brass in the Pentagon and the Pacific have been doing their best to goad him into submitting his resignation. So have potent members of the Armed Services Committees. Together they have been laying the groundwork for his political demise.

However, McNamara, for all his mild manner, is tough and doesn't throw in the towel easily. The Pentagon brass and the armchair strategists on Capital Hill may have met their match.

Bitterest of these armchair critics is Rep. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, an alcoholic who when not drinking can be a very shrewd political in-fighter. Figuring that his animosity against the Secretary of Defense was too well known, Rivers persuaded Rep. Porter Hardy, Virginia Democrat, to spearhead a probe.

The Hardy investigators have been getting ammunition from the right wing and surreptitiously from those close to the Joint Chiefs of Staff, all aimed at doing dirty to McNamara what Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate Preparedness Committee, has been doing on a more dignified basis.

Stennis is fair and respectful. But he has invited all of McNamara's critics to appear in closed-door sessions to sound off against the one-time president of Ford Motors and one-time professor at the Harvard School of Business who now runs the Pentagon.

There are several reasons why the generals and the admirals don't like McNamara. First, he is smarter than they are, gets up earlier in the morning than they do, sometimes calls them before they even get to their desks.

First Real Secretary

More important is the fact that McNamara not merely is called Secretary of Defense, HE IS the Secretary of Defense. Furthermore he is the first real Secretary of Defense. Hitherto the Pentagon brass really ran things.

Beginning with James Forrestal, the first Secretary of all three services, every "boss" of the Pentagon has let the generals and the admirals be boss. The job of being executive over the far-flung 3,000,000 men of the Armed Services, their weapons, their equipment, their logistics and tactics, has been too much for any one man in the past.

Not, however, with McNamara. He knocks heads together; does not let them run the Pentagon.

Here are some of the differences:

Difference No. 1 — McNamara has been proved right about bombing North Vietnam. He was not enthusiastic about bombing in the first place and spoke out in that White House 2 a. m. session on the night of Feb. 7, 1965, when the bombing of the north was finally rammed through over the vigorous protest of acting Secretary of State George Ball, and the milder objection of the Secretary of Defense.

Later McNamara reminded the Joint Chiefs publicly that bombing the north had not prevented the infiltration of North Vietnamese troops south; infiltration of troops had doubled.

Difference No. 2 — McNamara sided with the President in opposing the bombing of MIG bases in North Vietnam at a time when the Generals, reinforced by Senators Stennis, Stuart Symington, D-Mo., and Hawk Thurmond, R-S.C., were screaming that these bases be targets.

Finally the President yielded. Whereupon the North Vietnamese merely moved their MIG bases onto Chinese territory, as McNamara predicted they would.

Difference No. 3 — Inside the National Security Council McNamara has been pushing the current maneuver of letting the newly elected South Vietnamese leaders take the initiative for peace. The President is reported to have bought the idea.

Difference No. 4 — McNamara has argued that North Vietnam has been pretty well saturated by American bombs; that the more important targets have been hit and there is no use pulverizing the country. Gen. Harold K. Johnson, Army Chief of Staff, has vigorously disagreed in testimony before the Stennis Preparedness Committee, while Gen. Wallace Green, Commandant of U. S. Marines, has publicly stated that the war in Vietnam is more important than race riots in the big cities, a political matter completely outside his field of competence.

In 1963 when Admiral George Anderson, then Chief of Naval Operations, got too independent of his civilian superiors, President Kennedy promptly transferred him to be Ambassador to Partugal.

Johnson, however, recently signed into law a provision that the Joint Chiefs of Staff shall serve for four years, thus citting off his own power as Commander-in-Chief to choose and relieve his own military leaders. It's this job security which has recently increased the boldness of the Joint Chiefs in challenging their Secretary of Defense.

In this battle between the No. 1 member of the Cabinet and the military leaders, President Johnson has been intensely loyal to his Secretary of Defense. He goes out of his way to praise McNamara on any and all occasions. However, in policy matters the President has frequently accepted the judgment of his generals and admirals, and as a result, the battle between military and the civilian chiefs of the Pentagon goes on.

U.S. District Court Judges Endorse Anti-Riot Bill

By JOHN CHADWICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — Many U.S. District Court judges not only have endorsed the House-passed anti-riot bill but also suggested amendments to make it tougher.

The Senate Judiciary Committee had copies of the bill sent to each of the 338 district court judges, with a request for their comments and recommendations for improving it or making it more readily enforceable.

Replies so far from about 100 judges in all parts of the country are running 80 per cent or better in favor of the bill.

Two indicated they opposed the bill, and some replied it would be inappropriate to comment or took no position on the merits of the legislation. Several suggested it might be difficult to enforce.

Perhaps the most unusual reply was the letter from Chief Judge Charles E. Wyzanski Jr. of the U.S. District Court in Massachusetts. He wrote:

"My position with respect to this bill is identical with that of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts." At the windup of the Judiciary Committee's hearings on the bill, Kennedy said it had "ample public relations value but very little substance." He has maintained it distracts attention from social and economic factors he believes generate riots.

The bill would make it a federal crime to go from one state to another with intent to incite a riot. It would provide penalties of up to five years' imprisonment or a $10,000 fine, or both.

Would Stiffen Sentence

Some of the judges recommended stiffening the maximum prison term. Judge Edwin D. Steel Jr. of Delaware and Judge Joe Eaton of the Southern District of Florida proposed 10 years. Chief Judge William H. Timbers of Connecticut suggested a maximum 20 years. And Judge Pierson M. Hall of the Southern District of California recommended the bill provide for life imprisonment or death in the event a riot incited by an outside agitator resulted in any one being killed.

Judge Luther Bohanon of the Western District of Texas suggested amending the bill to require that bail for anyone caught inciting a riot be set in an amount "to make sure the accused be confined until such time as the danger of riot has passed in whatever locality the riot may be imminent."

Some of the judges recommended deletion from the House-passed bill of language saying that to incite to riot "shall not mean the mere advocacy of ideas or the mere expression of belief."

Judge Carl A. Weinman of the Southern District of Ohio said: "You are setting forth what might be a defense" for a person accused of inciting to riot.

Similarly, Chief Judge James C. Connell of the Northern District of Ohio wrote: "Why should the law-making body invent defenses to the law which it enacts and thus negate the end it seeks to accomplish?"

Connell added, "Frankly, this looks to me as if the law is unconsciously being watered down before it ever comes into existence."

But Judge Myron L. Gordon of the Eastern District of Wisconsin wrote he was pleased to see that the "advocacy of ideas or the mere expression of belief" was excluded as an offense. He said "that goes a long way toward making the bill enforceable."

Ellenville Hospital Event at Nevele

The second annual dinner-dance of the Ellenville Community Hospital has been scheduled for Sunday night, Nov. 19, according to Benjamin Lonstein, president of the community non-profit hospital. The hospital's gala fund-raising event will be held at the Nevele Country Club, Ellenville.

Last year's highly successful program saw a capacity crowd of nearly 800 throng the Homowack Lodge, Spring Glen to make it one of the most successful social events in Ellenville history. Over $40,000 was raised for the hospital from the sale of tickets.

Selected to serve as chairman this year is Louis Resnick, vice-president of the Ellenville Community Hospital. Serving on the dinner committee with Resnick will be Mrs. Harriet Breslow, Irving Binder, Arthur Chipp, Irving Esrig, Dr. Alfred Feldshuh, David Swinden and Harry Rieger, chairman of last year's outstanding dinner.

Tickets to the $100 a couple dinner-dance will be placed in the mail within a few weeks, according to Resnick. The dinner mailing will contain an invitation, ticket, and a response card on which seating requests are to be listed. Complete tables of eight, 10 or 12 may be reserved.

All of the proceeds will be used to further the hospital's continuing goal of higher standards of patient care for all who require it. Persons desiring to make immediate advance reservations for the dinner - dance may do so by contacting a member of the dinner committee or by calling Evald-Bors Koefoed, hospital administrator.

Saugerties, Marlboro X-Ray Programs Listed

Two area Public X-ray Programs have been developed by the Ulster County TB and Health Association and scheduled for the week of Sept. 18.

In announcing this today, Saugerties Banker John M. Robbins, TB Association president, noted that this will be the first public X-raying available since the discontinuance of the State X-ray Bus Units, and will be made possible by the TB Group in cooperation with the Ulster County Department of Health. The program was organized and will be directed by Association Executive Director E. Robert Johnson.

Johnson pointed out that the Saugerties Area Public X-ray Program is scheduled for Tuesday, Sept. 19 from 6 p. m. to 8 p. m. at Simmons Plaza, Rt. 9W, Barclay Heights at the W. T. Grant store. A second session will be conducted Wednesday, Sept. 20 from 1 p. m. to 4 p. m. at the Saugerties Municipal Building, Partition Street, Saugerties Village. The second area Public X-ray is scheduled for the Marlboro-Milton area Friday, Sept. 22, 3 p. m. to 5 p. m. and 6 p. m. to 8 p. m. at the Marlboro Elementary School on Rt. 9-W.

"The new Public X-ray Programs scheduled for these two county areas have been established as a result of public interest and requests," Johnson explained. "The former Mobile X-ray Program could not be provided any longer inasmuch as our New York State Public X-ray Mobile Units were entirely dicontinued. In consequence, our Ulster County TB Association Board of Directors agreed that TB Association resources and staff should be used to institute a locally provided X-ray Program." The Ulster County Department of Health will provide X-ray Program follow-up.

A minimal charge will be required to help fund the Public X-ray Program, Robbins and Johnson said, inasmuch as the TB group has procured a commercial X-ray Mobile Unit for the program. The charge will help to defray the cost of X-ray plate, and the costs of service which include professional reading of each plate by Chest Clinicears and the further TB office preparation of individual X-ray records, case files, the mailing of X-ray reports to individuals, doctors and key persons, and organizational and office costs.

The full balance of these services will be paid by the TB Association from its Ulster County Christmas Seal Funds. Full X-ray records will be maintained at the TB Christmas Seal Headquarters of the Ulster County TB Association and will be available to physicians and X-rayed individuals.

Further specific information concerning the Saugerties Public X-ray Program, and the Marlboro-Milton Public X-ray Program is available by contacting Johnson at the TB Association Headquarters.

Second Open House At Kinderhook Site

HUDSON—Restoration 1737 Campaign Headquarters is completing plans for the second Van Alen Pre-Restoration Open House, to be held Sunday, Sept. 10, from 1 to 6 p. m.

By popular demand, this event has been scheduled for a second showing due to the wide interest in the progress of this 230-year-old original Dutch farmstead which has received nationwide attention through the fund drive campaign now underway to raise $100,000 to preserve this Pre-Revolutionary historic treasure located in Columbia County.

An Open House showing held Aug. 20 featured a Dutch-styled kitchen authentically duplicated by Gardell D. Christensen, representative of the Division of History, University of the State of New York, Department of Education. The kitchen display will be repeated, together with a replica of a Dutch living room of the 1737 period — known to the Dutch of that time as the "Great Hall."

As during the first opening, there will be represented the famed characters—they will be Katrina Van Tassel by Cathy Kane; Ichabod Crane by Karl Ahlers Jr. (both members of the Claverack Players). The Headless Horseman will once again take up his famous ride for all those who will attend the command performance. The riders at the first opening were the two sons of Donald Balint of Stuyvesant Falls.

Tea will be served in the old Dutch tradition of that period.

In charge of the Dutch Hostesses will be Mrs. Edward Higgins. Also on hand will be Datus Schaltegger, restorer; Paul Patchin, Project Development Chairman; President Robert Cullen and Mrs. E. E. Dorman of the Columbia County Historical Society and Co-Chairmen Hilary Masters and James W. Chapman.

Enemy Toll Is 92

Marines Upset Red Ambush

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Marines combed the jungles and paddy fields for Communist troops in South Vietnam's northern war zone today after turning the tables on a Red ambush and killing 92 of the enemy.

Far to the south, in the Mekong delta, South Vietnamese reported killing 54 members of the Viet Cong's Tay Do battalion, one of the most seasoned Red units in the delta.

Several big Marine sweeps were under way in the northern provinces where nearly 700 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong have been reported killed in hard fighting since Monday around Tam Ky, on the coast, and below the demilitarized zone some 140 miles to the northwest.

American casualties in the area total 115 dead and 382 wounded so far this week, the U.S. Command said.

Although no significant action was reported from the area since Thursday, the Strategic Air Command kept up two-a-day raids by its high-altitude B52 bombers to aid the Marines.

One strike Thursday night hit the A Shau Valley infiltration route, in the northwest corner of the country, which has been funneling supplies to the Reds fighting in Quang Nam and Quang Tin provinces.

A second strike early today hit the infiltration route through the demilitarized zone above the Marine outpost at Con Thien, the axis of much recent fighting.

The battles his week in the northernmost provinces—and scattered fighting elsewhere—ended decisively a lull in the ground war that had lasted more than two months. It was evident the Communists, freshly supplied and fairly close to their bases in North Vietnam, were mounting a new offensive in the North, but ranking U.S. officers declined to speculate on whether the Red goal was more battles of attrition to wear down American forces, a campaign to take control of one of the politically sensitive provinces, which seemed unlikely, or something else.

Ready New Attacks

The Communists were evidently also preparing new rocket attacks in the North similar to previous bloody assaults on the big U.S. air base at Da Nang. Marine fighter-bomber pilots reported finding and destroying 36 rocket positions in the northern battle area Thursday.

The gravity of the Communist threat in the northern provinces was underlined by U.S. Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara's announcement in Washington that an early warning barrier of barbed wire, mines and electronic detection devices would be stretched across South Vietnam below the DMZ.

McNamara said the defense line would not stop the flow of North Vietnamese south but would slow them up and the electronic alarms would bring mobile American units by helicopters and tanks to meet them.

Black clouds of the new monsoon season forced a cutback in air action over North Vietnam Thursday, and U.S. strikes again were limited mainly to the southern part of the country. Fighter- bombers concentrated on rail lines, antiaircraft sites and storage facilities.

On the political front, President-elect Nguyen Van Thieu, strengthened by the failure of his running mate, Premier Nguyen Cao Ky, to win control of South Vietnam's new senate, made plain that he intends to be the top man in the new government in fact as well as name.

Thieu refused to appear on a U.S. television program with his vice president-elect, underscoring the feud between the two victors in Sunday's presidential election.

Auto Strike May Be Long As Both Sides Stand Firm

DETROIT (AP) — There were several indications today that the United Auto Workers strike may halt Ford auto production for a long time as both sides stood firm.

And while the walkout by some 160,000 members of the auto workers union has halted Ford operations in 25 states, 1968 model cars rolled off assembly lines at General Motors and Chrysler.

No Progress

No progress has been reported in negotiations that began July 11 at Ford and ended just after midnight Thursday when the strike began.

No new negotiations are planned although a subcommittee meeting is scheduled for Monday to work out a schedule for further bargaining.

On the basic wage offer alone both sides appear miles apart.

Referring to the Big Three proposal of Aug. 29, one top union bargainer said, "We could have gotten that same amount if we simply extended or renewed the present agreement."

The company says it has no immediate plans for making a new offer.

Although the strike may force production cutbacks in such automotive suppliers as the steel and rubber industries, the chance of government intervention appears slight at this point.

The federal government has never invoked the Taft-Hartley Act to halt an auto strike. Ford has only one major defense contract, a $91.4 million one for 42,000 Jeeps from the firm's Highland Park, Mich., plant. A company spokesman said the government does not consider this production critical.

Walter P. Reuther, UAW president, led Ford workers off the job for what he calls "the longest and most ambitious list of demands" the union has yet sought.

No Contract

Since both Chrysler and General Motors refused union requests to extend current contracts, union members at the two firms are working, reluctantly, without a contract.

If and when a contract is reached at Ford, the union will use it as a pattern for a settlement at the other two companies.

Union pickets patrolled Ford plants throughout the country with no incidents reported.

Ford says its workers will be losing $5.2 million wages for every day they stay out.

The company will be losing its average daily production of 8,000 cars, 1,800 trucks and 144 tractors.

Ford dealers throughout the country have enough new cars to last a month, 85,000 1968-models and 175,000 1967-models, the company said.

The union is backing its strike with a $6-million fund which will be distributed at the rate of $20 to $30 a week to each striker depending upon marital status and number of dependents.

Brian Epstein Death Blamed On Over Dose

LONDON (AP) — Brian Epstein, the Beatles' manager, died accidentally from "incautious" overdose of sleeping tablets, a coroner's verdict said today.

There was no suggestion of suicide.

A pathologist, Dr. Donald Teare told Coroner Gavin Thurston: "The amount found in the body was equivalent to a small lethal dose, but indications were of repetition, rather than a single dose."

At the time of Epstein's death in his house in fashionable Belgravia on Aug. 27, he and the four Beatles were planning a trip to the United States and Canada. A letter relating to the trip was introduced at the inquest.

Epstein was 32.

Questioned as to how long Epstein might have been taking regular doses of carbrital, Dr. Teare replied: "I would roughly have said weeks rather than days."

The pathologist said an autopsy suggested the presence of between six and nine capsules of carbrital taken over a period of time.

"Bromide has an accumulative effect," he added.

RFK Asks Revision Of U. S. Tax System

Addressing 750 persons at a dinner meeting of the Civil Service Employes Association of New York State Thursday night, Kennedy said:

"Those who earn over $200,000 a year here in the United States pay an actual average of only 27 per cent of their incomes in taxes— an amount equal to what the $13,000 wage earner pays on the next dollar he earns.

"I don't think that this is right, and I think it should be changed."

"In 1965," Kennedy said, "35 people in this country who earned over $500,000 paid no tax at all."

Kennedy proposed revision of the Johnson administration's income tax increase proposal to exempt families of four with incomes of $7,000 a year or less. The current proposal would provide exemptions for families of four with incomes of $5,000 a year or below.

Kennedy was asked if his proposals meant that he was against the proposed income-tax increase, and he replied: "No. I don't have anything beyond what I said."

Geneva Pact Protection For GI's Rebuffed by Ho

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials say Hanoi has rebuffed repeated attempts to gain freedom—or at least Geneva Convention protection—for American prisoners of war.

Some 700 U.S. servicemen are listed as missing in North and South Vietnam. At least 200 are believed to be prisoners of the Reds.

Washington efforts on behalf of the captives have been made through the International Committee of the Red Cross and other channels, but to no avail so far.

North Vietnam claims the prisoners are war criminals, although it says they are getting humane treatment.

But the United States is not accepting such statements on prisoner conditions in the absence of verification by an outside body such as the Red Cross. Hanoi has not allowed Red Cross access to its prisoner camps.

Under the 1949 Geneva Convention on the treatment of prisoners of war, to which North and South Vietnam and the United States are all parties, prisoners "must at all times be humanely treated." It sets food, clothing, shelter and medical care standards, and provides for access to them by an outside group.

Resnick First C of C Speaker Tues. Morning

Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick will be the featured speaker at the first monthly breakfast meeting of the fall for the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce. The meeting will take place promptly at 7:45 a. m. Tuesday, Sept. 19, in the Crystal Room of the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Chamber President, S. James Matthews announced that the congressional report meeting, sponsored by the Chamber's Congressional Action Committee will feature a brief prepared statement by the congressman outlining his assessment of the current Washington scene. Following the statement, there will be an opportunity for Chamber members in the audience to ask questions of the Congressman concerning his current activity in Washington. Mr. Matthews said that this would be the first time that the Congressman has spoken to the general membership of the Chamber of Commerce.

In one other meeting last year, Congressman Resnick was a guest of the Chamber when members of the Common Council, Kingston Urban Renewal Agency, and the Chamber's Local Governmental Affairs Committee were present at a breakfast together with officials from the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Chamber Executive Vice President, Peter O. Allen indicated that reservations are desirable as a large turnout is expected. Reservations will be limited to the first 120 Chamber members and their guests who indicate their intention to attend. Should any vacancies still exist, tickets will be available at the door. However, Allen urged all Chamber members to call the office to specifically reserve places.

Baltimore Threatened

Teacher Rift Widens

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Unrest in the ranks of the nation's teachers widened today as the Baltimore school system was threatened with a strike. Detroit teachers remained out and New York City schools braced for a threatened mass resignation Monday.

Vacations Extended

More than 600,000 youngsters were already enjoying extended summer vacations in Michigan, Broward County Fla., East St. Louis, Ill., and McCracken County, Ky. Strikes in Baltimore and New York could add nearly 1.3 million to that total.

The Baltimore teachers union said a strike could occur before the end of next week after negotiations with school officials broke down Thursday over bargaining procedures and non-teaching duties.

The union representing 8,000 teachers said classes would open Monday as scheduled but warned that the city's more than 194,000 pupils might be back out in the parks and playgrounds before the end of the week. A membership meeting was called for Tuesday.

In Michigan, pickets continued to march in many of the 30 school districts where contracts are yet to be signed. Nearly half a million youngsters in 17 districts—including 300,000 in Detroit—remained locked out of their classrooms.

Both teachers and school officials awaited a state court of appeals hearing Saturday on whether circuit courts can grant injunctions to force teachers without contracts back into the schools.

press purpose of selecting a sole bargaining agent."

A resolution authorizing the issuance of $175,000 serial bonds of the school district to defray the cost of alterations to the Vocational Building was approved. Alterations of the existing building will include furnishings, equipment, machinery and apparatus. An annual appropriation shall be made in each year sufficient to pay the principal and interest on the bonds, and a tax sufficient to pay the principal and interest shall annually be levied on all the taxable property within the district.

Base Bids Listed

Bids for alterations to the Vocational Building were awarded to lowest responsible bidders on recommendations of Associate Superintendent for Business Management Shaw and Harry Halverson and Associates, architects.

Successful bidders and the base bids were:

General construction—Henry H. Swart & Son, Kingston, $95,833; Electrical work — Joe E. O'Connor, Inc., Kingston $14,998; Plumbing — R. J. Welsh & Son, Saugerties $2,898; Heating and Ventilating—same contractor—$25,440; Sprinkler system —Grinnel Corp., Albany $2,646.

Dr. Josephson Named

In other business, the Board appointed Dr. Irving J. Josephson, Kingston, medical director for the Kingston School District at an annual salary of $17,000. Trustee Hubert Hoderath, chairman of the building committee, reported work on the new Clifford M. Miller Junior High School at Lake Katrine, is progressing on schedule and should be ready for occupancy next June.

Supt. of Schools Dr. W. Wendell Hoover reported enrollment in the Kingston schools at the close of last year was 10,006 and the enrollment as of yesterday was 10,552, an increase of 546. He noted that last year 742 pupils attended classes at Lake Katrine School and this year the enrollment was 746 after the sixth grades were moved to other schools. The high school enrollment last term was 2,012 and the present enrollment is 2,104, an increase of 91.

The Board signed a tax warrant for Mrs. Edna S. Morgan, collector-treasurer to collect taxes totaling $4,941,354.99 in two installments, the first due on or before Oct. 16, the second on or before Dec. 15.

The 1967-68 rate for the City of Kingston is $50.248 per $1,000. Rates for parts of towns within the district are: Esopus—$109.363; Hurley—$97.851; Kingston — $97.851; Marbletown — $92.958; New Paltz — $143.012; Rosendale—$132.798; Saugerties — $123.944; Ulster — $132.798; Woodstock—$123.944.

Collectors Appointed

The Board approved the appointment of Gordon A. Craig, Edsil Flowers and Walter May tax collectors for the school year 1967-68. The Board voted that the driver education classes for 32 students be conducted on Saturdays and in after school classes during 1967-68 and that an amount not to exceed $3,000 be appropriated for the expenses of additional driver education classes.

Although 12 bids were solicited for band uniforms for Kingston High School, the only bidder was Ostwald, Incorporated for $10,917.50. On recommendation of Ira M. Shaw the contract was awarded that firm.

A resolution was approved by the Board appointing Robert G. Dawkins, of Prudential Insurance Company, 277 Fair Street, as special agent of record for a tax sheltered annuity program of the Kingston City Schools Consolidated. Dawkins replaces William T. Eliis, recently transferred by the insurance company.

North Viets Say 500 Civilians Killed by U.S.

TOKYO (AP) — North Vietnam claimed today that more than 500 civilians were killed and some 1,100 wounded by U.S. forces, mostly aircraft, in assaults in North Vietnam during the first six months of 1967.

Hanoi's official Vietnam news agency made the claim in a long communique from its "commission for Investigation of U.S. Imperialists' War Crimes in Vietnam."

It said the United States has "increased its attacks with an ever greater quantity of bombs and shells," dropping on North Vietnam "68,000 tons in February and 77,000 tons in March." Since then, it said, "attacks have become more and more violent, bombs and shells have been used in greater and greater quantity."

Rail Span Falls Spilling Engine, Car in Water

GOUVERNEUR, N.Y. (AP)— A railroad trestle spanning the Oswegatchie River collapsed Thursday night, spilling a diesel engine and one of six box cars 25 feet into the stream, near this village east of Watertown.

No one was injured, the St. Lawrence County Sheriff's office said.

The New York Central train was pushing the box cars and a caboose along a spur line to a paper mill in the nearby hamlet of Natural Dam. The caboose and five cars had cleared the bridge before the engine and remaining car plunged into the water, deputies said.

The engine "was all but covered" by water, a deputy said.

An estimate of damage was not available immediately.

WOLFEBORO, N.H. (AP) — George Rockwell, 76, co-founder of the Cambridge Rubber Co. and a director of the General Latex and Chemical Corp. of Cambridge, Mass., died Wednesday.

Dr. C. E. Benson

DeGaulle Tours Poland Today

The first stop was Krakow, where De Gaulle was to stay at the Wawel, former palace of Poland's kings, tour the Lenin steel mill and inspect art treasures.

De Gaulle leaves Krakow Saturday for Auschwitz, the Nazi camp where four million persons perished in the war.

A French source said De Gaulle told his hosts during political talks Thursday that East and West Germany should be reunited, but only if they renounce nuclear arms and accept their postwar borders.

A French Foreign Ministry spokesman said De Gaulle told Polish President Edward Ochab he believed Poland would have nothing to fear from a united Germany if it had no nuclear arms.

A Polish source said Ochab told De Gaulle that Poland does not oppose restoring normal relations with West Germany, but only if Bonn makes such policy changes as abandoning its claim to represent all the Germans.

Brezhnev Sees Failure of Mao Cultural Purge

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP) — Leonid I. Brezhnev expressed conviction Thursday of the ultimate failure of Mao Tse-tung's cultural revolution purge, which he said has wrecked the Chinese government and Communist party.

"We are convinced that the cause of socialism will ultimately triumph in China," the Soviet Communist party chief told a rally after Hungary and the Soviet Union renewed the friendship agreement they signed in 1948. The two nations declared that frontiers developed after World War II are inviolate and pledged every measure to repel any attempt by West Germany to change them.

Fiscal Report Now on File

The New York State Dept. of Audit and Control today disclosed it has just completed examining the fiscal affairs of the Village of Saugerties.

State Comptroller Arthur Levitt made the announcement upon completion of the examination of fiscal affairs of a number of towns, villages, schools and other special districts throughout the state.

Worship Services Resume Sunday

The regular order of worship will resume on Sunday, Sept. 10, at the Reformed Church of Saugerties with church services being held at both 9:45 and 11 a. m. For the fall season the minister, The Rev. Orville Jay Hine, will present a series of sermons based on the great psalms of The Old Testament. The sermon for this coming Sunday will be a meditation on Psalm 8.

This Sunday the regular sessions of the Sunday church school will also resume at 9:45 a. m. The children from preschool age through fourth grade will met in the chapel on John Street; those in the fifth grade and above attend the first portion of the early service and are then dismissed for their class sessions.

Kenneth Kennedy will continue as Superintendent of the Sunday church school with the assistance of Chester Wolven as assistant superintendent. There are classes for each school grade and the "Faith and Life Curriculum" of the Presbyterian Church is used throughout the church school.

Nursery care for little children is provided during the 11 a. m. service under the direction of Mrs. Edward Jabs. Parents with little children are urged to leave them in the care provided in the Chapel on John Street.

The choirs of the church will resume their rehearsals this week with the Adult Choir, that sings for the 9:45 a. m. service, rehearsing on Thursday evening at 6:30 o'clock in the Parish Hall. The adults who sing for the 11 a. m. service will rehearse at 7:30 p. m. on Thursday.

Sacrament of Infant Baptism will be observed at the 11 a. m. service this coming Sunday. Parents desiring baptism for their children are asked to communicate with the pastor.

Town Notes

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Ebert of Westfield, N. J. were weekend guests of the Rev. and Mrs. Walter Cowen, Saugerties. Mrs. Ebert presented a green hand crafted stole bearing a Latin cross and an alpha and an omega symbol on each end, done in gold with red shadings. Mrs. Ebert is a member of Redeemer Lutheran Church, Westfield, where a group of women meet bi-weekly for instruction in handcrafting church vestments. The group makes vestments of high quality for their own parish and also provides them as gifts for mission congregations.

The Rev. and Mrs. Werner Weinreich and family of Manorton were dinner guests of the Rev. and Mrs. Cowen, Saugerties, on Labor Day. The Rev. Weinreich has accepted a call to Grace Lutheran Church, North Tonawanda, effective October 1, 1967.

Church School

Saugerties First Congregational Church School reopens Sept. 10 at ten o'clock. The morning service will be conducted at 11 a.m.

Ulster Caucus For GOP Slated Saturday Night

The Town of Ulster Republican Committeemen are preparing for the Republican Caucus Saturday night at the Chambers School at 7 o'clock. Voting machines will be used to expedite the voting procedure. Two years ago the Republican Committee used voting machines at the caucus which proved to be very effective and accurate.

The candidates to be selected for the November election will be for the office of supervisor, town clerk, highway superintendent, one justice of the peace, one councilman, tax collector, assessor four-year term and assessor two-year term.

Persons seeking the Republican nomination for supervisor, the incumbent Thaddeus (Ted) Musialkiewicz, who will be seeking his second term as supervisor. Musialkiewicz served six years as councilman and is finishing his first term as supervisor; Mrs. Alma Macholdt, incumbent, will be seeking her second term as town clerk. Incumbent Edgar P. Elliott will be seeking the nomination for highway superintendent. Elliott served four years as town councilman and six years as superintendent of highways. There will be a contest for justice of the peace with three candidates seeking the nomination, Attorney Sherwood E. Davis, Edward J. Devine presently serving as chairman of the Town of Ulster Planning Board and incumbent Robert S. Stedge seeking a third term.

Councilman Anthony Cicorio, incumbent, will be seeking the nomination for his first four-year term. A contest for tax collector with two candidates seeking the nomination, Nick Valenzano and Harold Atkins. Incumbent Joseph Lohmaier will be seeking the nomination for four-year term as assessor. He presently is the chairman of the board of assessors. Edwin Callahan, incumbent, will be seeking the nomination for two-year assessor.

3,00-Year Dump

TIBURON, Calif. (AP) — Construction workers on the Tiburon peninsula may have uncovered a 3,000-year-old dump.

David Frederickson, an anthropology professor, said the site contains beads, charmstones, spear points, volcanic glass and bone tools discarded by Indians centuries ago.

TRAGEDY—Ten persons were killed near Donner's Grove, Ill. in head-on collision of this stattion wagon and a covertible. Nine of the victims were in station wagon. They included Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hoffmeister and their 5 children, all of nearby Woodridge. Two adults riding with them also died in wreckage. They are tentatively identified as Mr. and Mrs. John Brubaker, Mrs. Hoffmeister's parents. Victim in convertible was identified as Ralph Kushmierz of nearby Lisle, Ill. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Our Boys Write From Vietnam

Editor's Note: The Kingston Daily Freeman is privileged to publish letters written to the Ulster County Vietnam's Servicemen's Committee of Ulster Hose Co. No 5 by Kingston area men serving with the armed forces in Vietnam. We hope in this way we can better let our readers know how our boys in service feel.

* * *

PFC Dennis W. Robinson writes from Vietnam:

"Although we don't know each other personally I'm sure that we both know a great deal about each other. My name is Dennis W. Robinson and I am in the United States Marine Corps, currently serving in the Republic of Vietnam.

"I have been receiving the packages that you and your committee are sending in the name of the People of Ulster County. I would just like to take this opportunity to write and thank you for these most wonderful gifts.

"They serve to remind us that the people back home are behind us and trying to help out. They are a most welcome treat as they include things which are virtually impossible to get over here.

"To date I have received five packages and I understand that more are on the way. In addition, I am receiving copies of The Kingston Daily Freeman and I am just thrilled to get the home town news with such regularity.

"Speaking for myself and I m sure for every other serviceman on your list, I thank both you and the wonderful people of Ulster County for these wonderful gifts. I just hope that I am doing my share so that they may be proud of me as I am of them."

"I would like to take this opportunity to express my thanks to you and your organization for the CARE packages you have sent to me these past several weeks.

"Many of the items are in short supply and therefore we greatly appreciate them. Of course there is never any problem of disposing of the food.

"With luck I will return to the States in two months. At that time I hope to have the opportunity to express my appreciation personally. Thank you for thinking of us over here."

Robert Brink, N. S. A., Da Nang, Vietnam writes:

"I received your warm and welcome gift. It really makes a guy feel good to know that he is thought of, not only by his family and relatives, but by the people of the county he is from.

"I wish to thank all the people that contributed their thoughtfulness.

"It sure does make a guy feel real good. Thanks to you all again."

* * *

Cpl. Thomas Sickler, Third Marine Division, writes from Vietnam:

"I would like to let you know I received the cigarettes and four other packages. I would like also to thank the Ulster Hose Co. very much. It sure is great to know, while you are overseas, people back home are thinking about you.

"I know when I said thanks to the Ulster Hose Co. and everybody else who help out, I say thanks to all from everybody in Vietnam from Ulster County."

Written by Allen Lund of the 180th Support Helicopter Co.:

"It is with my deepest thanks to all of you who have put such good feeling in the gift packages which I received in the mail. I only hope that I may be successful in conveying to you the gratitude felt by myself and in behalf of all of us I want to thank you for your support back home.

"It's a great consolation to have a country such as ours to return to, and you can rest assure that we'll do our best to keep it this way. Thank you again, and may God Bless you all."

Lt. James P. Wagner, executive officer, D Battery, Second Battalion, 12th Marines in Con Thien, writes:

"There is very little I can say in appreciation of the three boxes I have received. I sincerely wish there was some way could put in words what I really think and how I feel for the fine example and thoughts you have shown.

"As is our custom, your many gifts were shared by all the men of this unit. I therefore extend the thanks of the entire unit, Battery D, Second Battalion, 12th Marine Regiment. Thank God there are still some Americans who care."

TODAY IN HISTORY

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1564, a Spanish expedition landed at what is now St. Augustine, Fla., and founded the first permanent settlement of Europeans in North America.

On this date —

In 1664, Peter Stuyvesant surrendered New Amsterdam to the British.

In 1855, the Crimean War ended.

In 1900, a death toll of 6,000 was counted in a hurricane and tidal waves which smashed the Galveston, Tex. area.

In 1935, Huey Long, D-La., was shot at Baton Rouge, La. He died two days later.

Ten years ago — Pope Pius urged the Roman Catholic clergy to study the morality of radio and television, a study similar to the appraisal of motion pictures.

Five years ago — Vice President Lyndon E. Johnson said an overseas tour convinced him that U.S. foreign aid had strengthened allied nations against Communist subversion.

One year ago — Black Power advocate Stokely Carmichael was arrested in connection with rioting in Atlanta, Ga. two days earlier.

Suspend Physicals

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Preinduction physical examinations for the month of September were suspended in Missouri for lack of funds.

Col. R. E. McCain, state manpower officer, said the draft call was being met with class 1A men who already passed their physicals.

Loyalty Day Plans In Final Stages

The Kingston Uniformed Fire Fighters Association announced today that plans for the Sept. 23 Loyalty Day Parade are in the final stages and that any organization wishing to participate should contact the Association immediately.

"Loyalty Day in Ulster County is an event in which each and every citizen should partipate," said John Dwyer, publicity chairman for the parade. Dwyer goes on to say "that it is time for the great majority of patriotic freedom loving American citizens to rededicate themselves to the principles for which this nation stands. American heritage is something that was fought for in the past and the fight will have to continue in order to insure freedom from communism. It is an insult to our fighting men and to every American citizen to read and hear of the small minority of our population who are desecrating the American Flag, burning draft cards and participating in demonstrations against our Government.

Let the greater percentage of American citizens come forth and display their Loyalty on this day by joining with patriotic freedom loving organizations to which they belong in the Loyalty Day Parade. Those who are unable to participate in the parade itself can display their loyalty by displaying the American Flag on this day and turning out to witness the parade. Let each and every one of us stand behind the Fire Fighter's in their effort to promote loyalty to the Government and Fighting Men of the United States of America," he concluded.

Auxiliary Police To Meet Monday

The first meeting of the 1967-68 season for members of the Auxiliary Police is scheduled for Monday night, Sept. 11, it was announced today.

The session will be held at 7:30 o'clock at the Moose Lodge meeting rooms, 82 Prince Street.

Uniform inspection will take place. All members are requested to attend. Men, 18 or over, who are interested in the Auxiliary Police, are invited to this meeting.

Grand Jurors Meet

The first meeting of the new season will be held by the Ulster County Grand Jurors Association Monday 8 p. m. at the court house.

Old business for the June meeting will be discussed as well as plans for the coming year.

Lottery Sales Up in August, Albany Report

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Fragmentary reports indicate that more New York State lottery tickets were sold in August than in July, a spokesman for the State Tax Department said Thursday.

The spokesman added, however, that the department would not have the final figures on the sales until Sept. 15.

The actual number sold remains "a conjectural thing," he said, but the reports "looked encouraging."

The July sales were sharply disappointing, grossing only $4,125,698. This was more than $2.3 million below receipts for the initial lottery, in June — and far below the $30 million monthly gross the state had hoped for.

Handicapped Problems Topic At New Paltz

Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick said that, "The handicapped child should be afforded the opportunity to reach his full potential in spite of his physical and mental disabilities. To accomplish this goal, we must become knowledgeable, active advocates of the cause of the handicapped. We must greatly expand the appropriations for programs to assist the handicapped, programs which are now fed with an eyedropper."

The Congressman made this statement in remarks prepared for the "Conference on the Problems of the Handicapped Child" held today at the State University College at New Paltz. The conference is sponsored by the Dutchess County Society for Mental Health, St. Francis' Hospital, and Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick.

Other participants included Anthony J. Pelone, director of the N. Y. State Division for Handicapped Children; Dr. James Moss, acting director, Division of Research, Federal Bureau of Education for the Handicapped and Dr. James A. Gallagher, associate commissioner, Federal Bureau of Education for the Handicapped.

Pleads Guilty Through Interpreter

Through an interpreter, a plea of guilty to attempted assault, second degree, was entered Thursday in County Court by Antonio Oyola Santiago, who admitted that he had attempted to assault one Louis Bevier of New Paltz with a knife Jan. 14, 1967, after a fracas near the Santiago home.

Unable to understand English, Santiago told his story through Mrs. Rachel Arenas of Modena, who acted as interpreter.

Santiago said he had been peeling potatoes with a knife when the incident began. It involved the parking of a vehicle by his home. He said Bevier had come to his house and had threatened him with a "board." Fearing bodily injury, he had chased Bevier with the knife to "scare" him away. He said he did not know whether he actually cut Bevier with the knife or simply cut his jacket. However, he admitted having the knife and threatening Bevier.

Edward Greene appeared for Santiago. Assistant District Attorney Francis Vogt appeared for the prosecution. Judge Raymond J. Mino adjourned imposition of sentence until Sept. 20 at 11 a.m. and remanded Santiago to jail.

Rochester Daily Halts Operation

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — The Rochester Daily Abendpost has ceased publication after 116 years because of what the publisher of the German-language newspaper said were "Insurmountable difficulties."

"Wages, cost of newsprint, mailing rates, taxes and so forth have continually been going higher and higher and are still rising," he said in explaining the "difficulties."

"It was evident that further publication for us would not be economically sound," Stoll added. The final decision to close was delayed "for a long time" in appreciatin to its readers, advertisers and others, he wrote.

The Abendpost, with a circulation of 14,000, served about 75,000 persons of German birth or extraction within a 40-mile radius of Rochester. It published Monday through Friday with 16 employes, two of them women who comprised the editorial staff.

Stoll, whose father Julius Sr. purchased the paper in 1882, was associated with the publication for 66 years, the last 30 as publisher. His editor, Eric Vossmeyer, was a 41-year veteran.

Founded in 1851 as the Beobacter am Genesee (Observer on the Genesee), the paper changed hands and names frequently before the Stoll family acquired it.

Gets Court Post

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — John N. Benoit of Levitttown, a Hempstead town councilman, was appointed by Gov. Rockefeller today to succeed the late Judge Martin Kolbrener on the Nassau County Court.

Benoit, a Republican, may serve under the appointment through Dec. 31. Meanwhile, he is expected to run for a full, 10-year term in the November election.

Boy, 13, Killed

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — An automobile struck and killed a 13-year-old boy Thursday night as he crossed Sheridan Drive in the nearby Town of Tonawanda, police said.

He was Joseph Zmuda, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph J. Zmuda Jr. of the Town of Tonawanda.

Want Voter's Decision On New Town Building

The structure, a proposed building next to the firehouse, would necessitate floating a $45,000 bond issue. The association said it was a matter of principle to permit the electorate to decide the merit of such a building.

A petition will shortly be circulated. It calls for a special election over the bond issue, the association said.

A petition will shortly be circ- by the taxpayers call for repeal of the Blaine Amendment, and that tuition-free education on a college level should not be given every qualified student.

Officers elected for the year 1967-68 were Walter H. Schulman, president; Annette I. Dietz, vice president; Arthur P. Shepard, treasurer; and Zena Wilson, secretary.

Supper Slated

A covered dish supper for church members and friends is scheduled for the church hall of the Methodist Church of Shady on Saturday, Sept. 23, at 6 p.m.

Mrs. Henry P. Eighmey, vice chairman of the Official Board of the Church, announced that the supper was planned by members of the Church Governing Body at its meeting on September 1, for the purpose of "fellowship and fun."

The annual fall roast beef dinner for the public was also announced for the church hall on Saturday, Oct. 14, at 5:30 p.m., with Mrs. Arthur MacDaniel in charge of the dinner. Reservations for this dinner may be made with Miss Evelyn Stone of Shady.

Dutch Reformed

Woodstock Dutch Reformed Church today said it will conduct a congregational meeting at the close of worship, Sunday, Sept. 17. The meeting is to review the status of the funding structure.

Lutheran Church

Christ Evangelical Lutheran Church is starting off the new church school year with a Rally Day this coming Sunday.

Worship services will commence at 9:30 a. m. Following will be a church school registration and then to the YMCA Camp in Shokan for a picnic. Vesper services will conclude the day.

Vocal Concert

Woodstock's Little Theater off-the Green will present a repeat performance of a vocal concert on Saturday, Sept. 23, 8:30 p. m.

It was first performed last Friday evening.

According to persons who attended the concert, it is a delightful performance and well-worth seeing.

Christian Science

Woodstock's Christian Science Church will conduct services Sunday, 11 a. m., from 85 Tinker Street. "Substance" is the title of the Lesson-Sermon this week.

Fire Co. Meets; Japan Discussed

Wilson, who recently returned from Japan after a business trip, spoke on fire apparatus used in Japan and outlined methods used in alerting firemen.

Wilson also reported six fire calls for August for the Woodstock Department, and announced a fire commissioners meeting for September 26.

Captain H. Phillips Eighmey of Company No. 3 reported two fire drills held during the month, and announced September drills for Sunday, at 2 p.m., and Wednesday, Sept. 27, at 7 p.m.—to which all active firemen are requested to be in attendance.

Fire station daily check for the month was assigned to firemen Robert Heinlein, Louis Kolbe, Jack Mergandahl, and Cornelius McCleary.

Alfred Ostrander reported on the successful concession stand held at the Rawhide Ranch Rodeo. He said a profit of $222.92 was made for the building fund of the fire company. Ostrander thanked all firemen and auxiliary members who helped at the concession and stated that this was the most successful event of this type ever held by the company.

Reports on the current fund drive indicate a total of $340 has been received. The drive will continue until all firemen cover their territory.

Ladies Auxiliary

A family covered dish supper has been scheduled for Saturday, Oct. 28, at 6 p.m., at the firehouse in Lake Hill, by the Ladies Auxiliary of Woodstock Fire Company.

Mrs. Alfred Ostrander, president of the Ladies Auxiliary, announced the family supper. It is one in a series of such events for the families of active firemen and auxiliary members. A Halloween theme will be followed for the supper, said the auxiliary leader.

Other events at the meeting included the reception of Mrs. L. Hochberg of Lake Hill into membership, and a jewelry party given by Mrs. Stanley Kaften of Lake Hill.

The next regular meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary is scheduled for Tuesday, Sept. 26, at the firehouse in Lake Hill at 8 p.m. Mrs. H. Phillips Eighmey and Mrs. Alfred Ostrander will act as hostesses.

Schick Office Opens Saturday

Citizens for Schick campaign headquarters will have its formal opening at 2 p. m. Saturday at its Albany Avenue location, in the former Thompson Laundry building.

The organization, composed of individual of varied political shadings, has pledged itself to work for the election of John J. Schick as Ulster County Judge.

Schick has been nominated by the Democrat and Conservative parties.

On Tuesday night, over 75 men and women attended a preliminary meeting to chart their campaign strategy.

Stanley Mumford of Woodstock, Citizens Committee campaign manager, opened the organizational meeting and introduced the guests who were in attendance. James Fahey of Rosendale general chairman, welcomed the members on behalf of Schick. Fahey also extended an invitation to the public to attend the formal opening Saturday.

Among the other speakers was Ulster County's Conservative Party chairman, Harry Hoffman, who said, "Unknown to the general public, John Schick did not seek the Conservative Party endorsement—the Conservative Party sought John Schick since they felt that he is the most eminently qualified person to restore prestige to the Ulster County Court.

Lazy Writer

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Frank Diehl hates to write letters, but he corresponds regularly with people all over the world. He does his "writing" through an exchange of tape recordings.

Among his correspondents are a Rhodesian big-game hunter and an electrical engineer with diamond mines in South Africa. Other tape pals live in such far-off places as Australia, New Zealand and the Fiji Islands.

Chamber Has Fact Book

ALBANY — Latest statistical information about communities, counties, metroploitan areas and economic areas of New York State is found in New York State Business Fact Book, 1967 Supplement, publication of which was announced today by State Commerce Commissioner Ronald B. Peterson.

Commissioner Peterson noted that the supplement includes a statistical summary of 1966 confirming that economic activity broke all previous records during the year. He said that new peaks in employment, new unemployment lows, as well as record highs in manufacturing production and capital investment in new plants and expanded facilities throughout the State were attained in 1966.

He pointed out that the book, the seventh annual supplement in a series begun in 1961, is published by the State Commerce Department in order "to provide up-to-date economic data for business and industrial organizations, development corporations and other groups requiring accurate information about their communities and areas."

The supplement contains detailed data on population, employment, personal income, manufacturs, business establishments, construction contracts, mineral industries and miscellaneous categories. A special listing of large new manufacturing plants and expansions under way or completed in the State in 1966—64 companies, some with multiple expansions—is included.

Copies may be obtained free of charge from the New York State Department of Commerce, 112 State Street, 12207 or from any regional or branch office of the Department.

Lights Nab Suspect

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Deputies searched for a bank robbery suspect on a remote farm road north of Portland.

A flashlight was too weak so two television news photographers turned on their floodlights.

Feeling of Economists

Critical, Eventful Days Ahead

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — With prices, wages, credit costs and spending either at high levels or now rising sharply, many economists believe that critical and eventful days are ahead of us.

It is a little early to say how this drama will be played out, but some of the characters now are being cast. They include taxes, inflation, labor-management discord, business-government disputes and guideposts.

Politics Only Certainty

None of these is assured a role, although the chances are remote that many of them will be left out. The only certainty is that politics will play a big role, center stage much of the time, as elections near.

At this point in the drama's development the administration is seeking a tax increase to help offset a large and inflationary budget deficit which tends to dilute the value of everyone's dollar.

This deficit is the result of heavy government spending without provisions being made for payment except through cheaper money. It means that the government has made an excessive demand on the economy.

Now the government seeks to correct the problem by raising money through taxes to pay for its purchases. In its opinion the reduction of demand by less spending will not be sufficient. Therefore, higher taxes.

A tax increase, as viewed by its proponents, would serve two related purposes: reduce the budget deficit; and by taking money from business and consumers, lessen their ability to make excessive demands on the economy.

Pressures More Evident

As the tax debate continues, the inflationary pressures are becoming more evident in higher prices for haircuts, steel, automobiles, appliances, rubber goods. Wage demands also are rising.

There is nothing whatever wrong about higher prices and wages. It is when these wages and prices exceed productivity that the damage is done. Greater productivity is what pays for higher wages and prices.

If productivity decreases or remains stationary, wages and prices can increase only at the expense of each other. Unless the pie is larger, nobody can have a bigger slice without depriving someone else.

What nobody can say at this stage is whether the government will succeed in convincing Congress of the need for a tax increase, or even that a tax increase will solve the problem.

This suggests another role in the drama: the chance of wage and price controls. This is a remote possibility. Notes these words, uttered earlier this year by Gardner Ackley, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers:

"As one who spent about six years of his life, during two wars, engaged in price control work. I can report my view that continuous peacetime price and wage controls would be a disaster."

Guideposts Pounded

If this possibility is remote, then the possibility of a new guidepost formula is not.

Guideposts were seemingly effective earlier in this decade in tying wage and price increases to rises in productivity. Last year, however, they were pounded into the ground by wage and price increases.

Since then the inflationary fires have been getting hotter, and now there seems to be a very real need for a new guidepost formula. The administration, however seems to be having difficulty in devising one.

Nevertheless, rising wages and prices—and the damaging consequences of them—should remind everyone of the somewhat cryptic statement early this year by Ackley.

"I suggest," he told the Society of American Business Writers, "that the next steps in the revival and strengthening of the guideposts must be and will be taken soon, for the present breathing space in price pressures will not last forever."

That statement was made in May and did not include any indication of timing, nor did it even suggest a specific proposal.

If Ackley does decide to have guideposts play a role you may be sure it will provoke the suggestion from private enterprise that government, itself, abide by the guideposts.

Vols March Saturday In Ellenville at 4

With an expected 3,000 persons in line from 46 fire companies, 23 women's auxiliaries, 32 musical organizations and 42 pieces of fire equipment, the annual firemen's parade of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association will get under way at 4 p. m. Saturday in Ellenville.

With the sounding of the chief's call, the parade will start at the corner of Elm Street and the four-division parade will march over numerous Streets of the village to the Channel Master-V.A.W. parking lot where it will disband.

Reviewing the parade at Liberty Square will be the judges. The various organizations will be competing for 18 cups and medals.

Grand Marshal will be Ben Litchrod who was president of the County Association in 1938 when the Association last held its convention in Ellenville. Litchrod is the oldest living former fire chief of the village.

JULES ALBERTINI

To Be Feted At Post 150 Dinner Saturday

A man who has spent more than 16 years as a manager and coach in American Legion baseball, Babe Ruth League and Little League will be honored at a testimonial dinner Saturday, 7:30 p. m. at the American Legion Hall on West O'Reilly Street.

Jules Albertini has served as a member of the Kingston Babe Ruth League since it was founded in 1950 as the Fraternal Youth League. He has managed Kingston Post No. 150 since that time.

A native of Kingston, Albertini has spent his entire life in the city, except from 1941-1945, when he served in the U.S. Army. Included was action in the Pacific.

Ex-Commander

Albertini was commander of the Kingston Post in 1958 and 1959. He has also served as athletic officer for the past nine years and has also been on other various committees, as well as a member of several firing squads. He joined the local post in 1945.

In addition to his legion activities, Albertini was president in 1960 and vice-president the previous year of the Babe Ruth League. He has been manager and coach of several Babe Ruth All-Star squads.

Prior to taking an active part in the Babe Ruth League, Albertini helped coach a local team which captured the Bridgeport Invitational.

He has not confined his talents to baseball. Albertini has aided Biddy League basketball and is still active as a scorekeeper and registrar of the league.

Mino, Mayor to Speak

A member of the Hudson Valley Football Officials Assn., Albertini is official timer at the Kingston High games and also officiates high school grid contests. He is also a member of the Kingston Umpires Assn.

Married to the former Lena Weider, Jules and his wife are parents of Linda, Darlene and Jules Jr. They reside at 81 Lucas Avenue. He is a member of St. Mary's Church and its Holy Name Society.

Guest speaker at the Albertini fete will be Ulster County Judge Raymond J. Mino. Kingston Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan is also expected to speak.

Wawarsing Dems Elect Slate

Wawarsing Democrats, meeting in caucus Thursday night, renominated incumbent office holders to seek election in November and named two men to oppose the GOP incumbents for two council seats.

Vincent Spanger and Sol Jargowsky were nominated to run for posts now held by Republican councilmen Delois Craft and Frank Miller.

Designated for renomination were supervisor, George M. Barthel; town clerk, Kenneth Mitchell and superintendent of highways, Harry Decker.

Dairy Members

Ulster County members include S. Robert Kelder Jr. of Stone Ridge and Julius Kraft of Wallkill.

New York State membership is second largest in the country, paced by Pennsylvania. Third largest is Wisconsin.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market resumed a wavering course in fairly active trading early Friday.

Gains outnumbered losses by a fair margin on the New York Stock Exchange, but the Dow Jones industrial average showed a loss of about a point due to an indifferent performance by blue chips.

All big three auto stocks took fractional losses as Wall Street heard reports that the strike against Ford may last a long time.

Rubbers edged higher. Rails and oils were mixed. Airlines were mostly lower.

Xerox slumped 4 points. Losses of a point or so were taken by Boeing, United Airlines and IBM.

One Charged, Another Hurt In 9W Crash

A three-car chain reaction collision at 7:45 p. m. Thursday on Route 9W about one mile south of Route 209 resulted in a charge being filed against one driver, and another complained of a sprained neck.

Trooper Thomas Searles of Kingston substation said the cars were driven by Joseph Emanuele, 25, of 241 Broadway; Joseph Stopczynski, 24, of 160 First Avenue, both of Kingston and Lawrence Thomas, 23, of Lake Katrine.

Stopczynski was treated at Benedictine Hospital for a sprained neck. Thomas was cited by Trooper J. J. Brainard for driving with unsafe tires. The summons is returnable before Justice of the Peace Robert S. Stedge, Town of Ulster.

Trooper Brainard reported Emanuele and Stopczynski were stopped for a red traffic light heading north when Thomas approached the intersection and his car reportedly hit the rear of Stopczynski and pushed his vehicle against the Emanuele car. Thomas, troopers said, claimed his foot slipped off the brake pedal and hit the accelerator causing the car to lurch ahead.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING....

by ROGER E. SPEAR
Investment Advisor & Analyst

Cut Losses But Let Profits Run

Q) "I am a male nurse with seven children. Naturally, it has been hard to make my salary cover all my expenses. Awhile ago I inherited $10,000. With it I invested in Merck, Sinclair Oil, Eastman Kodak, Gillette and Wm. Rorer. All show good profits. You often say you don't get married to stocks. Should I sell these, nail down the profits and get into something else?"—M. Z.

A) You have used extremely good judgment and it would be difficult to improve on the list you've put together. When I speak of getting married to a stock, I refer only to deteriorating situations that investors can't bring themselves to sell because their pride of opinion becomes involved. There is another Street maxim that applies in your situation. That is: cut losses but let profits run. I see no reason for you to make any changes in your list.

Q) "We have $75,000 invested in savings accounts and in Series H bonds. We have fixed salaries and fear inflation which seems to get worse all the time. Will you please recommend some stocks which would be a hedge against inflation?"—L.R.

A) I will be very glad to do so. You understand, I hope, that to follow the course you suggest will result in considerable loss of current income. The only stocks that I consider siutable as a long-term hedge against inflation are those which are growing in earnings, dividends and price at a rate faster than any further likely dollar devaluation. These types of stocks are highly valued by the market and offer a relatively low yield. You might put $25,000 into equal dollar amounts of Baxter Laboratories, Bristol-Myers, Norwich Pharmacal, Bell & Howell, Consolidated Foods. This would give you strong representation in hospital supplies, toiletries, pharmaceuticals, electronics and packaged foods—all growing segments of the economy.

Local Justice Courts Duties Cited by Davis

Attorney Sherwood E. Davis, who is seeking the Republican nomination for Justice of the Peace at Saturday night's GOP caucus in the Town of Ulster, said today that the State's new Justice Court Act, which went into effect this month, has added many additional responsibilities for those serving in the office of Justice of the Peace.

The local attorney said that two of the most important changes in the law deal with an increase in the Justice Court's jurisdiction over civil matters, and an extension of the Court's ability to try various additional criminal cases.

According to Davis, the old law limited the Justice Court to hear civil cases which involved no more than $500, but now that limitation has been increased to $1,100, which means that more civil actions can now be disposed of in the local court without the necessity of the cases being brought into the County Court. Davis said "I certainly feel that this change will facilitate the dispensing of justice on many smaller civil cases, which will benefit all parties concerned, and that it will also help to relieve the congested calendar of cases before our County Court."

Concerning criminal matters, Davis went on to say that prior to this month many crimes in the category of misdemeanors could not be tried in the Justice Court, and that they had to be presented to the County's Grand Jury, and then to the County Court if the person involved was indicted for the crime. The Republican candidate then added, "Criminal cases of this nature can be more expeditiously disposed of in a Justice Court, without the unnecessary delay of a Grand Jury hearing and a lengthy trial in County Court, and I think that most will agree that the cause of justice will be better served if those accused of certain crimes are granted their constitutional right to a speedy and public trial before a local magistrate."

The local attorney said that the broadening of the Justice Court's jurisdiction over civil and criminal matters will also mean many new legal motions being brought before the Justice of the Peace, as well as additional questions of evidence and law. Davis further pointed out that the Court's increased duties will require that the presiding magistrate be completely familiar with various technical points of law and trial procedure. The Republican candidate said, "As an attorney I feel that I could contribute a broad range of necessary legal experience to the office of Justice of the Peace, and as one who is self-employed, I would certainly be in a good position to arrange the local Court's hours to suit the convenience of the public so that the holding of court would not be primarily dependent upon the availability of the magistrate."

Gets Suspended Sentence on Song

HAMBURG, N.Y. (AP) — A youthful troubador found this week that he could get a suspended sentence on a traffic conviction for a song.

Theodore J. Mlynarski, 20, of nearby Orchard Park, erned the suspension from Peace Justice Ronald H. Tills of Hamburg after composing a safety ballad and singing it in court, accompanying himself on a guitar.

The defendant, a pre-law junior at Colgate University, received the usual sentence from the Hamburg Youth Jury, a panel of young people in this Buffalo suburb who judge peers accused of minor law violations.

Mlynarski, convicted of driving 70 miles an hour in a 50-mile zone, composed two stanzas and a refrain to the tune of "Greensleeves," an old English ballad. A portion of the refrain went:

"Don't mix your driving with whisky and wine,
"You'll find it harder to see the white line.
"Checking your speed is the thing to do,
"If you don't, a policeman will do it for you."

Racial Imbalance Higher in State

The department based that conclusion Wednesday on a survey of public, elementary schools in 41 school districts outside New York City for the year 1966-67 with the same districts in 1961-62.

The department reported that the number of schools deemed racially imbalanced had risen from 103 to 129.

For the purpose of the two surveys, a school was considered racially imbalanced if 31 per cent or more of its pupils were Negro.

In Buffalo, the state's second largest city, the number of schools deemed racially imbalanced had increased from 19 to 24, out of a total of 80. In 17 schools in that city, the Negro enrollment was more than 90 per cent. Five years ago, there were 14 schools in that percentage category.

The number of imbalanced schools in Rochester increased from 9 to 11, and the school population was more than 90 per cent Negro in 5, compared with 2 in 1961.

In the Hempstead district, the number of racially imbalanced schools remained the same—4—but the number of schools with more than 90 per cent Negro enrollment went from none to three.

In Albany, the number of imbalanced schools dropped from seven to five. But, while none was more than 90 per cent Negro five years ago, one was in 1966-67.

Reductions in the number of imbalanced schools also were reported in Lackawanna, Brookhaven, Riverhead, Kingston, Ellenville's Wawarsing 2, and White Plains.

MARK UNION LABEL WEEK—Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan this week urged that Union Label Week be observed during the period of Sept. 3 to 9 as officially designated by organized labor. Movie Makeup Work Rewarding to Cash

BY GENE HANDSAKER
Associated Press Writer
(For Bob Thomas)

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Almost any star from Astaire to Zsa Zsa, Don Cash has made up.

Recently he spent 3½ hours a day turning Roddy McDowall into a chimpanzee for the movie "Planet of the Apes." At the moment he's fashioning 200 mustaches for the bandits to wear in a Jimmy Stewart western.

Offbeat work? Yes, but for Don Cash the most rewarding phase of his 38 years as one of Hollywood's top make-up men was a sideline for which, at first, he didn't get paid.

"It's the greatest thing," he says, "to see depressed, discouraged men come to life again."

In World War II Cash—chubby, ruddy and now 59—made an artificial nose for Louis Hayward to wear in a movie in which Hayward was playing five roles.

Somebody wrote a magazine article about it. Someone at Los Angeles County General Hospital saw the article and phoned Cash: Could he make an artificial nose for a man who had lost most of his own?

Cash could and, working with molds and sponge rubber in his home workshop, did. Soon he had a busy but profitless sideline making artificial ears, eyes, noses and fingers for the charity patients.

Then free-lancing as a make-up artist, Cash recalls: "I raised the price of my work to cover the cost of my materials. And, funny thing, the more I charged the studios, the better they liked it."

The Army heard of Cash's sideline and recruited him to repair GIs' battle-damaged faces at Walter Reed Hospital in Washington.

He worked in operating rooms, carving features plastic surgeons would implant. Ears, noses and fingers he attached with liquid surgical adhesive and Cash-created artificial skin.

He accompanied repaired patients to Washington night clubs to see if strangers could detect, say, an artificial nose. If they could, he'd tell the GI: "Let's go back and work on it some more."

He created artificial eyes for a man blinded by a booby trap, attaching them realistically to spectacles. The spirited patient ultimately gave up his guide dog—"what the heil am I pulling him around for?"—and, the last Cash heard, was living on an Arkansas farm with his wife and two children.

Cash entered the Army a captain and, for his work, was promoted to major. His efforts were unpublicized at the time because, he says, the Army didn't want to stress the nature of the injuries.

The U.S. Junior Chamber of Commerce later presented him its distinguished service award on a nationwide radio program dramatizing his replacement of most of a soldier's face. The narrator praised Cash for "restoring his fellow men to useful lives."

Cash taught his methods at a West Los Angeles veterans hospital during the Korea War. Now, in the Vietnam war, such work is done by the military.

"They have it pretty well organized," he said, "with trained people and all the equipment."

Expect 40,000 for Grape Festival

The annual Naples Grape Festival is slated for Sept. 29, 30 and Oct. 1. An estimated 40,000 persons are expected to crowd the village, located in western New York, of 1,200 to participate in this year's festival-harvest.

This year's festivities include parades, live entertainment and winery tours.

Builders Elect

Three Kingston men will be named to director posts with the Home Builders Association of the Hudson Valley at the first fall meeting Tuesday at the Rhoda Arms, Newburgh.

William Paulus has been proposed as director for one year and George Berry for a three year term.

Mal Cunningham, a past president of the association was nominated as director for national and state associations.

Paltz Theatre Planning on Film Festivals

New Paltz' newest theatre, the Academy, which opened last Friday night, will offer film festivals and independent showings in addition to the usual star-studded cinema fare.

The theatre's creator, Don Bellinger, who has housed his new enterprise in an old church building, has enhanced it with intimate and unusual decor including an art gallery.

Future film showings will include "The Dirty Dozen," "Blow-Up" and "The Agony and the Ecstacy."

Located on Rt. 32, a block from Main Street, the Academy also promises the work of some foreign artists such as Truffaut and a new film documented by a local art professor, Harry Hurwitz.

Presently regular performances are at 6, 8 and 10 p.m. Monday through Saturday and continuous performances Sundays beginning at 2 p.m. A Saturday children's matinee will also be shown. Hours are subject to change at a later date.

7:30pm. The Wild Wild West

8:30pm. Gomer Pyle —USMC

Jim Nabors breezes along as the well-meaning, inept Gomer, making a shambles of military routine and his sergeant's peace of mind. Frank Sutton co-stars. In color.

9pm. The CBS Friday Night Movies

In Kingston, Stone Ridge

Extensive UCCC Evening Courses

Ulster County Community College will offer extensive evening courses this fall in both Kingston and Stone Ridge in addition to having extension courses at three public schools in the county, President George B. Erbstein said today.

The courses at Stone Ridge will be at the College's new Stone Ridge campus, while in Kingston, the courses will be offered at the Kingston Classroom Building, 214 West Chestnut Street. In addition, there will be college extension courses at Ellenville High School, Saugerties Junior-Senior High School and the Woodstock Elementary School.

Sept. 12-13 Registration

Registration for all the courses will be in the George Clinton Administration Building at the Stone Ridge campus on Tuesday, Sept. 12 and Wednesday, Sept. 13. The hours both evenings will be from 6 to 9 p. m.

"We've expanded our evening and extension courses for the citizens of Ulster County," President Erbstein said, "to provide greater higher educational opportunities. We're offering courses for the people of the community to meet specific job requirements, to facilitate advancement in certain occupations and professions, or to gain personal satisfaction toward a fuller life."

President Erbstein said counselors and faculty members will be available both registration nights to help interested county residents in selecting courses for their betterment and improvement.

These are the courses the college will offer at its Stone Ridge campus: Principles of Accounting I, Business Principles and Practices, Business Law I, Beginning Shorthand, Painting I, Intermediate Painting I, Art History I, Freshman Composition, Western World Literature, Intermediate French I, Music Appreciation, Elementary Russian, Elementary Russian, Elementary Spanish I, Fundamentals of Speech, General Biology I, College Preparatory Math, College Mathematics, Elementary Analysis of Functions, Physical Science I, Economics I, History of Civilization I, D. C. Electricity, Technical Drawing I and Technical Materials.

These are the courses the College will offer at its Kingston Classroom Building: Intermediate Accounting I, Cost Accounting, Personnel Administration, Elements of Corporation Finance, Mathematics for Business and Industry, Real Estate Appraisal, Principles of Data Processing, Freshman Composition I, American Literature I, Modern Drama, Introduction to Philosophy, Public Speaking, Calculus II, Modern Mathematics, Technical Mathematics III, College Mathematics I, Comparative Economic Systems, American History I, American Government, General Psychology, Developmental Psychology, Social Psychology, Principles of Sociology, Introduction to Anthropology, Urban Sociology, and General Psychology.

At Ellenville High School, the college will offer Principles of Sociology, while at Saugerties Junior-Senior High School, the courses to be offered are Principles of Data Processing and Business Principles and Practices. At Woodstock Elementary School, History of Civilization I and Freshman Composition I will be offered.

Interested persons may obtain further information about these courses by calling the director of community services at the college's Stone Ridge campus.

515 ALBANY AVENUE KINGSTON, N. Y.

Review Survey on Medicaid

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — More than 70 per cent of the physicians and 60 per cent of the dentists in New York State—outside of New York City—are treating medicaid patients and billing local welfare districts, a nearly completed state survey showed today.

A separate study of participation in the controversial state program is under way in New York City, where city officials estimate that fewer than 4,000 of 17,000 physicians are active in it. A city requirement for registration at the outset of the program is blamed. That requirement has been dropped.

The program, an offshoot of the federal medicare, pays medical bills for people deemed in need, regardless of age. Federal, state and local money is used.

Many members of the medical profession have objected to various aspects since the program went into effect in May 1966.

A hotbed of objection was the Buffalo region, but the State Health Department's survey shows that 72 per cent of the physicians and 62 per cent of the dentists are participating in Erie County, which includes Buffalo. The percentage was down to 40 per cent, however, in Chautauqua County, part of the Buffalo region.

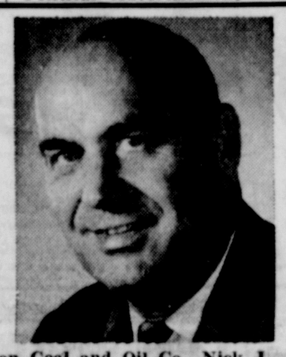

A State Health Department spokesman said 70 per cent "is a very good figure, because there is a sizeable proportion of doctors who do not have occasion to see medicaid patients."

For instance, plastic surgeons. "The affluent get their noses fixed, the non-affluent don't. They are more concerned about getting their children immunized."

In Livingston County, near Rochester, 77 per cent of the dentists were taking part, but the percentage of physicians was 48.

Nick J. Valenzano

General Manager of Kingston Coal and Oil Co., Nick J. Valenzano will seek the nomination of Tax Collector in the Town of Ulster, on Sept. 9th, at the Republican Caucus.

Nick has, in his 12 years of residency, always been active in civic affairs. He is an active member of Ulster Hose Co. No. 5, having served as vice-president.

Valenzano is now serving as chairman of the Park Commissioners of the Town of Ulster.

As candidate for the position of Tax Collector, Nick is confident in assuming the responsibilities and confidential trust required of the position.

Twilight Fruit Meeting Set September 13

A twilight fruit meeting has been scheduled by William H. Palmer, Ulster County Cooperative Extension Agent, for Wednesday, Sept. 13, at 7 p. m. at Hepworth's cold storage plant on Route 9W at Milton.

At this pre-harvest apple meeting fruit growers will receive timely information on crop prospects, stop-drop sprays, scald prevention, best picking dates for storage and other marketing information.

Speakers will include Chick Forshey, fuit growth and conditions; Dave Blanpied, scald prediction and picking dates; Peter Hoffman, use of hormone sprays; Ben Dominick, crop prospects and market factors; Rocky Bery, marketing the crops.

Those attending the meeting are requested to be on time and hear the entire program.

THE NEED

3800 in Ulster County could be classified as mental retardates.
The retarded can be helped in learning and vocational adjustment

On May 6, 1956 a meeting was held in Kingston for parents and friends of the mentally retarded with the Executive Director of the New York State Association for Retarded Children as the speaker. This was the first meeting of its kind in Ulstetr County.

The plan to formulate the Ulster County Chapter was introduced on June 6, 1956 and during that summer a Board of Directors was designated.

A survey of the number of mentally retarded children was taken and presentetd to the Kingston City Schools for the formation of a class for severely retarded children below the I. Q. of 50. A class was formed for trainables at the Temple Emanuel with the teacher's salary paid by the Kingston Board of Education.

The Association petitioned the Community Chest in 1957 for funds—$3,000 was allocated to the Association for 1958 operations. A summer day camp program was initiated for retarded children in conjunction with the Jewish Community Center at Turkey Point.

In April 1960 a nursery school for mentally retarded children was established on a part-time basis. Two days a week for two and a half hours a day.

A part-time Executive Director was retained in 1963 and in 1964 a full-time Executive Director was retained when the Association became a part of the Community Mental Health program in Ulster County. Existing programs expanded and new programs were instituted after that.

Saugerties Boy Given Trip to Lourdes

FRANK MEYER JR.

The Knights of Columbus, Hudson Valley Chapter and Conference made known the selection of a Saugerties boy who will be transported by airplane with his mother to visit the shrine at Lourdes, France.

The boy, selected from a group of applicants for the annual trip was Frank Meyer, Jr., 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Meyer Sr., of Elm Street, Saugerties.

Diagnosed as totally blind due to a lost retina since October 1966, Frank graduated from St. Mary of the Snow, attended the first two years of high school at St. Patrick's, Catskill, and is presently attending Saugerties High School. Frank also attesnded a school for Braille and maneuverability at Batavia. He enjoys all kinds of music.

Frank Meyer Sr., a former resident of Springfield, L. I., is plant superintendant at Ferroxcube Corporation where he has been employed for the past 14 years. He served with the U.S. Marines during World War II with two years in the Pacific Theater. Mrs. Meyer, the former Florence Rivers is employed at Saugerties Sportswear.

District Deputy James Kelly, George Brickwedde, William Sincerbox and Philip R. Sweeney, grand knight of the Saugerties Council are assisting the Meyers in making arrangements for the trip, September 21, through October 5. They will travel on Alitalia Airlines in conjunction with the Catholic Travel Office, Washington, D. C.

They will be accompanied by a priest, a nurse and a physician and other mothers and children from Northeastern United States.

The hope of all those who participate in the annual pilgrimage is that a cure will be effected through the devotion to Our Lady of Lourdes.

On June 17th, Mr. and Mrs. Meyer and Frank were guests of the annual Grand Knight and Past Grand Knight dinner dance of the Hudson Valley Chapter and Conference held at Bear Mountain Inn, at which time prizes from the annual Lourdes fund raising campaign were awarded. These funds are used to finance the annual pilgrimage.

Expo 67 by All Means

MONTREAL (AP) — A swimmer, a hiker, a bicycle-rider and canoeists, all on marathon treks, are among visitors to Expo 67 who make getting here half the fun.

The city's setting on the St. Lawrence River also attracts boating enthusiasts, including the crew of a teakwood junk who came from Hong Kong and a honeymoon couple whose 1909 cabin cruiser chugged 850 miles like a slow boat to China.

Tony Whittemore, 11, and his brother, Jeff, 9, traveled to Expo from Needham, Mass., by pony cart. Their 26-day, 300-mile trip won them a prized privilege from exposition officials—four days of getting into pavilions without having to wait in long lines.

For some travelers who chose unusual ways to reach Montreal, Expo was a long-awaited goal. For others, it marked a respite in odysseys that would take them hundreds or thousands of miles further.

For distance-swimmer Russell Chaffee, 42, of Sayre, Pa., the trip was, in part, to meet people. For cyclist Gordon Young, 43, of Thousand Oaks, Calif., it was a way to shed 50 pounds.

The Centennial Voyageur Canoe Pageant, comprising 100 Canadians in 10 canoes, came 3,000 miles from Rocky Mountain House, Alta.

Two New Jersey paddlers, barred from joining the Canadians' observance, hope to complete their own 1,900-mile canoe trip from Manitoba Province this weekend.

Alfred Welenofsky, 29, and Steve Reiners, 21, both from Nutley, N.J., said a difficult part of their trip was in Lake Superior, where "we were nearly dumped several times" in rough water.

Chaffee, a mathematics teacher, began his 370-mile swim at Watkins Glen, N. Y. He stroked up to 38 miles a day through Seneca Lake, the New York State Barge Canal, Lake Ontario and the St. Lawrence, with the final leg amid floodlights and an escort of police boats.

He went home by automobile.

Young's arrival from California drew less fanfare, but the cyclist had accomplished part of his goal—losing 30 pounds in a month, "despite four or five meals a day."

Young, who had weighed 280 when he set out, pedaled on toward Massachusetts' Cape Cod, hoping to shed another 20 pounds.

Mrs. Helen Hall, 70, of Philadelphia, listed Expo as a stop on a walk she said would end in Alaska, hopefully "before the snow starts."

Mrs. Hall, who pulled a grocery cart, told reporters one aim of her trip was to draw attention to the needs of persons dependent on old-age benefits.

The Chinese junk set out in 1965 on what its captain, Pierre Hermann, a native of Mulhouse, France, said was "an experiment to live and sail on a boat like that."

Hermann said Expo officials had invited him to exhibit a model of his "Chang Feng."

He planned to sail his 72-foot-long vessel to New Guinea in the South Pacific after staying here several weeks.

False Report Charged to Driver

An 18-year-old Brooklyn youth was arrested Thursday by Highland State Police and charged with making a false report to authorities and New Paltz police filed two vehicle and traffic violations against the motorist.

Trooper John Crodelle said Robert Edward Ackerman, of 5324 Avenue L, Brooklyn, was held in $100 bail for hearing on Sept. 26 before Justice of the Peace Linn Baker, Town of Lloyd.

On the early morning of Sept. 6, Ackerman's car was involved in a traffic accident in New Paltz. At 11:45 a. m. that day he reported to state troopers that his car had been stolen. Investigation resulted in his arrest yesterday for making a false report.

New Paltz Police cited Ackerman for leaving the scene of an accident and driving without a license.

Serious crime in the United States jumped 20 per cent in the first three months of 1967, according to an FBI report.

Boy, 5, Injured

A five-year-old boy sustained injuries to his arm and lip after being brushed by a car Thursday afternoon, Kingston Police said today.

According to officials, the youth was brushed by an auto operated by Helene Collins of 285 West O'Reilly Street. Police said the accident occurred at the corner of Prospect and St. James Streets.

New Home Can Be Top Investment

Build now?

Quoting figures from FHA, he points to the record for the past 10 years: Prices of homes insured by this agency have risen nearly 31 per cent; values of lots on which they are built have gone up 92 per cent.

Young couples should build as soon as possible, Concord counsels, because the trend of prices for materials and labor continues to be up.

Dollars Appreciate

"The sooner they build, the more quickly their investment dollars will begin appreciating in value due to inflation," the Masonite counsellor declares. "Home ownership is an anti-inflationary investment which will grow more quickly than other commodities."

He cited other advantages of home ownership:

Interest Tax Deductible

Interest payments on the mortgage are tax-deductible.

It is the beginning of an estate and a foundation for financial growth through other investments.

Home ownership leads to a more enjoyable and prosperous life. Home owners' desire to improve their status makes them better financial risks and job holders, and it builds better income.

In planning your home, Concord suggests, work closely with your lumber and building materials dealer. Ask to see his line of Masonite siding and interior paneling products, widely known and used for good appearance, long life and easy maintenance.

New Vinyl-Clad Moldings Asset To Home Owner

Moldings are the amateur (or professional) carpenter's best friend, as they cover errors in workmanship and give a finished appearance to the entire job.

A new type — vinyl-clad, introduced by Masonite Corporation to match the panels in its Royalcote line—offers additional advantages. The company lists them as follows:

Completely uniform surface providing perfect matching; on-the-job decorating eliminated; they won't splinter, crack or develop grain rise; impact-resistant surface won't chip and it resists abrasion; they can be sawed and processed with common tools.

Installations can be time-saving, too, because Royalcote Vinyl moldings may be applied in minutes with a cartridge-type adhesive, eliminating nailing chores, filing in holes and touch-up.

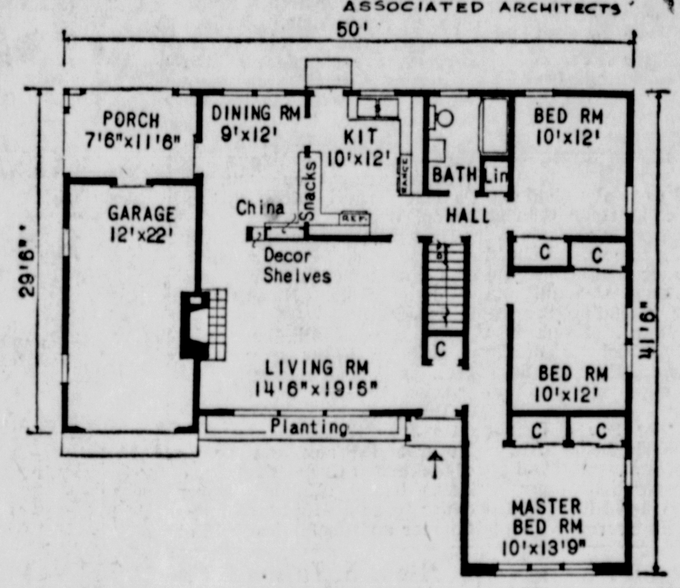

The moldings are available in a variety of types, colors and patterns for any installation. They may be used with any kind of wall paneling.

Ranch Home Features Expansion Bedroom

By JACK McELENEY

This treatment is carried out thru the sleeping area and extended to the living room, kitchen and dining area to offer combining facilities that ease the burden of housekeeping and at the same time provide expansive comfort for the family.

The kitchen takes all areas of the house into account, has much cabinet space and a snack bar which does double duty as a separator between the kitchen and dining room.

The living area of "The Ross" has 1,240 square feet with the garage and the porch adding another 334 square feet.

Plans are available at moderate cost, including a set of specifications, by using the accompanying coupon, and show how "The Ross" could be built of wood siding, brick, stone or concrete block as you prefer.

The Green Thumb

by GEORGE ABRAHAM

THE HOME LAWN: Fall's an ideal time to feed your lawn. Pretty soon the annual weeds will be killed by frost, leaving bare spots. Fall feeding encourages the existing grasses to spread and fill in the bare spots. You might want to scatter some grass seed in the bare spots now. Loosen up any area which happens to be sparse or bare, scatter in some grass seed and plant food. When fall rains come the seed will be ready to take off. Stay away from the real coarse grasses, such as ryegrass, tall fescue and other pasture grasses. A lawn is a lifetime investment, and if you start out with good grasses, your lawn will remain as long as your house.

Stick to the attractive, narrow-leaved lawn grasses such as the Kentucky bluegrasses, fine fescues or possibly bentgrasses. I'd like to add that while bent grasses are beautiful and fine-textured, they take a lot more care than Kentucky bluegrass-fescue turfs.

FREE: Want to know more about the art of having a good lawn? Send me a self-addressed, stamped envelope and ask for a copy of my bulletin, TIMELY TURF TIPS.

DRYING FLOWERS: Did you know that the blue or the red flowering salvias dry well for indoor arrangements. You can use silica gel drying agent, or you can try hanging them upside down and drying them that way. Bells of Ireland, Marigold, zinnia, delphinium, Feverfew, and China Aster are some of the many items which can be preserved for winter bouquets.

Some of the materials used for drying flowers (called Desiccants) include sand, borax, corn meal, mixture of borax and corn meal, and silica gel. The gel is a commercial desiccant which works fine, without damaging or losing color of the blooms. If you will send me a self-addressed, stamped envelope I'll send you my free bulletin on preserving flowers for dried arrangements.

ANTS IN THE LAWN: Ants in the lawn or along the foundation of your home can be controlled by dusting some chlordane or dieldrin in the area where you see them.

GREEN THUMB CLINIC: "Please tell us if whitewashing a tree trunk will prevent insect attack."

Answer: Whitewashing a tree trunk has no effect on insects. The only value is to prevent "southwest injury"—winter injury on the southwest side of a tree. Whitewashing also makes the tree visible at night, and while it may not kill insects, it may save someone's life. There's no spray or sticky material which is effective in trapping insects as they climb up and down a trunk.

Micare-Waltamath Nuptials Told

Miss Angeline Rose Micare, 5 Crown Terrace, Albany, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dominick Micare, was married Saturday, Aug. 19, to James Robert Waltamath, 243 Church Street, Little Falls, son of Mr. and Mrs. Max L. Waltamath.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a chantilly lace cage gown over crepe sheath, styled with a bateau neckline, short sleeves and cathedral train. Her silk illusion veil was caught to a cluster of satin petals edged with seed pearls and sprays of crystals. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses, stephanotis, a white orchid and ivy.

Barbara Micare, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a lime chiffon over crepe gown fashioned with an empire bodice, sheath skirt, long puffed sleeves and trimmed with satin. Her headpiece was a cluster of chiffon petals fastened to a circular veil. She carried a colonial bouquet of apricot mums.

Attendants were Donna Carpinello, niece of the bride, Sally Waltamath, sister of the bridegroom, and Alice Torda. Their apricot colored gowns were fashioned identically to that of the honor attendant. They carried lime colored chrysanthemums.

Alfred DiCaprio was best man. Ushers were Joseph Micare, brother of the bride, William Moynihan and James Jantosciak.

After the wedding a reception was held at the Ambassador Restaurant.

The bride is a graduate of Cardinal McCloskey Memorial High School and was employed by the State University of New York at Albany.

Her husband received his Bachelor's degree from State University of New York at Albany and is working for his Masters degree at the same college. He is a member of Alpha Pi Alpha and is on the faculty of Kingston High School.

Mr. and Mrs. Waltamath will reside in this city.

K of C Scholarship Program Announced

State Deputy James E. Foley has announced the start of a Scholarship Program for the 1967 Columbian Year, sponsored by the New York Council's Knights of Columbus. John J. Waycie, 47 Sussex Street, Port Jervis, has been appointed chairman.

The state is divided into 12 districts with three scholarships in each district for a total of 37 awards. A special offer is that of the "Joseph S. Coffey Jr." Memorial Scholarship which is on a statewide basis, in the sum of $600 a year for a four-year period.

There shall also be awarded the Joseph F. Lamb Memorial Award Scholarships in the amount of $400 a year for each of four years, one scholarship for each district, 12 awards.

Scholarships are open to any Catholic graduate of a recognized high school in New York State during the term ending January or June 1968. Candidates are required to submit to a preliminary regular college entrance test in scholastic aptitude given by the College Entrance Board of Princeton, N. J., on Saturday, Dec. 2.

Scholarships may be used at any Catholic College in the U.S., and subject to approval by the committee. Applications must be filed with the committee no later than Oct. 28, and may be obtained from John A. Coleman High School, Kingston High School, Grand Knight Frank Castigleone of Kingston Council No. 275, or by writing to the chairman. The 37 scholarships will total $45,000.

Community Concert Lists 1967 Series

John McCullough, president of Kingston Community Concert Association announced that membership cards have been mailed to all subscribers of the association.

The 1967 series of concerts includes the Columbus Boy Choir, scheduled to appear Wednesday, Oct. 11; Simon Estes, bass-baritone, appears Monday, Jan. 15; and the final concert, presented on Monday, Feb. 19, features the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra with Lee Luvisi, guest pianist.

Subscribers who do not receive their membership cards in the mail within the next few days are urged to contact Mr. Louis Kegler in Kingston.

QUIZ ON FALL PARTY PLANNING

Fall is almost here, and with it will come an increase in entertaining. The most important single factor to insure your party's success is careful planning. The questions below may serve to test your knowledge, and give you some ideas when you next consider giving a party. Score 10 points for each correct choice, and if you score less than 70, you need a copy of Emily Post's Etiquette to help you with your entertaining.

1. When making up your guest list, it is best to (a) pick only people who know each other well. (b) mix couples who are not necessarily close friends.

2. Invitations to an informal dinner party (a) need not request an answer. (b) may say "regrets only" with your telephone number.

3. If you are planning to serve cocktails, you should (a) let the men guests help by making the refills. (b) do all the bar-tending yourself.

4. If you are not serving before-dinner drinks, you should plan to (a) serve dinner at the hour stated on the invitation. (b) serve dinner 15 or 20 minutes or so after the stated hour.

5. When planning your seating arrangement, the person on the host's right should be (a) the hostess. (b) the oldest or most important lady guest.

6. A raconteur or witty talker will most enjoy sitting next to (a) a good listener. (b) another equally entertaining conversationalist.

7. When you are doing the cooking and serving alone, the most practical menu features (a) a roast with vegetables, gravy, etc. (b) a casserole.

8. After dinner, if you wish your guests to linger on, you should (a) plan some activity. (b) rely on good conversation.

9. If you are giving a cocktail party you (a) may offer two or three kinds of cocktails. (b) must offer many types of liquor for people to choose from.

10. When you give a dinner party, you should (a) count on your lady guests helping with the clean-up. (b) firmly refuse all offers of help.

1. (b) 6. (a)
2. (b) 7. (b)
3. (a) 8. (a)
4. (b) 9. (a)
5. (b) 10. (b)

Lyric Choristers Start 11th Season

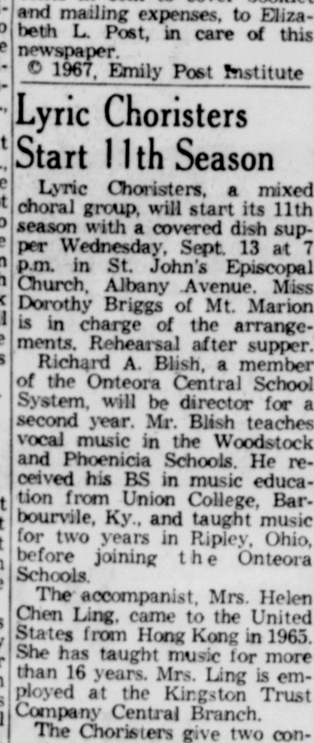

Lyric Choristers, a mixed choral group, will start its 11th season with a covered dish supper Wednesday, Sept. 13 at 7 p.m. in St. John's Episcopal Church, Albany Avenue. Miss Dorothy Briggs of Mt. Marion is in charge of the arrangements. Rehearsal after supper.

Richard A. Blish, a member of the Onteora Central School System, will be director for a second year. Mr. Blish teaches vocal music in the Woodstock and Phoenicia Schools. He received his BS in music education from Union College, Barbourvile, Ky., and taught music for two years in Ripley, Ohio, before joining the Onteora Schools.

The accompanist, Mrs. Helen Chen Ling, came to the United States from Hong Kong in 1965. She has taught music for more than 16 years. Mrs. Ling is employed at the Kingston Trust Company Central Branch.

The Choristers give two concerts a year in Kingston and have performed at Christmas time in the Middletown State Hospital for the past six years. They have given concerts at the Wallkill Prison and the Hudson River State Hospital.

Subsequent rehearsals will be held each Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the George Washington School. All interested singers are invited to attend.

British Fashion Oracle Says: Pink Is the Shade for Men — Do Say!

LONDON, England (AP) — Sir Mark Palmer, Baronet, looked into his crystal ball and predicted that pink will be the popular shade in menswear next season. Not only pink shirts, but pink hats, rose-colored shoes, maybe pink Arab robes.

Don't laugh. As founder and head of the English Boy model agency, Mark is something of a fashion oracle. He set up shop in Chelsea in March and has since revolutionized the image of the male fashion model.

A staff of 35 English boy models are kept busy at $15 an hour. Their physical structure must be: height, 6 feet tall, weight, about 140 pounds, and chest, not more than 36 inches around.

It's no surprise that the star of the English Boy stable, Bill Chenail, 20, is known as "Master Twiggy." His measurements aren't far from those of the waif-like female model.

"Painted the shoes myself," he said with pride. The shops have an annoying habit of being one step behind Mark. Just the other day some green shoes appeared in the window of a sedate men's shop; but Mark has already run through the green phase.

"We're riding the crest of the wave," says Palmer." The shape of men's bodies had already changed before we pointed it out, but nobody had noticed. Now other more conventional male model agencies are taking this change into consideration. Male models should look like poets."

According to Mark, the new wave in English fashion was started not by Carnaby Street ("badly made stuff, that") but by designer Mary Quant in Chelsea.

"Actually, the originators of fashion are the layabouts and scrubbers who haven't got any money, so they cut things off, make over, invent for themselves." Layabouts is a dirty word in some Britons' vocabularies, and the term "scrubber" for the layabout's feminine equivalent usually starts a hair-pulling, nail-scratching fight when applied to a girl in television's "realism" plays. Coming from Mark, the words sound complimentary.

"Some of our models we got from drama schools, shops and photographers studios," he explains, "but others were just bums. They were just hanging around."

Now some are making over $600 a week modelling, but they don't boast of the money. "We hate money," Kelvin Webb, one of Mark's partners, says flatly. "But sad though it may seem, one must make money to do anything."

The English Boy model agency is not just a supplier of new-style clothes horses. "We want to influence young people to think for themselves," says Webb." "Why should a quarter of the population tell the other three quarters what to do? Some young people have been conditioned against thinking. It's wrong that they should be taught by people of 65 in the universities. Our philosophy is love each other and quit fighting." From Mark's point of view, young people's minds have moved ahead; their bodies are just catching up with them. Besides flowing Arab robes and pink for men, he foresees more male jewelry, scarves, bright colors, and a movement away from neatness. English Boys may be kookie, but they are not scruffy.

"A lot of people have been writing me from America asking advice on how to set up an agency like mine," says Mark Palmer. "But I'm not telling them because I hope to set up my own New York agency quite soon."

The Chef's Book

Drained canned apricot halves make a delightful salad to serve with baked ham. Arrange the apricot halves on lettuce, fill their cavities with slivered toasted almonds and serve with dressing.

Juice from canned peaches, apricots or pears may be mixed with melted butter and lemon juice and used as a delightful baste for broiled chicken. Serve with buttered rice tossed with pine nuts.

Ever add lots of minced parsley to cornbread mix? Nice to serve with chicken or beef stew.

Something different and delicious: piping-hot chile con carne served over rice and topped with tiny butter-browned cubes of bread.

Easy way to make coconut custard pie: fill a baked pie shell with vanilla pudding-and-pie filling mix, but do this just before serving so the crust will stay crisp. Add a topping of toasted coconut. Good served with summer's fresh fruits—sliced pears, strawberries or blueberries.

When folding creamstyle cottage cheese into scrambled eggs, it's best to do so just a few seconds before the eggs have finished cooking. If the cheese is overcooked, it will be watery.

Ever make quick cheese bread? Cut a loaf of French bread into slices, but don't cut all the way through. Spread the slices with a mixture of grated cheddar cheese, mayonnaise and paprika. Bake in a moderate oven on a sheet of foil until very hot—20 to 30 minutes.

Have you tried adding a few whole cloves when you are heating black bean soup? Interesting flavor. Be sure to remove the cloves before serving.

Fresh root ginger keeps well if you put it in a small jar, cover it with sherry and refrigerate the jar.

Add a tablespoon of grated orange rind to that custard-pie filling (along with the usual vanilla flavoring). Delicious flavor change!

To render fat means to heat it until the fat may be drained away from the connective tissues, which are discarded.

Exactly what is chutney? It's usually a combination of fruits and vegetables cooked with sugar, vinegar and spices. Chutney is a "must" with curries and is an excellent relish to serve with other meat, fish or egg dishes.

KIDNEY TRANSPLANT SUCCESS BECOMING MORE EVIDENT

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, MD
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—How successful are kidney transplants? How do they compare with the artificial kidney?

A—Kidney transplants are still experimental, but improvements in technique are being made. In general, the more closely related the recipient is to the donor, the better are the chances for a successful transplant. If a transplant works, the recipient can live a normal life and need worry very little about his kidneys, whereas the uremic patient who depends on an artificial kidney must take time out frequently to be hooked up to this complicated device.

A—The hardness of the water in the laundry would not be a factor. Bedsores are caused by localized pressure. Various devices for relieving the pressure by distributing it more evenly are helped. One of the best of these is a special water mattress that uses the total flotation principle.

Q—I am aware of the special precautions needed in lifting heavy weights to prevent back injuries. Are there any exercises that will strengthen the back muscles?

A—Bending forward and touching your toes from a standing position or from lying down will strengthen these muscles but not to the point of making it safe to lift heavy objects with your back instead of your legs. These exercises should be avoided if they cause pain or discomfort, and backward bending exercises should be avoided, period.

Q—For the past two years I have had bouts of what one doctor says is angioneurotic edema. Another doctor calls it urticaria. What is the cause?

A—Urticaria is hives and angioneurotic edema is also called giant hives, so there is no essential disagreement between your doctors. The cause is allergy but discovering the offending allergen is often difficult. A continuous search for it should be made until it is found because only by removing the cause can you get lasting relief.

Q—Can the white blood cell count fall to half the normal count? What can be done to bring it back? What is leukopenia?

A—Yes, the white count may fall and when it does you have leukopenia. This may be caused by anemia, various drugs and some infectious diseases. Before the condition can be treated, the cause must be determined.

Sawkill Ladies Plan An Afternoon Tea

An invitation to attend an afternoon tea has been extended to the ladies of the Sawkill Fire District and Fire Protection area, by Mrs. Francis Joy, membership chairman; Mrs. Jean Patton, executive board president; Miss Laura Joy, vice president; Mrs. Ann Ferrigan, secretary and Mrs. Marion Clark, treasurer.

The tea is scheduled for Sunday at 3 o'clock in the Sawkill Firehouse. It will be an opportunity to meet the officers and an opportunity for the newcomers in the community to get acquainted. Refreshments will be served by members of the auxiliary.

Mrs. Joy reported that letters were mailed to all the ladies in the fire area, inviting their membership in the auxiliary. Anyone interested in joining may contact any member.

The first regular fall meeting of the auxiliary will be held Monday, Sept. 18 at 8 p. m. in the firehouse. Future meetings will be scheduled for the third Monday of each month in order to enable more ladies to attend.

Miss Faye Mertine Is Bride-Elect

Mrs. Willard Mertine, New Paltz, announces the engagement of her daughter, Faye Carrie, to Raymond J. Lenarcic, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Lenarcic, Little Falls, N. Y.

Miss Mertine attended Our Lady of Lourdes High School and is entering her senior year at State University College, Fredonia.

Mr. Lenarcic is a graduate of Little Falls High School and received his Bachelor's and Master's degrees in social studies from Fredonia State College. He is an instructor of history at Herkimer County Community College.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Instant Tatoos Make the Scene At Village Discotheque Opening

NEW YORK (AP)—What to wear to a really wild party? Something savage, of course. Paint up your face and body the way the so-called uncivilized did.

"Wear as little as you can," said the invitation to the opening of Salvation, a new Greenwich Village discotheque, "so that areas may be available for tattooing."

But people are perverse. Usually the crowds who jam into discotheque openings don't have to be told to undress rather than dress for such occasions. Yet the people who made their ways into the deep, down-under cave of Hadean lights and writhing bodies were defiantly covered with cloth from their chins to their shins.

Still, there was room for the tattos. A bow-wielding cupid fit nicely across the forehead, a red butterfly on the cheeks and Moby Dick on the back of the hand. A sheet of 13 more included the zodiac sign, an unbowdlerized bull, and barnyard chicks.

At the opening of the Electric Circus Village, another New York discotheque, artists were hired to paint on people. However, the decal tattoo, which defies soap and water, is the easier way to the savage look.

The French were the first to find beauty in making every man his own art gallery. Temporary decals called "tatu" over there were just what they wanted to change the show regularly.

Two Americans, David Padway and Leo Garden, discovered the tattoos in France. Along with a pretty Harvard Business School graduate named Marlene Krauss, they formed a tattoo peddling company. The Huckleberry Tomorrow.

Though winter is coming on and the bare spots will surely be fewer, the company is plotting bigger and better tattoos for future uncover seasons. Pop flags, "Peace" and "Mother"

Beauties Compete for Ulster's Crown Saturday

By DOROTHY A. NAREL

Another Miss America will be crowned Saturday night in Atlantic City, N. J. Awaiting her is a year in the sun with fame, wealth and hordes of admiring men who won't get past her chaperones.

While the Miss America contestants await the 11th hour at the Jersey sea resort, Ulster County residents will be reminded that their own beauties will compete for the county crown on September 16 at 8 p. m. in the Saugerties High School.

The first of 16 girls will step forward and meet a capacity audience. She will compete in gown, talent and swimsuit categories and wonder which lucky girl will win the coveted crown of Miss Ulster County of 1968. The local queen and her runners-up will share $1,000 in scholarship awards and numerous gifts. The new county queen will have the privilege of representing this area in the finals next July in Olean, N. Y., where she will compete for the state title.

Other queens attending next week's pageant in Saugerties will be Marcelle Renee Maier of Yonkers, Miss Westchester; and Jane C. Lenihan of Rye, Miss New Rochelle. If the current Miss New York State, Kari Pederson, doesn't win the national crown, she plans to attend the Saugerties competition also.

Susan Schoonmaker, Miss Ulster County of 1967, will crown the new queen.

A South American theme has been chosen for this year's contest. Staged as a fiesta, the contestants will have an opportunity to get a preview of the sets when they meet for a dress rehearsal on September 15.

KEYBOARD TIME for some of the contestants backstage at the Saugerties High School brings together contestants (l-r) Hilda M. Kruger, Saugerties; Cynthia Pallus, New Paltz; Sally Ann Landrio, New Paltz, and Michele Mauro, Saugerties. The girls will compete in gown, swimsuit and talent categories in the upcoming Miss Ulster County of 1968 Pageant.

Working Press

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Sports Editor

It is a tribute to the massive brainwashing techniques of television that some 800 spectators found their way to Deitz Stadium last Sunday for the return of semi-pro football.

If there was ever any proof needed that football is now the No. 1 sports attraction in the country, this amazing turnout furnished it. The last time a sports contest attracted 800 persons to the stadium was, to put it mildly, a long, long time ago.

Those who attended were treated to a typical semi-pro football game with its normal quota of fumbles, intercepted passes, missed tackles, a 55-yard pass interception and other goodies you wouldn't find within a mile of, let us say Packer Stadium in Green Bay.

In sharp contrast to the so-called Golden Bears of Stamford, Conn., who trotted out on the field staggering under surplus avoirdupois, bedecked in a variety of uniform shirts, helmets and pants, the Hudson Valley Crusaders were sharply attired in red uniforms. They made a splendid impression on the fans and such is the mood of the sports picture that this unheralded band of Dutchess County gridders could make it big for the remainder of the season.

• • • • • • • • •

THE REMARKABLE THING ABOUT the Crusaders is their simon pure approach to the game. The trade calls them semi-pros but money is really secondary to these fellows. They play primarily for the fun and love of the game and if there is a kitty to whack up at seasons end they do it about 45 ways. And they are likely to transform Deitz Stadium into Fun City before the season ends.

If there is one glaring weakness in the whole Crusader picture, it is the public relations setup. It is simply bush league. This is regrettable because everything else about the organization seems attuned to the times.

They'll try it again Sunday night against the Long Island Jets. If the attendance doesn't surpass 800 we'll be surprised. We make the announcement about the Jets just in case the Crusaders try to keep it a secret.

• • • • • • • • •

THE RUNNING FUED BETWEEN Phil Rizzuto, the Yankee broadcaster, and Eddie Stanky, White Sox manager, goes back to their playing days. It is getting more lineage than the White Sox bid for the pennant. The Chisox's surprise gate slump (under 800,000 to date) may be proof the modern buff couldn't care less about baseball as it was played in the good, old days.

The New York Metsies are battling resolutely to hold down last place in the National League, but the last time we looked they were approaching the million and a half mark in attendance. It must prove something. It proves that the new breed would desert Shea Stadium in droves if the Mets ever challenged for the pennant. If the White Sox win the pennant it might not be a bad idea to go fishing for the duration.

• • • • • • • • •

PLAYER OF THE YEAR in the American League has to be Carl Yastrzemski of the Boston Red Sox, say the experts. Not so, demurs Eddie Stanky, who thinks the honor should go to the Tigers' fine young catcher Bill Freehan. Stanky's reasoning? Freehan has delivered more clutch hits for the Tigers than Yaz has for the Red Sox . . . Does anybody want to bet against Mike McCormick of the San Francisco Giants as the comeback player of the year? Or Orlando Cepeda as MVP in the National League? Boston's Dick Williams and that man Stanky will vie for Manager of the Year in the American League, with Williams a shoein if the Red Sox make it to the top.

THE 1967 TENNIS SEASON was the finest in Kingston. Thanks to men like Nick Fowler, Bill Spangenberger, the Kingston Tennis Association and a sharply improved public relations program, the racquet swingers received a lot of well deserved publicity.

The tournament got a windfall when the New Paltz Hudson Valley affair was summarily cancelled out, but that wasn't the whole story. A fine field was assembled, for the local event and it produced high quality tennis.

Tennis has been slowly emerging from th doldrums in the past few years in the Kigston area. The 1967 tournament may be remembered as the one that restored the game to its proper place in the area sports program.

Clubs Clash Under Block Park Lights

They turned the lights on at Block Park last night and Royal Grill and Perry's Grill ended the evening where they started.

Royal stopped the regular season champions, 1-0, in an eight inning thriller in the first game of a playoff doubleheader. Perry's came back to take the second contest, 6-2.

The teams will conclude their playoff series on Saturday at 7 and Perry's will attempt to make it a clean sweep to climax a great season.

One-Hit Duel

Bill Costello and George Norton hooked up in one-hit pitching duels in the opener. Costello had a no-hitter during the seven inning regulation game, fanning 13 batters. A single by Mike Amato was the only safety off Norton during the same span.

In the eighth, Tom Fiore doubled to left center and moved to third as Richie Amato was flying out to center. A passed ball enabled Fiore to score the only run.

Norton was tagged for seven hits in the second game, including a double by Mel Williams, a triple by Tony Amato and Mike Amato's home run.

Costello, who hurled six strong frames, gave up six safeties with Vince Smedes getting a single, double and home run.

The champions tagged Norton for a pair of second inning runs when Pat Berardi singled with two outs, Joe Clausi was safe on a fielder's choice and they both scored as the ball was being thrown away.

A hit by Costello, an error, infield out and another misplay gave the winners a run in the fourth. They clinched the tilt in the sixth as Mike Amato's roundtripper and a pair of errors accounted for two markers.

Tired, Skinny Lonborg Too Tough for Yankees

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Jim Lonborg, down about 20 pounds from his normal weight, says he's a little tired. The New York Yankees, down about 20 games from their normal position, are not impressed.

Lonborg, the ace Boston righthander, threw his second three-hitter against the Yankees in nine days Thursday night, leading the Red Sox to a 3-1 victory. Minnesota, beating Baltimore 4-2, remained in first place in the American League, one percentage point over Boston.

The victories shattered the virtual four-way tie as Detroit and Chicago, idle Thursday, fell half a game off the pace.

Lonborg's victory over the Yankees, now mired in ninth place 17½ games off the pace at a time when they're usually running away with the flag, was all but a carbon copy of the one in New York on Aug. 29.

In both cases, the score was 3-1. In both cases, Lonborg gave up only three hits. In both cases, a home run by Tom Tresh spoiled the shutout.

In the National League, St. Louis crushed New York 9-2, San Francisco shaded Houston 3-2 in 15 innings, Cincinnati beat Philadelphia 3-1, Pittsburgh took Atlanta 4-2 and the Chicago Cubs nipped Los Angeles 3-2 in 12 innings.

"I think I'm a little tired," Lonborg said when his 19th victory was in the books. "It's been a long season for me. I started out weighing 215 and I'm down to about 195. But don't get me wrong. I'm not so tired that I can't contribute my share down the stretch."

Rico Petrocelli provided the power for the Red Sox, driving in two runs with his 14th homer and a double. Lonborg himself provided the other one with a ground-rule double.

The Twins hung onto their precarious lead with two runs in the eighth inning. Tony Oliva delivered a double that cracked a 2-2 tie and Bob Allison's single sent Oliva in. Dean Chance won his 18th game, stopping the Orioles on four hits.

Nicklaus Pick In World Series

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Jack Nicklaus' gigantic shadow will grace the Firestone Country Club today in the unofficial practice round for the 36-hole World Series of Golf beginning Saturday.

Nicklaus, who has made the tournament his personal jackpot, was not around earlier in the week while his three rivals were exploring the 7,180-yard layout with a demanding par of 35-35—70.

Nicklaus, the U.S. Open champion; Roberto de Vicenzo, winner of the British Open; Masters champion Gay Brewer, and PGA titlist Don January will be shooting for a top prize of $50,000 in a showdown of champions.

Second place is worth $15,000, third $7,500 and fourth $5,000.

The World Series, a new experience for De Vicenzo, Brewer and January, is old hat to Nicklaus. Jack won the first World Series in 1962 and repeated in 1963.

In four World Series appearances, the ckeye belter from Columbus, Ohio, has earned $126,000. Currently Nicklaus is the leading money winner on the golf tour with $156,000.

However, a victory this weekend will not add to his official money-winning total because the series, although sanctioned by the PGA, does not qualify as an official event.

The Series winds up Sunday and in case of a tie there will be a sudden-death playoff. The last five holes on Saturday and Sunday will be televised nationally by NBC.

Cards Not Counting Series Ducats Yet

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Officials of the St. Louis Cardinals are hesitant about counting their World Series tickets before the Birds hatch a pennant.

Cousy Admits Association With Springfield Gambler

By DAVE O'HARA

BOSTON (AP) — Bob Cousy, former All-America whiz and one of pro basketball's all-time great players, was reported under sedation today after admitting a close friendship with an alleged gambler, but denying any wrong-doing.

A reliable source said Cousy, now coach at Boston College, was given sedatives at his Worcester home by a doctor less than two hours after he struggled through a tear-filled news conference Thursday at the BC alumni hall.

"I suppose I'm guilty of indiscretion," Cousy admitted between sobs at the 70-minute meeting with both sports and news reporters.

"But I'm not guilty of anything else," he added. "If you're guilty of something, or have something to hide, you're evasive. And I don't sneak around."

Disregarding advice of friends to merely issue a statement, Cousy elected to face probing questions in his reply to a Life magazine article linking Boston athletes with gamblers.

He said the article reported he was friendly with Andrew Pradella and Francesco Scibelli, both of Springfield, Mass., and identified by the magazine as associated with gambling.

KC Baseball Feud Nearing Showdown

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The running feud between Kansas City Athletics baseball players and their owner, Charles O. Finley, headed toward a hearing before Commissioner William Eckhrt as the A's unlimbered further charges Thursday on two fronts.

Eckert announced in New York that the dispute had been set for a hearing Monday in his office.

His announcement had barely been made when the Major League Baseball Players Association filed an unprecented unfair practices charge against Finley before the National Labor Relations Board.

And Lew Krausse, A's pitcher whose suspension and fine by Finley precipitated the squabble, charged that Finley had intimidated him into making a statement that the owner was justified in his fine and suspension. Krausse also said Finley had repeatedly tried to get him to influence other players to withdraw their request for a grievance hearing before the baseball commissioner.

Krausse: Quote

"He's through scaring me," Krausse was quoted as saying in a copyrighted story in the Kansas City Star. "I love baseball and I owe a lot to it, but if that man doesn't trade me I'll hang up my glove. I don't want to play for Finley again. As soon as you think you can confide in him and trust him he burns you."

It was Aug. 18 that Finley fined Krausse $500 and suspended him indefinitely for alleged misconduct aboard a commercial air liner. The players, through their player representative, pitcher Jack Aker, drafted a statement critical of Finley and immediately afterward Manager Al Dark was fired; first baseman Ken Harrelson, now with the Boston Red Sox, was given his unconditional release, and Aker was fined for allegedly violating curfew.

The action before the Labor Relations Board was filed by Richard Moss, attorney for the Players Association and their executive director, Marvin Miller. It contends Finley has "threatened individual employes in an attempt to coerce them into withdrawing their pending grievances" and "by so doing has interferred with, restrained and coerced players in the exercise of their individual rights which are guaranteed by law."

Seniors Are Urged To Bring Caddies

Because of the heavy entry in Sunday's Seniors golf tournament at Wiltwyck Country Club, all golfers are advised to bring caddies.

The quota of 24 electric carts has long since been snapped up. Some caddies will be available at Wiltwyck but entrants are advised to play it safe and bring their own caddies.

FRAN TARKENTON SAYS:

Even Old Pro Can Feel Like New Boy in Town

My first night as a New York Giant, I sat in my room on the second floor of the players' dormitory at Fairfield University in Connecticut, and I wondered half alound, "What in the heck am I doing HERE?"

Not that I was worried about being accepted. After all, I wasn't like a rookie coming into a pro football camp. But for six years I'd look around me in the huddle and see guys I knew intimately as good friends as well as teammates, whose lives were all mixed up with mine. I felt like a Minnesota Viking.

Suddenly, it was all strange.

I stepped up behind the center in practice, got my feet planted and my hands extended for the ball, and there was a different feel. I've been getting the ball from Mick Tingelhoff for six years. He's shorter than Greg Larson of the Giants, and, to put it bluntly, has a bigger tail. Greg is bigger over-all and has a different stance. It's not the same.

I'm not the first guy who's ever been traded, but for a quarterback there are some broad problems of adjustment. Take the terminology. I've been using the same words for six years.

Name for Blocking

In our first exhibition game against the Atlanta Falcons, we were in a third down and short yardage situation. I called a dive play (or straight buck into the line), with the fullback carrying the ball. In Minnesota, on that kind of play we used a system of blocking we called "George." In New York, it's called "Blue."

As we broke the huddle, I got to Greg Larson and told him, "on this play, Greg, you and Bookie (Bolin, the right guard) 'George' it.

He looked at me blankly and asked, "George who?"

The next week, against the Washington Redskins, we were second and nine early in the game and I wanted to call a screen pass to our fullback, Tucker Frederickson, from a strong left formation. In Minnesota, it would have been simply "77 flip screen right." But here with the Giants it's called "flood right, screen right to the fullback."

In the huddle, I started out, "O.K., 77—." And then I caught myself. I was stammering for a minute after that, though which you know is not good for a quarterback in the huddle.

So this was the toughest thing for me, tougher even than getting used to the guys because the Giants, of course, were friendly.

The important essential for any man coming to a new team is to earn the respect of that team. The Giants have been under great quarterbacks like Charley Conerly and Y. A. Tittle. They're a well-disiplined team. I knew they wouldn't take liberties with me in the huddle. It isn't, as coach Allie Sherman likes to say, a scattered group.

The quarterback's got to win the confidence of his team by performing well, where they know on third and long yardage he can do it for them. At the same time, the quarterback's got to know what they can do for him, to be able to lead a group of different personalities and different traits. So after the initial feeling of strangeness faded, I had to adjust to the abilities of the guys.

Take, for instance, the receivers on the Giants. They have unbelievable speed. Aaron Thomas is the fastest slot end (or tight end) in football. Homer Jones is fantastic—not every man can say that he beat Bob Hayes in a foot race. Del Shofner is faster, even now after 10 years, than anybody we had in Minnesota. Therefore, I've had to work on my timing with them.

And they all have their little tricks in running routes. Homer does a different turn-in pattern than Shofner.

Finally, to feel like a Giant, I've had to know the fans. I don't mean it's open house at the Tarkentons. My phone number's unlisted, like it was in Minnesota and like it is in Atlanta. But I've never seen people more interested in pro football than they are in New York, or recognize you more.

After the game against the Philadelphia Eagles in Princeton, N. J., I got dressed and drove my car around to a gate to pick up my wife, Elaine. I figured I could get lost in the crowd. Considering the final score — the Eagles won — I wanted to.

Open Season Against CBA

By ED PALLADINO
Freeman Sports Staff

Encouraged by a turnout of 55 boys, Saugerties High football coach Fred Seither is prepping the Sawyers for their first engagement, a night contest Saturday, Sept. 23 at Bleecker Stadium, Albany against Christian Brothers Institute.

Highland, which usually helps the SHS eleven commence its schedule, is not on the slate this season and Seither just recently booked the non-league opener with the CBA eleven.

For the first time in several seasons, the head coach has some speed in the backfield and an experienced quarterback to handle the offense.

Starting Backfield

John Warns, who did most of the signal calling last season, returns for another crack at the job. Tony Konopka, a second team All-DCSL selections and Richard Praetorious are leading candidates for the halfback posts and Tom Christiana is the fullback.

End Drew Craig, tackle Carl Nickerson and guard Dick Bollin are returnees up front. Letter winners back for more action include Ken Myer, end; Ward Borcherdt and Dick Downey, tackles; Tom Ziegler and John Washburn, guards and Howard Post and Tim Suerram, centers.

Pete Kramer will again be the assistant varsity coach. Newcomer James Kirk will handle the jayvees and Bill Schirmer, one of the school's greatest athletes and an outstanding defensive end at the University of Miami, returns to handle the junior high gridders.

Schedule

Date	Opponent	Where
Sept. 23	Christian Bros	Away 7:30
Sept. 30	Arlington	Away
Oct. 7	Lourdes	Home
Oct. 14	Poughkeepsie	Away
Oct. 21	Wappingers	Home
Oct. 28	Cardinal Farley	Away
Nov. 4	Roosevelt	Away
Nov. 11	Beacon	Home

All games are in the DCSL and begin at 1:30.

Saugerties High

STRENGTH — Experienced backfield with fair to good speed; good number one quarterback.

OFFENSE — Delaware Winged T with variations.

Braves to Play Winsted Sunday

The baseball season isn't over for the Kingston Braves —not yet. Fred Davi's tossers travel to Winsted, Conn. Sunday for the opener of the best-of-three semi-final playoff series.

Amenia plays at Millerton in the other semi-final. The Braves and Winsted clash at Dietz Stadium on Sunday, Sept. 17.

Honeymon Was Short for Short

By DICK COUCH
ASSOCIATED Press Sports Writ

Short, Philadelphia's 29-year-old southpaw ace, took a bride Thursday afternoon, then pitched five perfect innings against Cincinnati Thursday night.

But Leo Cardenas' leadoff single in the sixth ended the hitless string, Tommy Harper poked another single, Tommy Helms walked and Lee May smacked a bases-loaded triple, ruining Short's evening and giving the Reds a 3-1 victory over the Phillies.

In other National League games, St. Louis clubbed the New York Mets 9-2 behind Bob Gibson, San Francisco nipped Houston 3-2 in 15 innings, Pittsburgh downed Atlanta 4-2 and the Chicago Cubs squeezed past Los Angeles 3-2 in 12 innings.

Short married Marsha Hickling of Largo, Fla., in Valley Forge, Pa., after a dizzy whirl of wedding preparations that began Wednesday when the Phillies stepped off a plane from Atlanta.

The couple, who met at the Phillies' Clearwater, Fla., spring training base last spring, obtained a marriage license one minute before the license bureau closed Wednesday.

Pappas Wins 15th

Gibson, pitching for the first time since July 15, when a line drive by Roberto Clemente cracked a bone in his right leg, worked five innings and was credited with his 11th victory.

The Cards' ace was tagged for eight hits before turning over an 8-1 lead to reliever Larry Jaster, but said afterward the leg hadn't bothered him.

Dal Maxvill paced the Cards' 16-hit attack with three singles and a double while Roger Maris and Julian Javier connected for homers.

Bob Schroder singled with two out in the 15th inning at San Francisco, took second when Ken Henderson was nicked by a pitch and scored the winning run on Jesus Alou's single. The lose was Houston's eighth in a row. The Giants have won six straight.

Yesterday's Stars

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

BAING — Dal Maxvill, Cardinals, ripped three singles and a double, leading a 16-hit assault that buried the New York Mets 9-2.

Shutout for Lasher

Schrade's Capture Title at Ellenville

Bob Lasher of Kingston pitched the pennant clincher for Schrade-Walden in the Ellenville Softball League Thursday.

Completing an unbeaten 8-0 season, Lasher blanked Woody's Bar and Grill, 5-0, on a 2-hitter with 10 strikeouts in the fifth and final game of the championship series.

Schrade's collected only six blows off Richie Hoffman, another Kingston twirler, but two were home runs by Charlie Page and John Hohman.

Both hits off Lasher were singles and only two runners advanced as far as second base. He walked one batter as only three men reached first as his mates backed him with flawless support.

Score in First

Schrade's reached Hoffman for a first inning run on Darmstadter's two out double and Holmes' single.

Charlie Page led off the second with a solo homer and Hoffman wild pitched the second run home with the bases loaded after Matt Crystal walked, Art Thomas was safe on an error and Lasher bunted successfully.

Holmes' second single and John Hohman's home run accounted for two quick Schrade runs in the sixth. It was Hohman's third homer in the five game playoff.

Kickers on Road

Poughkeepsie Team Joins Soccer Loop

The annual reshuffling of teams completed, the German-American Soccer Association's three divisions launch the 1967-68 campaign with 15 games Sunday.

The two new teams in the League Division are Poughkeepsie Blue and Whites and Dalmatinac of New York. They replace Bridgeport, 1967 champions, and Spring Valley who were promoted to the Premier Division.

Other teams making up the League Division are: Schwaben, American Czechs, Lithuanian, White Plains, Yonkers, West New York and Bavarian. All are holdovers.

BW Gottschee, 1966-67 champions of the Premier Division, moves up to the Major Division, Brooklyn Soccer Club, last in the Major loop, is relegated to the Premier Division.

New York Hota of the Major Division merged with Minerva/Pfaelzer of the League Division and will play in the Major Division as New York/Hota.

Dalmatinac was recruited from the Eastern District League for the League Division.

Kingston at Peak

Coach Bob Graves also has such veterans as Timo Liekoski, a consistently fine goal tender; Rob Iggers, Bill Newmerchinsky, all-time ace Reiner Schwebel, Jon Weber, Richie Lotze, Jimmy Reinhardt, Tony Alexander, Tony Fitzharris, Lee Roberts and Captain Winnie Soddermann.

"We're in pretty good shape to make a fast start toward next year's pennant," said Graves. "The league shapes up as tougher than last year but we should hold our own."

Schmedake Tops In Trapshoot

Bob Schmedake, the faithful publicity director for the weekly trapshooters at Lake Katrine Rod and Gun Club, finally had a chance to write about himself. He led the field with a .940 average on strings of 23-24.

Other leaders were: Lanning Steitz, .880; Tom Bernardini, .853; Grover Ellsworth (25), .853; Bob Sperl, .840; Frank Austermann, .800.

Practice for the Ulster County Federation championships is scheduled Sunday at Walker Valley Sportsmen's Club where the title event will be held on Sept. 24.

National Football League teams scheduled a record number of 51 exhibition games this year, including 16 with American Football League clubs.

$3 Million Suit In Lema's Death

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Federal court records disclosed Thursday that two damage suits for more than $3 million have been filed against an Illinois air charter service over the death of professional golfer Tony Lema.

Lema and his wife were killed in July 1966 when a private plane crashed near Munster, Ind. They were en route from Akron, Ohio, to Lynwood, Ill.

The First National Bank in Dallas, as executor of the Lema estate, brought the suits against Joliet Air Charter Service, Inc., and Mainline Aviation, Inc., of Joliet, Ill.

One suit asks $1 million in damages for Mrs. Lema's mother, plus $30,000 for hospital bills, funeral expenses and court costs. The other seeks $2 million and similar costs for Lema's mother and son.

Yankee Division All-Star Winner

Stroking 11 assorted base hits and taking advantage of 11 errors, the Yankee division cruised to a 17-5 win over the Met division in the Saugerties Softball League All-Star game Thursday evening.

Maurice Hinchey and Barney Hoyt, who moved from the Met to the Yankee division in an exchange of pitchers for the contest, combined to throw a six-hitter. Bob Wolven was the loser.

Herb Whitaker had three singles in four trips for the winners.

Full Schedule Set For AFL Grid Squads

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The American Football League presents its first full schedule of regular season play this weekend while Detroit is at St. Louis tonight in the start of the National Football League's final series of exhibitions.

The AFL opened its regular season a week ago, Denver taking Boston 26-21 in the only game, but has its first full, four-game schedule starting Saturday.

Defending champion Kansas City is at Houston and Boston is at San Diego, both at night, Saturday. New York is at Buffalo and Denver is at Oakland in day games Sunday.

The NFL offers eight games, six of them Saturday night, with single games Friday and Sunday in the close of exhibitions that is certain to push preseason attendance past the two-million mark. The NFL opens regular season play the following weekend.

Saturday's schedule has Atlanta (2-1-1) at New Orleans (4-1); Baltimore (3-1) at Dallas (2-2); Chicago (1-3) vs. Philadelphia (4-1) at Memphis, Tenn.; New York (1-2-1) at Green Bay 5-0; Pittsburgh (2-2) vs. Washington (3-1) at Norfolk, Va., and San Francisco (2-2) at Los Angeles (5-0).

The Chiefs, odds-on to repeat as AFL champs, have virtually the same team back that dominated the league last year. The major change has defensive halfback Fletcher Smith replacing injured Fred Williamson.

Len Dawson, who sat out the final exhibition game, will start at quarterback for the Chiefs, who beat Houston 24-9 in an exhibition match. Jacky Lee will go for Houston.

Buffalo has settled on trade acquisition Tom Flores as its No. 1 quarterback over Jack Kemp. The Bills' nationally televised game with New York is the first of a four-game home stand. Buffalo beat New York 31-23 in a preseason game less than two weeks ago.

In two major trades Thursday, the Miami Dolphins sent rookie quarterback Jon Brittenum to San Diego for a draft choice, while the Los Angeles Rams acquired defensive tackle Roger Brown from Detroit for three draft choices. The Rams needed Brown as a fill-in for injured Roosevelt Grier.

Supreme Byrd Stakes Winner

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Supreme Byrd flew away with the $15,200 New York Sire Stake for 2 - year - old pacing fillies at Batavia Downs Thursday night, winning the top event in the evening's harness racing across the state by nearly nine lengths.

Bill Myer took the winner to the wire in 2:05 2-5 after sending her into the lead at the halfway mark. Look Lively was second, trailed by Dale Barmin.

While Supreme Byrd, a 1-5 favorite, returned $2.60, long - shot betters at Saratoga Raceway collected that track's highest winning payoff of the season.

Razzu returned $127 for a $2 pari-mutual ticket when she won a $600 pace for maidens. That mile-long contest was clocked in 2:09 4-5, with Skidoo Pick second and Small Dome finishing third.

The $1,500 trot at Saratoga Raceway was won by Lizzie Tish in 2:06. Amy C. was four lengths back, trailed by Seer.

The winner returned $20.40.

In races featured at other harness tracks:

Vernon Downs — T. K. Munger ($4.20) defeated Jarvis Ra B by a length and a quarter and won the $1,100 pace in 2:03. Pattyhill Mart was third.

Roosevelt Raceway — Tarport Joe ($8) held on gamely and won the featured pace in 2:00 4-5 under the guiding hand of Harold Dancer Jr. Favored Chris Time was nearly a length back, trailed by Mr. Lucifer.

Sore Shoulder and Hewitt Big Hurdles For Newcombe

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — There are two big obstacles between Australian John Newcombe and the Wimbledon-U.S. tennis double — a sore shoulder and Bob Hewitt.

Newk fears Hewitt the more.

"This shoulder thing just came up in the last couple of days—I was sitting in the clubhouse and I felt a twinge," the handsome, 23-year-old Aussie said Thursday. "Luckily, it's in my left shoulder, otherwise I might not be able to play.

"I got a rub-down and the trainer says he thinks it's just a sore tendon and will go away."

Hewitt won't. This Australian refugee who became a citizen of South Africa, is Newcombe's quarter-final opponent today in the National Tennis Championships at the West Side Tennis Club.

Newcombe seemed to be nursing his sore shoulder Thursday when he beat Ray Moore of South Africa in a fourth round match 7-9, 6-2, 6-2, 6-2. Hewitt smashed young Bobby Lutz of Los Angeles, the U.S. college champion, 11-9, 6-4, 6-4.

The United States has two men in the quarter-finals — a 100 per cent improvement over last year. Seventh-seeded Clark Graebner of Beechwood, Ohio, plays Roy Emerson, winner here in 1961 and 1964 and second-seeded. Gene Scott of New York has a date with Owen Davidson of Australia. The other match sends Ron Barnes of Brazil against the Danish giant-killer, Jan Leschly.

Outlasts Holmberg

Scott outlasted the 29-year-old Ron Holmberg, of Highland Falls, N.Y., 4-6, 6-3, 3-6, 6-2, 6-4. Davidson won a thriller from the 1963 champion, Rafael Osuna of Mexico, 8-6, 8-6, 0-6, 4-6, 6-2.

America's tennis darling, Billie Jean King of Long Beach, Calif., takes the center court today in a quarter-final match against Annette Van Zyl of South Africa. The bespectacled American girl is bidding to become the first American since Althea Gibson in 1958 to win both the Wimbledon and U.S. titles in a single year.

Mrs. Ann Haydon Jones, the 28-year-old British Wightman Cupper, and Australia's Lesley Turner advanced to the women's semifinals Thursday.

Mrs. Jones beat Peaches Bartkowicz of Hamtramck, Mich., the national junior champion, in a baseline slugfest 7-5, 2-6, 6-1. Miss Turner crushed Rita Bentley of Britain, 6-1, 6-2.

Gean Glow Cops Monticello Win

MONTICELLO, New York—Gean Glow, a nine-year-old mare, trotted to a 2:06 win in the feature at Monticello Raceway last night in the hands of trainer and provisional driver Early Lacy, paying $17.40.

When favored Nora V. Spencer went offstride around the first turn Gerard Mir pushed to the lead and held on past the 1:02.4 half. But tiring as they approached the last quarter, Lacy took Gean Glow out to grab the lead, with Miss Barry Prom following out but unable to overhaul Gean Glow who went on to post her sixth win in 16 starts on the year. Flower Print finished third.

The daily double of 5-3 was worth $32.80 as Arthur Bier won the opener on Pete's Spitfire and, Ernest Jacobs drove He's My Boy home on top in the second race.

When Julius Boros won $6,500 in the PGA championship, he ran his 1967 golf earnings to $100,735.

LEGAL NOTICES

THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK BY THE GRACE OF GOD, FREE AND INDEPENDENT TO: Arthur Di Alli and Marie Drew (second supplemental citation) SEND GREETING:

Upon the petition of Andrew Torregrossa & Sons, Inc., a creditor of the estate of Concetta Cassaro, deceased.

You and each of you are hereby cited to show cause, at a Surrogate's Court to be held in and for the County of Ulster, at the Surrogate's Office, in the City of Kingston, in said County, on the 18th day of September next, at 9:30 o'clock in the forenoon of that day, why a decree should not be made awarding Letters of Administration of the goods, chattels and credits which were of said decedent to Fred H. DuBois, County Treasurer of Ulster County.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, we have caused the seal of the said Surrogate's Court to be hereunto affixed. Witness, HON. ARTHUR A. DAVIS JR., Surrogate of our said County, at the City of Kingston, the 14th day of August in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and sixty-seven.

[L. S.]

Clerk of the Surrogate's Court

STATE OF NEW YORK SUPREME COURT: ULSTER COUNTY.

MICHAEL SABINO and CARMINE SABINO,
Plaintiffs,
— against —
JAMES MURRAY, JOHN DOE and JANE ROE, the said names JOHN DOE and JANE ROE, being fictitious and being intended to designate any distributees, heirs at law, and devisees of JAMES MURRAY, whose names are unknown and if any of them be dead, their distributees, heirs at law and distributees and every person in being who would have been entitled to an estate or interest in the real property involved in this action by any contingency contained in a devise or grant or otherwise if such event had happened immediately before the commencement of this action and every person who by purchase, inheritance or otherwise have or claim to have an interest in the real property involved in this action, whose names are unknown to plaintiffs and the PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK

To the above named Defendant

YOU ARE HEREBY SUMMONED to answer the complaint in this action and to serve a copy of your answer, or, if the complaint is not served with this summons, to serve a notice of appearance, on the Plaintiffs Attorneys within 20 days after the service of this summons, exclusive of the day of service (or within 30 days after the service is complete if this summons is not personally delivered to you within the State of New York); and in case of your failure to appear or answer, judgment will be taken against you by default for the relief demanded in this complaint.

The foregoing summons is served upon you by publication pursuant to an order of Honorable Louis G. Bruhn, Supreme Court Justice, dated August 22, 1967, and filed on August 22, 1967, with the complaint in the office of the clerk of Ulster County in Kingston, Ulster County, New York, the original complaint therein having been duly filed in said office on August 17, 1967.

The object of the above entitled action is to determine claims to real property pursuant to Article 15 of the Real Property Action and proceedings law of the State of New York, said real property being described as follows:

ALL THAT TRACT, PIECE OR PARCEL OF LAND, situate in the Town of Kingston, County of Ulster, State of New York, assessed on tax roll of said town in the year 1957, to Murray, James and bounded and described on such tax roll from the description furnished pursuant to law thereof as set forth in the notices of sale prepared therefrom and duly published pursuant to law, as follows: 6 acres more or less, described as woodlot 148, Binnewater Class, bounded north by Hanrahan, east by Murray Road, south by Shaw, west by Missano, against which the words "Murray, James" appear on the Assessment Roll of the Town of Kingston for the year 1957, and being the same premises conveyed by Fred H. DuBois as County Treasurer of the County of Ulster, State of New York, to the County of Ulster by Deed dated July 1, 1959.

BEING the same property conveyed by the County of Ulster by deed dated December 23, 1963 to Michael Sabino and Carmine Sabino and recorded March 16, 1965, in the Ulster County Clerk's Office in Liber 1163 of Deeds at page 1066.

Dear Abby

Husbands Go to Stags

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a young housewife with a small child. My husband, I'll call him Arthur, is still in the university, and I work part time to help support us. We have very little money and seldom go out. We have friends occasionally and find time to have fun together, but here is the problem:

A friend of Arthur's is getting married soon and Arthur mentioned that he would like to go to a stag for this friend. I told him if he went out I would not sit home alone, but would also go out and have a good time somewhere. Arthur objected to this.

I say, in the first place a married man has no business going to a stag. Besides that, I don't like to stay home alone. I get depressed and miserable and sit and look at the clock. Am I wrong?

EQUAL RIGHTS

DEAR EQUAL: Yes, you are wrong. Married men do go to stags. And an occasional night out with the boys is healthy for a man and also for his marriage. You show a possessiveness and possibly mistrust that is unbecoming and unjust. Send Arthur to the stag with a smile, and while he's out get your nose back into joint and into a good book.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: There is a man (married) in our circle of friends who always greets me with a great big powerful bear hug.

I am pleased that he feels so warm and affectionate toward me, but I do not happen to feel the same about him. Yet when he gives me this kind of greeting it is impossible for me to refuse his embrace without practically insulting him.

I just do not like to be drawn chest to chest with a man and crushed and hugged. Is there some nice way I can get this big moose to keep his hands off me?

Don't tell me to tell him off. I'm not the type.

PEE-WEE

DEAR PEE WEE: When you see The Cruher, approach HIM with your right arm outstreched, and put a lot of enthusiasm into a welcoming handshake. Try it. It works.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: For some years now I have been wondering what ever happened to the good old-fashioned fist fight between two youngsters when they had a difference of opinion?

Nowadays, it seems that the acceptable method of settling a difference consists of unmerciful—and sometimes—beatings administered not by one fellow, but by three or four cowards—or a whole gang against one.

I grew up in one of the toughest neighborhoods in New York City 40 years ago, and if I happened to wander alone into the other gang's territory, the worst I could expect was that I'd have to fight ONE of the other gang. If I happened to be getting the better of the guy, I didn't have to worry about any of his buddies joining in to help him. Each kid took pride in fighting his own battles.

If anyone jumped in to help a pal, his whole gang would disown him on the spot, and his name would be "yellow belly" from then on.

We never heard of "rat packs" in those days. And we didn't use switchblades and lead pipes. It was one guy's fists against another's. Some of our fights were pretty bloody. But they were fair.

What's happened to our kids? Anyone care to comment?

Horoscope

By SYDNEY OMARR

It's In The Stars—

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 9, 1967

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 19): Direction of purpose necessary. Don't flounder. Applies especially where security, investments concerned. Money affecting mate, partner, close associates spotlighted. Act.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20): Status quo will not remain. Be ready. Make necessary adjustments. May involve written agreement. Get to heart of matter. Deal with legal problems. Consult mate, partner.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Pressure exerted on relations with associates, co-workers. Don't expect something for nothing. Clarify position. Remember resolutions concerning diet, health. Be moderate.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Activity shown in connection with children, creative endeavors. Changes indicated. Could engage in social activity tonight. Confusion exists, but of the exciting variety.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Shakeup due where routine is concerned. Obtain hint from CANCER message. One who was previously conservative acts in eccentric manner. Be ready. Maintain sense of humor. Go slow in traffic.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Take special care around machinery, traffic. Read LEO message. Be wary of reports not backed up by evidence. Discard rumors. Steer clear of disputes with close relatives.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Money affairs continue in spotlight. Restrictions relaxed. Good night to celebrate. But avoid extravagance. Socialize. Be a good listener.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Impatience could cause impulsive action, statement. Key is self-control. Don't feel everything is closing in. Temporary form of restriction will pass.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Secret information revealed today. You gain co-operation of club, group, special organization. But you must be dynamic, alert, enthusiastic.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Flurry of activity indicated where friends are concerned. Some may ask you to take sides in dispute. Best to remain neautral. Those who battle today are friendly tomorrow.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Tread lightly in dealing with neighbors, higher-ups. Tendency for misunderstanding to arise from minor matter. Make intentions clear in diplomatic manner.

PISCES (Feb. 19-Mar 20): News received could change long-range plans. Travel and correspondence emphasized today. Make use of past experience. Apply lessons. Avoid slipshod methods.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are attracted to people with problems. The key is to be of constructive aid. Avoid persons who take without giving anything in return. Change made recently proves constructive.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Cycle high for SCORPIO, SAGITTARIUS, CAPRICORN. Special word to GEMINI: accept repsonsibility. Do plenty of listening, observing.

The name "wonder bids" has been applied rather scathingly to the set of weak bids so popular today among our leading players. The modern expert uses weak twos and weak jump overcalls as a matter of course. Any other weak bids he uses are a matter of his style and there are plenty to choose from.

We use some weak bids ourselves but have never been so completely sold on them as to believe that they are invincible. Skillfully used, most of them give their users an advantage. unskillfully used they are likely to bite back at you.

One "wonder bid" is the Michaels cue bid invented by the late Mike Michaels. It is usually used over minor suits only and shows both majors. It may be strong but it also may be quite weak.

South was using this bid for the first time and decided that his hand called for a jump to three hearts. The hand would support a strong bid over a real cue bid and North expected South to show up with a better hand.

Not that North bid cautiously. South could have a pretty good hand but West might be on lead with the ace and king of diamonds. But North did know he had a mighty good hand for his Michaels cue bid and that it seemed to be a good time to forget science, bid a slam and hope for the best.

We would like to report that South went down but we have to stick to the facts. South wasn't happy with the heart lead but he decided to make the best of things. He won East's jack of hearts with the queen and promptly led a spade. West Jack fell to dummy's queen and South breathed easier. When both opponents followed to the ace of hearts it was just a matter of mopping up. South played a heart to his ten and led a second spade. West dropped the king and South wound up with six spades, five trumps and the ace of clubs.

'Nun' Has Takeoff Trouble

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "The Flying Nun" may be able to glide around on air currents, but the premiere show on ABC Thursday night had plenty of trouble getting off the ground.

It was the hour-long pilot film for the half-hour series and gave viewers a chance to see how Sister Bertille happened to fly.

No Mary Poppins

The situation comedy has for its principal character a compulsive little Miss Fixit in a religious habit. She can play a mean game of gin rummy, dance the watusi and even persuade hard-bitten businessmen to give land to the convent. But Mary Poppins, alas, she is not.

Sally Field plays a 90-pound novice with a bizarre "cornette"—or coif—that looks like a seagull in flight and is supposed to catch any win andd boost its wearer into the sky. She gives the role the same cheerful energy and youthful bounce she once invested in "Gidget."

But "The Flying Nun" has its problem, and that seems to be the rather heavy-handed treatment given the whimsy of the show. Fantasy can only succeed if the audience buys the premise and at no point in the opening show was the flying bit anything more than an obvious and unconvincing gimmick. It seemed to be, in fact, dragged in by the heels.

The report around Hollywood in preseason weeks was that the series might prove to be the surprise hit of the season. Maybe the later episodes will be more amusing and bright.

F. Lee Bailey, the criminal lawyer, made his show business debut as the bland host-interviewer of "Good Company," ABC's adaptation of the old "Person to Person" idea. His first visit was at the home of film star Tony Curtis and family.

Bailey Colorless

The first portion of the half-hour show was interesting because it showed the magnificence of the Curtis estate in Beverly Hills, with Tony indulging in an earnest lecture on art.

Bailey proved to be unexpectedly colorless as host and his questions were the cliches of the movie star interview—"which do you prefer to play in comedies or dramas?"

Kapers Show Opens Oct. 31

President Harold E. Keator Jr., today announced that the Kingston Kiwanis Club will stage the 1967 Kiwanis Kapers on Oct. 31 and Nov. 1 and 2 at the Kingston High School Auditorium.

He reported that Donald MacIsaac will be director and writer of the show, while James V. Geary and Frank H. Reis will be associate directors.

Keator said the Kiwanis Club puts on the Kiwanis Kapers annually to raise funds to be used toward the club's Scholarship Fund Awards.

"We're doing a real worthy service through these awards to enable needy students to obtain a higher education," Keator said, "but it would be impossible to do this without the funds we obtain from our Kiwanis Kapers. We want to help the community in the important area of scholarships, but to do it we need the community's support."

MacIsaac wrote and directed the 1966 Kiwanis Kapers, entitled The Day We Stopped Fighting and Learned to Frug. It was a satire on events and personalities in Ulster County.

MacIsaac also wrote and directed three previous Kiwanis Kapers, Little Abner in 1957, Roaring 20's in 1950 and The Making of a President in 1962.

MacIsaac, a first vice president of the Kiwanis Club, is community relations and information manager for the International Business Machines Corp. in Kingston. Prior to joining IBM, he worked in radio and television as an announcer and writer.

In 1959, 1961 and 1962, Mr. MacIsaac served as director-producer of the New York State Beauty Pageant conducted in Kingston. In recognition of his work in the community, MacIsaac was selected Young Man of the Year by the Kingston Junior Chamber of Commerce in 1962.

Vote Rights Spelled Out

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — After slightly more than five months of effort the Constitutional Convention finally has adopted its first completed article, a measure spelling out the voting rights of New York citizens.

With a self-imposed deadline of Sept. 26 only a little more than two weeks away, the delegates debated more than three hours Thursday before approving the final version of the suffrage proposal by a vote of 139-30.

Thin Arguments

After completing action on the voting-rights plan, the convention spent two hours rearguing an article dealing with powers and functions of the Legislature before adjourning until next Monday. Many of the delegates were headed for judicial nominating conventions today.

No final vote was taken on the legislative proposal because it was sent back to the Committee on Style and Arrangment for incorporation of changes made Thursday in the preliminary draft. It is expected to gain final approval next week with little or no debate.

Meanwhile, in another development, the State Housing Finance Agency reported there were no bidders on a $46.6-million offer of bond - anticipation notes intended to finance construction in the State University system.

Officials blamed the failure to attract bids on concern in the financial community over the "free college" policy preliminarily adopted by the Convention last week.

Last week, Republicans fighting the free college idea in the convention warned that investors might shy away from such investments if the Democratic plan gained approval.

'Highly Disturbing'

Thursday, the convention's Republican minority leader, Earl W. Brydges, said the failure to attract bids was "highly disturbing" and indicated "a frightening lack of confidence on the part of the financial community."

Brydges said the future of higher education was in doubt "unless this convention takes action which will reassure potential investors."

Like all measures before the convention, the free college proposal requires a second approval by the delegates before it can be included in the proposed constitution.

This was the procedure Thursday on the suffrage article. It originally was approved in preliminary form July 24.

It had been assumed that, since extensive debate had taken place before the preliminary approval, there would be little discussion on the measure when it came up for final passage. Such was not the case.

One of the major items in the proposal would leave the minimum voting age at 21 but permit the Legislature to lower it to 18.

Republicans offered two amendments, both of which would have eliminated legislative power to reduce the voting age. One of the amendments would have lowered the age to 20, while the other would have left it fixed at 21.

The GOP argued that the convention was abdicating its responsibility in leaving the voting age question to the Legislature. Democrats countered that the voting age was spelled out at 21 and the article merely permitted the Legislature to act if it saw fit.

HUNTED—Police of Auburn, Ala. have an all points bulletin for the arrest of Edward Albert Seibold, 21, a former student at Auburn University who shot three girls to death and wounded their mother. Arrest Driver On Charge of Cursing Police

A Kingston man was arrested by Sheriff's deputies early today along Route 375 and charged with harassment.

Confined to the county jail in lieu of $200 bail is Albert D. Dunn of 2 John Street. He is accused by Deputies Robert Jordon and Michael Giordano of cursing officers on duty.

According to Deputy Jordon, the deputies were traveling toward Woodstock 3:10 a. m., on Route 375 when they noticed a car parked in the road. Jordon said they halted their patrol car for a routine check.

He told the deputies, Jordon noted, that he had just been runoff the road and inquired whether the deputies had seen the alleged mishap. Jordon replied they had not.

Dunn then explained that he had just been ticketed in Woodstock and asked if the deputies could help him in this respect, Jordon said.

The deputies again answered in the negative.

"Dunn then began to curse us," Jordon stated, "and we were forced to arrest him."

Sentencing Put Off

Leslie Sholts Jr., 19, Wilbur Avenue, accused by police of leaving the scene of an accident, unlicensed operator and unauthorized use of a motor vehicle, pleaded guilty in City Court today. Sentencing was adjourned until Sept. 16. Sholts was arrested early this morning following a crackup on Abeel Street. The defendant is alleged to have lost control of a pickup truck, hit a utility pole and rammed into a house located at 611 Abeel Street.

School Board Acts on Three Major Topics

By WALTER S. CLARK JR.

The Board of Education of the Kingston School District Consolidated met Thursday night and took action to bring major developments on three fronts.

The Board:

Exemptions, Vote, Bond

● Moved to re-evaluate school tax exemptions on properties owned by residents 65 years of age and over with income of less than $3,000 a year, to decide whether to continue allowing exemption because of the loss in revenue the first year.

● Approved an election to choose an organization to act as the exclusive bargaining agent for the teachers' negotiating unit or to determine that the staff does not wish such representation. The election will be held Oct. 13.

● Approved a bond issue of $175,000 and awarded contracts to pay the cost of alterations of the Vocational Building, Kingston High School.

Ira M. Shaw, associate superintendent for business management and Harold E. Keator Jr., chairman of the Business Management Committee, told the board that the New York State Legislature will no doubt be pressed to continue and to increase exemptions for those over 65. They suggested that the board should review the local situation and plan for the next year.

Shaw and Keator recommended that the Board should decide whether the district should continue or discontinue allowing exemptions for the 65-year residents and over, if and should the Legislature increase the exemptions.

A report submitted showed that in the City of Kingston exemptions of $428,200 were allowed for 270 property owners over 65. The total for the district including exemptions allowed in parts of the townships within the district, including the city exemptions, was listed at $599,776 for a total of 517 elderly taxpayers.

Keator noted that if the Legislature should increase the exemptions it might overburden other taxpayers in the district. It was noted by Arthur Withall, board president, that the assessors in the district decide whether a person is qualified for the exemption, and not the school board.

The decision to call for the election to determine the bargaining agent for the teachers came after numerous meetings of officers of the Kingston Teachers Association, the Kingston Teachers Federation, Board of Education and members of the administrative staff. The sessions were held to work out arrangements for the implementation of the Public Employes Fair Employment Act in the school district.

The American Arbitration Association has been chosen to conduct the election, the cost of which will be shared equally by the KTA, KTF and the Board of Education. Voting on Oct. 13 will take place at eight polling places. The teachers' group receiving the majority of votes will be declared the exclusive bargaining agent for all teachers.

The teachers' negotiating unit shall include all professional personnel except superintendent, associate superintendents, assistant superintendents, administrative assistants, principals, assistant principals, directors, assistant directors, supervisors, coordinators, department chairmen and deans.

The movement for the teachers election began in 1962 with the KTF spearheading the effort. After the board's approval of the election last night Vernon Outwater, president of KTF said:

Notes Primary Objective

"We have reached our primary objective, the right of every teacher in this district to freely express himself in a secret ballot election for the ex-

Seven-Member Plans Board For Saugerties

By LYNN MULVANEY

The appointment of a seven-member planning board, the first for the Town of Saugerties; an attempt to purchase 25 acres adjoining Cantine Memorial Field and a $270,000 estimate for water district improvements topped the agenda of last night's meeting of Saugerties Town Board.

Rec Facility Eyed

Named to serve from one to seven years as planners were: George Turner, an assessor; Irving R. Oltmann, now serving the Ulster County Planning Board; Albert J. Cawein, assistant city editor, Kingston Freeman; Roy Olmquist, Ferroxcube Corp.; Dr. Richard Messina, Saugerties dentist; Carleton King, nurseryman and Albert Conte, insurance adjuster.

The appointments, made by the board become effective immediately.

Part of Estate

The board voted further to go on record as being interested in the possible purchase of 25 acres of land from the Knaust Estate for use as a recreational facility.

The property, which is adjacent to the existing Cantine Memorial Field is both level and wooded. Population increases in the town have put an added tax on the present facility and the board has expressed the feeling that more picnic, parking and play fields are required to meet the needs of the people.

An estimate of $270,000 for Glasco water district improvements was given by engineers, Brinnier and Larios.

New Connection, Pit

The report proposed that a new connection to the Saugerties Village water main at Overbaugh Street with a new meter pit to be located there. The line would continue down Overbaugh to Simmons Lane, Apple Tree Drive to a right of way which would cross connect with a six-inch pipe on an unnamed street between Apple Tree Drive and Keith Avenue. The line would also take in Edith and John Streets, Blue Hills Drive, Lamb Avenue, Oak Lane, Willow Road and Barclay Lane. One portion of the main would connect with a one-million gallon storage facility.

$22,000 Estimate

Approval of the Board of Water Commissioners must be forthcoming before any action can be taken.

Washington Avenue Ext. residents, who previously requested a water main tie-in with the nearby village received notification that the cost estimate on that proposal is $22,000. Assessors must hold a public hearing on property assessments for that area before a tax rate can be established to accommodate the proposed change.

Donald Jankowski of Mt. Marion Park presented a petition calling for a speed reduction in that area. Approval of the State Department of Traffic and Control is needed before action can be taken.

Superintendent of Highways William Brown presented specifications for a new town pickup truck. Bids for the vehicle will be opened Sept. 26 at 2 p. m., Town Hall.

Defoliage Tactics For Viet Barrier

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chemical soil-killers will be used in South Vietnam warfare for the first time under the Pentagon's new plan to create a barrier against infiltrating North Vietnamese troops.

Ground Fighting Continues in Vietnam . . . See Story on Page 5.

The Pentagon said earth-poisoning agents will be sprayed over the cleared barrier zone atop South Vietnam to prevent jungle growth from returning and providing concealment for invading Communists.

New Dimension

Introduction of the sterilants will add a new dimension—and perhaps a controversial one—to an already wide-ranging chemical program aimed at wiping out vegetation including crops in certain areas of South Vietnam.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara announced plans Thursday for the barrier—actually an early-warning zone sown with mines and electronic eyes and ears. He elaborated little about its operation.

Confirmation of the long-rumored move came at a news conference at which McNamara labeled Michigan Gov. George Romney, a Republican presidential hopeful, as "blind to the truth" in accusing the Johnson Administration of misleading the public about the war.

McNamara also announced:

—The remaining two brigades of the 101st Airborne Division will be among the additional 45,000 men destined for the war zone by June 30.

—A new Army division, the 6th Infantry, is being created in January to offset troop deployments from strategic forces based in the United States.

—The Pentagon's open-housing program will be spread nationwide to end what he called "a shameful story of discrimination" against Negro servicemen. Housing sites near military bases which refuse to admit Negro servicemen will be placed off limits to all military men in those areas.

McNamara bared few details about the proposed infiltration barrier other than to say its components would range "from barbed wire to highly sophisticated devices."

The idea is not to block the southward flow of enemy troops— McNamara said that can't be done—but to slow infiltrators while electronic alarms alert U.S. commanders. Mobile American units could then be rushed by helicopter and tank to the point of infiltration.

If extended completely across South Vietnam below the so-called Demilitarized Zone, the trip-wire zone would be more than 40 miles wide.

Mum on Laos

McNamara refused to say whether it would also cut across Laos through the jungle network of roads that make up the Ho Chi Minh trail, used by Hanoi to get men into South Vietnam.

To Shun Figurehead Image, Thieu Claims

SAIGON (AP)—Bolstered by Premier Nuyen Cao Ky's failure to win control of South Vietnam's new senate, President-elect Nguyen Van Thieu made plain today that he intends to be No. 1 in fact as well as name in his country's new government.

The chief of state refused to appear on a U. S. television program with his vice president-elect, bringing into the open the long-smoldering feud between the two victorious running mates in Sunday's presidential election.

Thieu appeared for the taping today of the National Broadcasting Company's "Meet the Press" program, but only after telling NBC officials he would appear alone or not at all. NBC originally had invited Thieu and Ky together and said both camps agreed two weeks ago that both men would appear. The program was to have been taped Thursday morning but Thieu backed out at the last minute, saying through a spokesman he had not been properly informed.

After a day of consulations, it was agreed that Thieu and Ky would appear together this morning, but late Thursday night Thieu changed his mind and said he would only appear alone. A spokesman for Ky told NBC the premier had decided to step aside.

The original plan for the program had called for the four American newsmen on the program's panel to alternate their questions between Thieu and Ky.

Appears for Taping

The program will be broadcast in the United States Sunday.

The forced political marriage of the two military leaders on the same ticket was an uneasy one. Both men had announced their intention of running for president, and their quest for support was threatening a split in the armed forces.

Thieu made no move to assert his position as No. 1 until it became apparent that Ky had failed to pull into office with him any of the several senate slates he supported. The senate has a strong Roman Catholic bloc which Thieu—a Catholic—apparently feels is to his advantage. The question of face in the relationship between the two men always has been important to Thieu. As chief of state and technically the superior of the premier, Thieu was said to be constantly annoyed when newsmen and foreign visitors usually paid more attention to the flamboyant, better known Ky.

Intra-Party Fight Looms

Travia Heading for Federal Bench

By CHARLES DUMAS

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Assembly Speaker Anthony J. Travia, now doubling as president of the State Constitutional Convention, finally has agreed to accept appointment as a federal court judge.

Sources close to Travia, the most powerful Democrat at the State Capitol, told The Associated Press that Travia hoped to move to the bench before the year is out.

Steingut Staking Claim

Assemblyman Stanley Steingut, a Brooklyn colleague and political rival of Travia, is moving behind the scenes to stake out his claim for the assignment. Steingut challenged Travia for the job in 1965 but lost after a protracted struggle.

Assembly Majority Leader Moses M. Weinstein of Queens, a staunch ally of Travia in the 1965 fight, also wants the post and is prepared to battle Steingut for the honor.

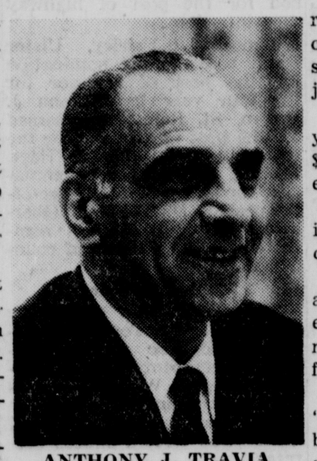

The vacancy would be filled by decision of the Assembly's Democratic majority, provided a contender could muster 76 of the 90 Democratic votes. A majority of the 150-member Assembly is required for election.

GOP Decided Fight

During the 1965 contest, neither Travia nor Steingut could marshal enough support from within their own party. So Republicans stepped in and settled the fight by casting their votes for Travia.

The U.S. District Court seat earmarked for Travia — by appointment of President Johnson — had been held by Matthew T. Abruzzo of Brooklyn, now retired. Early in his career, Travia was Abruzzo's law clerk.

The 55-year-old lawyer-legislator was offered the appointment more than a year ago but has deferred making a decision until recently.

ANTHONY J. TRAVIA

Earlier this week, rumors swept Albany that Travia finally had decided to give up the rough-and-tumble of his 23-year career in the Assembly for the security of a lifetime federal judgeship.

The court post pays $30,000 a year. As speaker, Travia is paid $39,000 but must stand for re-election every two years.

Obeying the protocol in such instances, Travia has declined to confirm or deny the reports.

But persons close to him acknowledged today that Travia expected Johnson to send his name to the Senate for confirmation some time this month.

Meanwhile, he told a reporter, "I'm here today and I expect to be here tomorrow. But," he added with a smile, "that's as far as I'll go."

In response to questioning, Travia said that, should he be appointed to the bench, he still would have time to complete his convention assignment and to campaign for adoption of the remodeled Constitution by New York voters.

The convention is striving to complete its work by Sept. 26 and send its recommendations to the electorate in the Nov. 7 election.

Travia observed that several weeks usually elapse between the time a judicial nominee's name is sent to the Senate and ultimate confirmation of the appointment.

Show Bad Manners

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP)—Civil rights demonstrators staged a "sit- and lie-in" Thursday in the City Hall office of Mayor Henry Maier and left it damaged and clogged with debris.

Police, who had been told by the mayor to let the demonstrators "show the nation their bad manners," arrested five of the group of nearly 100 after fighting broke out in the waiting room outside Maier's executive office.

Heads for Moon Landing

Spider-shaped Surveyor 5 started its intended 65-hour, 221,575-mile lunar journey aboard an Atlas-Centaur rocket at 3:57 a. m. EDT today.

A Smoker's Dilemma

WASHINGTON (AP)—The director of the National Cancer Institute has been off cigarettes for 23 days. And he admits woefully, "I miss them very much."

But Dr. Kenneth M. Endicott adds: "I'm really glad that I stopped."

After smoking for 30 years—slightly more than a pack a day at the end—the cancer expert finally quit because "I was simply in an impossible position." Endicott was getting it from all sides.

State Population Zooms

WASHINGTON (AP)—The population of New York State has grown by 9.2 per cent since the 1960 census to an estimated 18,335,000 residents, the Census Bureau said Thursday.

The population in the nation, overall, rose by 10.4 per cent in the last seven years to 197,884,000 persons as of July 1, the bureau said.

Rosendale Soldier Decorated in Viet

Now on Leave

Smith, currently home on 30 days leave, was wounded twice during his years' tour in Vietnam. He was hit by shrapnel in February of this year and received minor wounds in June.

The Citation

"For heroism: on this date, during Operation Billings, Private First Class Smith was serving as a rifleman as his battalion was securing a landing zone near Chi Linh. At approximately 1200 hours, the battalion was suddenly attacked by an estimated regiment of Viet Cong.

"Company commander received word that the reconnaissance platoon was receiving the brunt of the attack and had sustained heavy casualties. Smith immediately volunteered to accompany a squad which was going to the aid of the reconnaissance platoon. While constantly subjected to intense hostile small arms and automatic weapons fire, Smith and his comrades moved 400 meters to the besieged platoon's position.

"After securing the area, Smith's squad set about treating the casualties and moving them to cover. Several times, Smith entered a Viet Cong kill zone to help the wounded men to a rear area where he treated their wounds and prepared them for air evacuation. While returning to the platoon after carrying casualties to the landing zone, Private Smith and his comrades were attacked by eight Viet Cong whom they quickly killed.

"Through his outstanding courage and devotion to duty, Private Smith significantly contributed to the rout of the Viet Cong and saved the lives of many of his fellow soldiers.

"Private First Class Smith's actions are in keeping with the finest traditions of the military service and reflect great credit upon himself, the 1st Infantry Division, and the United States Army."

Clings to Free Tuition Plan Despite Problem of Credit

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Constitutional Convention President Anthony J. Travia clung to his free-college plan today despite claims that it has destroyed investors' faith in the State University's credit.

Eyebrows were raised in the convention Thursday when the State Housing Finance Agency reported that bankers had spurned a $46.6-million offering of bond - anticipation notes for university construction.

Renewed Effort

Republicans took an I-told-you-so attitude and vowed to redouble their efforts to block Travia's drive for a policy of providing free college educations for all New York residents, regardless of their means.

But the Democratic leader, after mulling over the development, told The Associated Press that he was not going to be deterred.

"If this is eventually approved by the voters," he said, "we can make arangements that will guarantee outstanding bonds — and take care of future borrowings, too."

The notes were offered to investors in New York City by the Housing Finance Agency as a matter of routine. The agency handles borrowings for the State University Construction Fund and had marketed $300 million in obligations without incident.

But, the agency reported, it suddenly found no takers for the new offering, designed to raise funds on a short-term basis — to be repaid later from long-term bond issues.

Issues Statement

In response to inquiries, the agency issued a statement that said:

"We are advised that the absence of bidding is attributed to the concern of the prospective purchasers that it may not be possible for the agency to redeem the notes through the sale of definitive bonds, because of the recent act by the Constitutional Convention which would require the Legislature to establish a system of free higher education.

"Such action, if finalized, would apparently bar the State University from continuing to impose tuition charges which form the basis of repayment of the Housing Finance Agency bonds issued for State University purposes."

The agency's controller, Charles A. Fursa, said this was the explanation given by banks that normally invest in its bonds and notes.

During debate on the free-college plan last week, Republicans protested that it would force removal of tuition charges from the State University system, although the money had been pledged to pay off bond borrowings for expansion of university facilities.

Issue Warning

They warned that investors might react unfavorably.

GOP Minority Leader Earl W. Brydges said after Thursday's development that the turn of events was "highly disturbing."

He added:

"It indicates a freightening lack of confidence on the part of the financial community in what normally have been attractive investments.

"Even more disturbing are the implications for the future of public higher education in this state — unless this convention takes action which will reassure potential investors."

Travia noted that Gov. Rockefeller had been among Republicans who opposed his free-college plan and that the Rockefeller family had influential standing in the state's financial community.

"You can put it any way you want," said Travia, "but I can't help wondering whether this reaction by the bankers wasn't arranged, for a purpose."

In any event, Travia said he would hew to his original course.

The free-college provision was forced through the convention by its Democratic majority over strong Republican protests. Like all propositions, it requires a second approval before it is included in the charter to be submitted to New York voters.

Travia said he intended to press for final passage without any change.

Free Tuition Article Attacked by Delegate

H. Clark Bell, Constitutional Convention delegate from Ulster and Dutchess Counties, today scored Convention President Anthony Travia for the free education article passed Aug. 31.

As a result of the no tuition move, state university construction bonds could find no takers yesterday.

Bell said today, "The failure of the state to sell state university construction fund bonds is the first visible result indicative of the manner in which Convention President Travia has been running the convention."

Berates Majority

"The Democratic party has majority control and with that control comes the responsibility of leadership and the duty to act responsibly. Propositions must be considered on their merits and not on the narrow basis of partisian political advantage."

The local delegate noted that when the free education article was passed last Thursday, "this potential danger was raised on the floor in debate by Republican spokesmen but they were beaten down." Travia exercized "magnificant political control over his delegates, ramming the free education article through."

Bell brought attention to the fact that the free education article has great political appeal in New York City.

"If the proposition were considered on the merits it becomes obvious that it is unsound. Why should the child of a millionarie receive a free college education, medical school educaion, internship and post graduate work the cost of which has to be paid for by some citizen perhaps earning $8,000 and attempting to support a wife and five children. A wealthy child subsidized in some cases may mean a poor disadvantaged child denied.

"New York State's system of higher education today is the finest in the nation through our various regents scholarships, scholar incentive awards and state guaranteed student loans, any child who has the ability and desire can secure the benefits of a higher education. The Constitutional Convention is a great opportunity for statesmanship to prevail. Unfortunately President Travia has chosen to run the convention on the basis of narrow partisan political advantage."

Freer Heads Demo Slate at Esopus Caucus

George Freer, Union Center, was selected to head up the ticket for local political office at the Town of Esopus Democratic caucus held Thursday night. The caucus held at the Town Hall, Port Ewen, was attended by 164, the largest number of voters to attend a Democratic caucus in the history of the township.

Runoff Vote

Interest in the caucus was heightened by a contest for nomination for the post of supervisor between Freer and Lewis C. Kirschner. Several nominating and seconding speeches were made for each candidate. In the runoff, 158 Democrats voted with Freer receiving 91 votes and Kirschner 67 votes.

Candidates for the other town offices to be voted on in November were selected without opposition. Mrs. Dora Guida, Rifton, was nominated for the post of town clerk; Frank W. Lutz, Port Ewen, was named for the post of tax collector and Edward F. Van Loan, Port Ewen, received the nod for the post of highway superintendent.

James J. Fairley, Ulster Park, received the nomination for the post of assessor for the four year term; John J. Dugan, St. Remy, was named for the post of assessor for the two-year term; Frank Hart, Esopus, was given the nomination for the post of justice-of-the-peace; Mrs. Helen Oberkirch, Ulster Park, was nominated for the position of councilman.

Mabie Presides

The caucus was opened by Walter Bailey, Town of Esopus Democratic party chairman. Incumbent town Supervisor Roger W. Mabie was elected presiding officer of the caucus and Mrs. Winifred Neher was elected caucus secretary.

A committee for the purpose of filling vacancies, if required, was appointed and consisted of Walter Bailey, Cornelius Lynch and Mrs. Marilyn Coffey.

After the selection of candidates, the caucus was addressed by Dr. Gerald P. Gorman, Ulster County Democratic party chairman and by Mrs. Rose Hogan, vice-chairman of the Ulster County Democrats.

Ask Legislation To Aid Migrant Labor Status

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Raymond R. Corbett, president of the New York State AFL - CIO, called today for federal legislation that would permit migrant workers to bargain with their employers and wages and working conditions.

The state's 33,000 migrant farm workers are the "poorest of the poor" who, by exclusion from labor bargaining laws, are "denied the effective right to help themselves," Corbett said in remarks for a hearing of the Senate subcommittee on migratory labor.

The subcommittee is considering legislation to extend collective bargaining to farm workers, prohibit harmful agricultural child labor, and improve programs of recruitment and placement of workers.

The subcommittee will inspect housing and survey working conditions of the migrants in the Rochester area. Sen. Harrison A. Williams, D-N.J., subcommittee chairman said. Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., is presiding officer of the hearing, and Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R - N.Y., is a panel member.

Corbett also scored the exclusion of farm workers from unemployment insurance, state minimum-wage laws, and sickness and disability benefits.

Woodstock GOP Names Slate

Woodstock Republicans, meeting in caucus Thursday night, named their candidaes for the November election making only one change in the slate that now presides.

For the post of assessor, four years, the nomination went to George W. Eichler. The incumbent, Fred G. Freitag, did not seek reelection.

Candidates renominated include: supervisor, William R. West; town clerk and collector, Marjorie Harder; superintendent of highways, William Klementis; justice of the peace, Rudolph C. Baumgarten; councilman, Arthur McDaniel and assessor, Birge H. Simmons.

Trailers Going Shortly

Two concessionaire's trailers parked at Dietz Stadium this summer have been the subject of considerable controversy and vandalism. Efforts of the City Clerk Thomas R. Lyle to have the owner, Fred J. Davi of Saugerties remove them have not been successful.

The city, which has an ordinance prohibiting trailers within its boundaries, may have to resort to legal action, Lyle said.

Reached by phone today, Davi told the Freeman he plans to remove the trailers "within a day or two."

He explained that because someone broke into the trailers this summer and police were investigating the matter, he has been hesitant to move them from the site.

Meanwhile, the city offered Davi the use of a small building on the stadium site for use as a refreshment stand.

Mid-Hudson Dips

Bridge Traffic, 'Take' Up

Traffic and revenue along the Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge increased during August compared to figures recorded a year ago, it was disclosed today.

$57,874 Revenue

According to information published by the New York State Bridge Authority, 213,485 vehicles traversed the the bridge during August, collecting monies amounting to $57,874.75. Last year's totals were 203,709 vehicles crossing with $56,053 paid receipts.

Revenue collected from the five-bridge complex, dubbed the State Bridge Authority, is used to pay off State bond issues. The authority is considered a self-sustaining unit.

However, not all bridges recorded an increase. Poughkeepsie's Mid-Hudson Bridge listed a decrease of 23,217 vehicles crossing and a loss of $9,276. The authority said 436,288 vehicles used the bridge during August compared to 459,505 a year back. Money collected showed $116,210. Last August $125,486 was collected.

Figures for the other bridges are as follows: Rip Van Winkle Bridge — 191,479 vehicles for Aug. of 1967; 190,133 for August '66. Revenue collected totaled $58,496 this August; $56,185 for last August.

Bear Mountain Bridge—226,569 vehicles for Aug. of 1967; 234,718 for Aug. of '66. Monies appropriated totaled $59,557 this Aug.; $61,719 a year ago.

Cheaper Toll

And last, Newburgh-Beacon—389,902 vehicles for Aug. '67; 310,693 a year back. Revenue collected amounted to $107,359 this Aug.; $157,526 for Aug. of 1966. The decrease in revenue, despite increased traffic, is a result of a bridge toll reduction. The toll used to be 50 cents per crossing. Today it is only a quarter.

Beethoven Backwards

JAMESTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — As offbeat entertainment, the Chautauqua Symphony Orchestra presented a backwards version of the first part of the first movement of Beethoven's Fifth Symphony.

Walter Hendl, who was directing the orchestra at Chautauqua Institution, asked French horn player Lester Salomon to write every note for every instrument backwards, from end to beginning.

To get into the spirit of the performance, Hendl had the players turn their backs to the audience. He conducted the unique arrangement from the rear of the platform.

Boat Course To Be Offered

The Mid-Hudson Power Squadron will offer its free course in small boat handling starting on Monday, Sept. 11 at 7:30 p. m. The classes will be held at the Kingston High School and will run for about 13 weeks.

This course is offered free of charge to the public as part of the Power Squadron's program of safe boat handling through education and cooperation with the agencies of the United States Government charged with enforcement of laws and regulations relating to navigation. The classes are open to men and women over the age of 16. Ownership of a boat is not required.

The opportunity for skippers, and would be skippers, to learn safe, happy boating through the skillful teaching of this unique organization should not be missed. Philip DeGrandis of Poughkeepsie, commander of the Mid-Hudson Squadron, expressed his conviction that many tragedies, and near tragedies, could be avoided by participation in the free Power Squadron's courses.

The classes include safety afloat, seamanship, small boat handling, equipment and government regulations, rules of the road, manners and customs, aids to navigation, charts and the compass. All of the instructors are members of the Mid-Hudson Squadron.

Local Salesman Named Winner of Humble's Award

Humble Oil & Refining Company, from its Northeastern Region offices in Pelham, N.Y., has announced the presentation of a 5 year safe driving award to Vincent M. Cahill of Sunset Garden Apartments, Kingston, N. Y. Mr. Cahill is associated with the company's marketing office in Kingston.

Paul Remick Jr., operations manager of Humble's eight-state Northeastern Region, indicated in making the announcement that the awards are made annually to recognize the accident-free driving accomplishments of employes under the company's safety program.

"The best designed vehicle on the road is only as safe as the man behind the wheel," Remick stated in making the announcement. "Our safe driving training stresses defensive driving techniques and the need to watch out for the other fellow. The practice of avoiding trouble by anticipating it enables our trucks and automobiles to achieve some 21 million miles of safe driving annually."

List Sales Rise For Grand Union Through Aug. 26

EAST PATERSON, N. J.—Sales of The Grand Union Company for the five-week period ended August 26, 1967, totaled $84,328,860, it was announced today by the large food and general merchandising chain. This represents a gain of 9.8 per cent over sales of $76,778,399 in the comparable period of 1966.

For the first twenty-six weeks of the company's fiscal year, through August 26, sales were $439,158,578, an increase of 7.7 per cent over sales of $407,805,115 in the corresponding period a year ago.

Grand Union, which operates supermarkets and Grand Way discount department stores in 11 states, Washington, D. C., and Puerto Rico, had 541 retail outlets open at the end of August, 1967, as compared to 533 at the same time a year ago.

New Hercules Plan

Hercules Incorporated of Wilmington, Delaware, and Dainippon Ink & Chemicals, Inc., of Tokyo, announced today that approval of the Japanese Government is being sought for a new joint venture to manufacture specialty paper chemicals under an exclusive license from Hercules.

The proposed new company will offer to the Japanese paper industry a variety of wet-strength resins, wax and resin emulsions, neutral sizing agents, and special-type defoamers.

Governor's Compact

The National Governors Conference next month will give top priority to the request of the Midwestern Governors for an interstate compact that would let a Governor request National Guard forces from a neighboring state if hard pressed to put down civil disorders. The request grew out of criticsm of Guard performance in last month's ghetto riots.

The Midwestern Governors, evenly divided six Democrats and six Republicans, found common ground in their wariness about asking Washington for military forces to put down disorders. They agreed that the first responsibility for maintaining law and order belongs to the state and local governments.

Also, they agreed that the states should have commensurate authority over the social and economic programs that are largely Federally financed, and which are designed to eliminate the causes of discontent, resentment and discrimination by reason of race or poverty. Thus they felt they could eliminate the causes of violence.

It is questionable if such a compact would be constitutional, unless it is authorized by Congress. Congress approved a civil defense compact for New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Connecticut in 1952. This could be a precedent for a National Guard compact among all 50 states. But any authorization would be limited. The Guard may be called at any time on Federal duty and the final word for its disposition lies with the Commander-in-Chief of the armed forces.

Legislative Backlash

When 59 Republican freshmen replaced as many Democrats in the House of Representatives in January, they created a legislative backlash that brought a marked shift to the right in both houses of Congress. Should the trend continue in the election next year, the effect may be felt both in the control of Congress and even in the election of the President.

For these freshmen Congressmen were the first result of a philosophic swing in the electorate that has just come to light. If they mirror the desire of their constituents, they mean that the country is turning away from the liberal philosophy introduced by Woodrow Wilson and expanded by Franklin D. Roosevelt and his successors; and is wondering if it should take a breather to consolidate some of its gains before embarking on new adventures.

These thoughts are based on the rating given members of the Congress by the organization called Americans for Constitutional Action, which was founded in 1958 to promote the election of constitutional conservatives to Congress.

ACA found the House took a conservative stand on 48.4 per cent of the legislation before it this year, a rise from 43.8 per cent the year before. The Senate, where the change in membership was not so marked, took a conservative stand 45.2 per cent of the time as against 41.6 per cent last year.

House members were rated on their votes against increasing the debt limit, rent subsidies, food stamps, the Teachers Corps, aid to elementary and secondary schools and other administration programs. Senate ratings were based on opposition to a consular treaty with the Soviet Union, to continuation of the Appalachian regional development program, to an increase in the debt limit and several other issues.

In a sense, ACA is the opposite to Americans for Democratic Action, which usually rates members of Congress for their liberal votes. That rating, when it comes, will still show an edge to the liberals, but eroded from recent years. These ratings reflect the current struggle in Congress and the one ahead in next year's campaign. If it is an accurate mirror, then the election should be one of the closest in years, a duplicate of the Kennedy-Nixon fight of 1960.

Three gangsters were overheard on a tapped telephone plotting the murder of an informer who was giving information to the Federal Narcotics Bureau in Brooklyn. The informer was subsequently slain. The hoods were indicted for his murder. Since, wiretapping was held unconstitutional, the accused men must be released, though their plotting was verified. No wonder prosecutors fear police are now handcuffed.

The United States expelled two Soviet embassy officials for espionage. The Soviet Union expelled two American diplomats. Then three Soviet cars disappeared in Washington. Three American cars disappeared in Moscow. The game seems to be a modern version of the Biblical eye for an eye. The cold war name for it is, keep face.

Rep. Hale Boggs of Louisiana, the Democratic Whip, has an explanation for the lethargy of the 90th Congress. "People aren't demanding anything new," he said. That is why there is no sense of urgency. He might also have added, so much money has already been appropriated, Congress might better go home before it bankrupts the country.

"Hope You Have More Luck Than I Did!"

Cities, Not Congress, Should Control Rats

WASHINGTON — A most significant example of how easily public opinion in America is misinformed—if not misled—is the impression prevelent today because the federal government is unwilling to spend 40 million dollars to control rats.

On the surface it might seem that Congress is indifferent about the hazards to people from rat bites and the damage to property that can come from what appears to be a "population explosion" of rats. When Congress refused to grant the request by President Johnson that 40 million dollars be spent over a two-year period for rat control, the idea somehow spread across America that the problems of the cities are being neglected, even though the great proportion of the estimated 90 million rats of the country are in rural areas.

Are the towns, cities and counties going to sit back and expect the federal government to do their jobs for them? Rats are not a new phenomenon, and methods of controlling them have been available for many decades. The fact is that some major cities, like Detroit and Milwaukee, have rat-control programs and have substantially reduced the incidence of rat bites. Disease developing from rat bites has been virtually eliminated in many of the cities.

It was the feeling of Congress that local communities with a rat problem should be responsible for the handling of it. If Congress were to be required to take care of the prevention of rat bites, there are plenty of other bites—from cats, dogs, pigs and horses—which could give the federal government an interminable responsibility.

Experience has shown that the most efficient means of fighting rats is a program of starvation and poisoning. The first step—already a part of the sanitation code of most cities and towns—is that all garbage and discarded food shall be stored or disposed of only in metal containers with tight-fitting covers. Once food is made unavailable, hungry rats will eat certain poisons which are harmless to humans and other animals but are effective against rats.

There is one function in all this for the federal government. It is to make studies and provide guidance. Three federal programs dealing with the rat problem already are in existence. The Department of the Interior studies rat-control methods, and gives information on the subject, in a project costing 27 thousand dollars a year. The Public Health Service spends 229 thousand dollars annually on research into rats, and the General Services Administration uses 200 thousand dollars a year to get rid of rats in federal buildings.

It is estimated that it costs about 600 thousand dollars per hundred thousand of human population to exterminate rats, or six dollars per person. Thus, a federal program of only 20 million dollars a year would have little effect on the 90 million rats. If, however, every city fulfilled its job of rat control, the cost would be spread throughout the muncipalities of the country. Experts say that if cities enforced ordinances requiring the proper handling of garbage, and then carried on a program of poisoning, the rat problem would disappear.

The furor over rats is an illustration of how easily cities can forsake their own responsibilities and begin to rely on the federal government for everything. The finger of blame on rat control needs to be pointed not at Congress but at those cities which have neglected to institute programs known to be effective in getting rid of rats.

If the federal government is called upon to deal with every problem of the states, cities and counties, the national debt will grow substantially every year, and the economic condition of the country will be adversely affected. There is a better chance to handle welfare programs and their expenses at the local level than in Washington. But local governments apparently are beginning to feel that if the federal government is to be in the business of taking care of the public welfare on almost everything, it might as well drive out the rats, too.

Congress for once has shown courage in refusing to spend federal funds on a problem which states and cities can handle on their own.

Critics War on McNamara

WASHINGTON — Biggest backstage debate in Washington and the Pacific is whether Secretary of Defense Bob McNamara will resign.

The top brass in the Pentagon and the Pacific have been doing their best to goad him into submitting his resignation. So have potent members of the Armed Services Committees. Together they have been laying the groundwork for his political demise.

However, McNamara, for all his mild manner, is tough and doesn't throw in the towel easily. The Pentagon brass and the armchair strategists on Capital Hill may have met their match.

Bitterest of these armchair critics is Rep. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, an alcoholic who when not drinking can be a very shrewd political in-fighter. Figuring that his animosity against the Secretary of Defense was too well known, Rivers persuaded Rep. Porter Hardy, Virginia Democrat, to spearhead a probe.

The Hardy investigators have been getting ammunition from the right wing and surreptitiously from those close to the Joint Chiefs of Staff, all aimed at doing dirty to McNamara what Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate Preparedness Committee, has been doing on a more dignified basis.

Stennis is fair and respectful. But he has invited all of McNamara's critics to appear in closed-door sessions to sound off against the one-time president of Ford Motors and one-time professor at the Harvard School of Business who now runs the Pentagon.

There are several reasons why the generals and the admirals don't like McNamara. First, he is smarter than they are, gets up earlier in the morning than they do, sometimes calls them before they even get to their desks.

First Real Secretary

More important is the fact that McNamara not merely is called Secretary of Defense, HE IS the Secretary of Defense. Furthermore he is the first real Secretary of Defense. Hitherto the Pentagon brass really ran things.

Beginning with James Forrestal, the first Secretary of all three services, every "boss" of the Pentagon has let the generals and the admirals be boss. The job of being executive over the far-flung 3,000,000 men of the Armed Services, their weapons, their equipment, their logistics and tactics, has been too much for any one man in the past.

Not, however, with McNamara. He knocks heads together; does not let them run the Pentagon.

Difference No. 1 — McNamara has been proved right about bombing North Vietnam. He was not enthusiastic about bombing in the first place and spoke out in that White House 2 a. m. session on the night of Feb. 7, 1965, when the bombing of the north was finally rammed through over the vigorous protest of acting Secretary of State George Ball, and the milder objection of the Secretary of Defense.

Later McNamara reminded the Joint Chiefs publicly that bombing the north had not prevented the infiltration of North Vietnamese troops south; infiltration of troops had doubled.

Difference No. 2 — McNamara sided with the President in opposing the bombing of MIG bases in North Vietnam at a time when the Generals, reinforced by Senators Stennis, Stuart Symington, D-Mo., and Hawk Thurmond, R-S.C., were screaming that these bases be targets.

Finally the President yielded. Whereupon the North Vietnamese merely moved their MIG bases onto Chinese territory, as McNamara predicted they would.

Difference No. 3 — Inside the National Security Council McNamara has been pushing the current maneuver of letting the newly-elected South Vietnamese leaders take the initiative for peace. The President is reported to have bought the idea.

Difference No. 4 — McNamara has argued that North Vietnam has been pretty well saturated by American bombs; that the more important targets have been hit and there is no use pulverizing the country. Gen. Harold K. Johnson, Army Chief of Staff, has vigorously disagreed in testimony before the Stennis Preparedness Committee, while Gen. Wallace Green, Commandant of U. S. Marines, has publicly stated that the war in Vietnam is more important than race riots in the big cities, a political matter completely outside his field of competence.

In 1963 when Admiral George Anderson, then Chief of Naval Operations, got too independent of his civilian superiors, President Kennedy promptly transferred him to be Ambassador to Partugal.

Johnson, however, recently signed into law a provision that the Joint Chiefs of Staff shall serve for four years, thus citting off his own power as Commander-in-Chief to choose and relieve his own military leaders. It's this job security which has recently increased the boldness of the Joint Chiefs in challenging their Secretary of Defense.

In this battle between the No. 1 member of the Cabinet and the military leaders, President Johnson has been intensely loyal to his Secretary of Defense. He goes out of his way to praise McNamara on any and all occasions. However, in policy matters the President has frequently accepted the judgment of his generals and admirals, and as a result, the battle between military and the civilian chiefs of the Pentagon goes on.

By JOHN CHADWICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — Many U.S. District Court judges not only have endorsed the House-passed anti-riot bill but also suggested amendments to make it tougher.

The Senate Judiciary Committee had copies of the bill sent to each of the 338 district court judges, with a request for their comments and recommendations for improving it or making it more readily enforceable.

Replies so far from about 100 judges in all parts of the country are running 80 per cent or better in favor of the bill.

Two indicated they opposed the bill, and some replied it would be inappropriate to comment or took no position on the merits of the legislation. Several suggested it might be difficult to enforce.

Perhaps the most unusual reply was the letter from Chief Judge Charles E. Wyzanski Jr. of the U.S. District Court in Massachusetts. He wrote:

"My position with respect to this bill is identical with that of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts." At the windup of the Judiciary Committee's hearings on the bill, Kennedy said it had "ample public relations value but very little substance." He has maintained it distracts attention from social and economic factors he believes generate riots.

The bill would make it a federal crime to go from one state to another with intent to incite a riot. It would provide penalties of up to five years' imprisonment or a $10,000 fine, or both.

Would Stiffen Sentence

Some of the judges recommended stiffening the maximum prison term. Judge Edwin D. Steel Jr. of Delaware and Judge Joe Eaton of the Southern District of Florida proposed 10 years. Chief Judge William H. Timbers of Connecticut suggested a maximum 20 years. And Judge Pierson M. Hall of the Southern District of California recommended the bill provide for life imprisonment or death in the event a riot incited by an outside agitator resulted in any one being killed.

Judge Luther Bohanon of the Western District of Texas suggested amending the bill to require that bail for anyone caught inciting a riot be set in an amount "to make sure the accused be confined until such time as the danger of riot has passed in whatever locality the riot may be imminent."

Some of the judges recommended deletion from the House-passed bill of language saying that to incite to riot "shall not mean the mere advocacy of ideas or the mere expression of belief."

Judge Carl A. Weinman of the Southern District of Ohio said: "You are setting forth what might be a defense" for a person accused of inciting to riot.

Similarly, Chief Judge James C. Connell of the Northern District of Ohio wrote: "Why should the law-making body invent defenses to the law which it enacts and thus negate the end it seeks to accomplish?"

Connell added, "Frankly, this looks to me as if the law is unconsciously being watered down before it ever comes into existence."

But Judge Myron L. Gordon of the Eastern District of Wisconsin wrote he was pleased to see that the "advocacy of ideas or the mere expression of belief" was excluded as an offense. He said "that goes a long way toward making the bill enforceable."

Jim Bishop: Reporter

A note from Jack Mulligan, publicity manager of Time Magazine, says: "I'd like to draw your personal attention to the enclosed material from the current issue of Time; it may prove of particular interest to you." The enclosure is a lead story on Lyndon B. Johnson. It tells how isolated he is; how insulated from us, the people.

The President is about as isolated as a naked beauty in Times Square; about as insulated as a Peeping Tom with an eye to 100,000,000 keyholes. I have never known a buttinsky like Lyndon Johnson. In the eleven days I spent with him and his family—in the White House and at the Texas ranch—it became obvious that no subject was too small for his interest; nothing at home or abroad escaped his scowling gaze.

I don't run Time Magazine. Nor would I risk the presumption of telling them how to write their corkscrew publication. However, certain personality flaws show up in it. Time would rather damn than praise; belittle than assess; ridicule than report. It has been, for almost 45 years, an experiment in group journalism. The result appears to be sophisticated cant on a slant. Often, the most surprised reader is the Time reporter who researched the story.

". . . Lyndon Johnson," the article says, "seems strangely insulated from his countrymen's doubts and fears." Ever see a man who has just knocked over a beehive? That's my impression of the same man. He's busy slapping, cursing, running and he is acutely aware of the indignation of the bees.

Mr. Johnson, in truth, is close to a Big Brother complex. He devotes too much time to television news reports, too much time to newspapers and columnists, too much time to reports from executive assistants, and ambassadorial reports that should concern Dean Rusk rather than the President.

"One of his favorite rooms in the White House," the story continues, "is a small private study a few steps down the hall from his oval office. Heavy green curtains keep the sunlight out; the phone is muted to reduce noise . . . In this womb with no view, he is at ease, cheerful, convinced that the country and the world are in tolerably good condition."

It is not one of his favorite rooms. My notes show that, in a 16-hour work day, he spent 37 minutes in this alcove. The rest was divided between his huge office; the office of Juanita Roberts, his secretary; the yellow room on the second floor of the White House; a couch in the Rose Garden; and his bedroom.

The "womb" is an adjunct to the office of Mr. Marvin Watson, the appointments secretary. It was used by Presidents Truman and Eisenhower for cat naps; it is now the place where Lyndon Johnson likes to meet with "unofficial, unrecorded visitors": a diplomatic hideaway.

I could not, and would not, be an apologist for Mr. Johnson. He has as many faults as the geologic crust of California.

But, when Time speaks of civil rights and intones: "Instead of being seen on the ghetto battlegrounds this summer, he has repeatedly posed for pictures chin-chucking and nose-nuzzling with his infant grandson," they cause wonderment and dismay among men who still regard journalism as a professional calling.

". . . the big difference between Johnson and the four Presidents he knew—Roosevelt, Truman, Eisenhower and Kennedy—is that for all his vitality, his political acumen and his impressive record of legislative achievement, he fails to communicate effectively and consistently with his constituency."

This, I believe, is a fact. Some of the President's speeches sound like high school term papers. They limp from platitude to platitude, and they lack the one great strength Lyndon Johnson has—fight. He looks like a battler; he is a battler; he has conviction and courage, but he sounds like a haloed martyr who is suffering in silence.

His popularity is low; his enemies outnumber his friends. The press often exercises its freedom by making contemptuous jokes about Lyndon. The Presidency of the United States has not been at such ebb since Harry Truman ran against Thomas E. Dewey. Next year, it is likely that millions of people may vote Republican—not because of faith in the candidate — but as a protest against Lyndon Johnson.

If so, the loss of key states may be ascribed to Mr. Johnson's unshakeable determination to play Gomer Pyle. He is, I assure you, magnificent as a fighter and he can point his index finger, narrow his lids, and hit you with more facts than a cop at the scene of an accident.

The sweet sad solemn face Mr. Johnson presents to the American people now is about as spurious as Cassius Clay swearing that he is not a fighter, he's a minister. The President might show his true colors to advantage by teeing off on Time. . .

Ellenville Hospital Event at Nevele

The second annual dinner-dance of the Ellenville Community Hospital has been scheduled for Sunday night, Nov. 19, according to Benjamin Lonstein, president of the community non-profit hospital. The hospital's gala fund-raising event will be held at the Nevele Country Club, Ellenville.

Last year's highly successful program saw a capacity crowd of nearly 800 throng the Homowack Lodge, Spring Glen to make it one of the most successful social events in Ellenville history. Over $40,000 was raised for the hospital from the sale of tickets.

Selected to serve as chairman this year is Louis Resnick, vice-president of the Ellenville Community Hospital. Serving on the dinner committee with Resnick will be Mrs. Harriet Breslow, Irving Binder, Arthur Chipp, Irving Esrig, Dr. Alfred Feldshuh, David Swinden and Harry Rieger, chairman of last year's outstanding dinner.

Tickets to the $100 a couple dinner-dance will be placed in the mail within a few weeks, according to Resnick. The dinner mailing will contain an invitation, ticket, and a response card on which seating requests are to be listed. Complete tables of eight, 10 or 12 may be reserved.

All of the proceeds will be used to further the hospital's continuing goal of higher standards of patient care for all who require it. Persons desiring to make immediate advance reservations for the dinner - dance may do so by contacting a member of the dinner committee or by calling Evald-Bors Koefoed, hospital administrator.

Saugerties, Marlboro X-Ray Programs Listed

Two area Public X-ray Programs have been developed by the Ulster County TB and Health Association and scheduled for the week of Sept. 18.

In announcing this today, Saugerties Banker John M. Robbins, TB Association president, noted that this will be the first public X-raying available since the discontinuance of the State X-ray Bus Units, and will be made possible by the TB Group in cooperation with the Ulster County Department of Health. The program was organized and will be directed by Association Executive Director E. Robert Johnson.

Johnson pointed out that the Saugerties Area Public X-ray Program is scheduled for Tuesday, Sept. 19 from 6 p. m. to 8 p. m. at Simmons Plaza, Rt. 9W, Barclay Heights at the W. T. Grant store. A second session will be conducted Wednesday, Sept. 20 from 1 p. m. to 4 p. m. at the Saugerties Municipal Building, Partition Street, Saugerties Village. The second area Public X-ray is scheduled for the Marlboro-Milton area Friday, Sept. 22, 3 p. m. to 5 p. m. and 6 p. m. to 8 p. m. at the Marlboro Elementary School on Rt. 9-W.

"The new Public X-ray Programs scheduled for these two county areas have been established as a result of public interest and requests," Johnson explained. "The former Mobile X-ray Program could not be provided any longer inasmuch as our New York State Public X-ray Mobile Units were entirely dicontinued. In consequence, our Ulster County TB Association Board of Directors agreed that TB Association resources and staff should be used to institute a locally provided X-ray Program." The Ulster County Department of Health will provide X-ray Program follow-up.

A minimal charge will be required to help fund the Public X-ray Program, Robbins and Johnson said, inasmuch as the TB group has procured a commercial X-ray Mobile Unit for the program. The charge will help to defray the cost of X-ray plate, and the costs of service which include professional reading of each plate by Chest Clinicears and the further TB office preparation of individual X-ray records, case files, the mailing of X-ray reports to individuals, doctors and key persons, and organizational and office costs.

The full balance of these services will be paid by the TB Association from its Ulster County Christmas Seal Funds. Full X-ray records will be maintained at the TB Christmas Seal Headquarters of the Ulster County TB Association and will be available to physicians and X-rayed individuals.

Further specific information concerning the Saugerties Public X-ray Program, and the Marlboro-Milton Public X-ray Program is available by contacting Johnson at the TB Association Headquarters.

LEWELLEN, Neb. (AP) — Indian squaws using modern walkie-talkies hidden in their blankets helped coordinate the Ash Hollow Centennial pageant held on a vast outdoor stage. The stage director, Mrs. Dolores Dailey, reached far-flung limits of the "theater" on horseback. The pageant re-enacted one of the most perilous segments of the entire Oregon Trail —the treacherous descent down Windlass Hill into Ash Hollow, a few miles from here.

GREETERS—Preparing for the second Pre-Restoration open house fete at the Van Alen house in Kinderhook are Mary Ellen Van Allen and Debbie Rothermel, Dutch hostesses; (standing) Robert Cullen, president of the Columbia County Historical Society; Kathy Kane portraying Katrina Van Tassel and Karl Ahlers Jr., representing Ichabod Crane. The event will be held Sunday 1 to 6 p. m. at the 230-year-old original Dutch farmhouse which is the object of Restoration 1737.

Second Open House At Kinderhook Site

HUDSON—Restoration 1737 Campaign Headquarters is completing plans for the second Van Alen Pre-Restoration Open House, to be held Sunday, Sept. 10, from 1 to 6 p. m.

By popular demand, this event has been scheduled for a second showing due to the wide interest in the progress of this 230-year-old original Dutch farmstead which has received nationwide attention through the fund drive campaign now underway to raise $100,000 to preserve this Pre-Revolutionary historic treasure located in Columbia County.

An Open House showing held Aug. 20 featured a Dutch-styled kitchen authentically duplicated by Gardell D. Christensen, representative of the Division of History, University of the State of New York, Department of Education. The kitchen display will be repeated, together with a replica of a Dutch living room of the 1737 period — known to the Dutch of that time as the "Great Hall."

As during the first opening, there will be represented the famed characters—they will be Katrina Van Tassel by Cathy Kane; Ichabod Crane by Karl Ahlers Jr. (both members of the Claverack Players). The Headless Horseman will once again take up his famous ride for all those who will attend the command performance. The riders at the first opening were the two sons of Donald Balint of Stuyvesant Falls.

Tea will be served in the old Dutch tradition of that period.

In charge of the Dutch Hostesses will be Mrs. Edward Higgins. Also on hand will be Datus Schaltegger, restorer; Paul Patchin, Project Development Chairman; President Robert Cullen and Mrs. E. E. Dorman of the Columbia County Historical Society and Co-Chairmen Hilary Masters and James W. Chapman.

Enemy Toll Is 92

Marines Upset Red Ambush

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Marines combed the jungles and paddy fields for Communist troops in South Vietnam's northern war zone today after turning the tables on a Red ambush and killing 92 of the enemy.

Far to the south, in the Mekong delta, South Vietnamese reported killing 54 members of the Viet Cong's Tay Do battalion, one of the most seasoned Red units in the delta.

Several big Marine sweeps were under way in the northern provinces where nearly 700 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong have been reported killed in hard fighting since Monday around Tam Ky, on the coast, and below the demilitarized zone some 140 miles to the northwest.

American casualties in the area total 115 dead and 382 wounded so far this week, the U.S. Command said.

Although no significant action was reported from the area since Thursday, the Strategic Air Command kept up two-a-day raids by its high-altitude B52 bombers to aid the Marines.

One strike Thursday night hit the A Shau Valley infiltration route, in the northwest corner of the country, which has been funneling supplies to the Reds fighting in Quang Nam and Quang Tin provinces.

The battles his week in the northernmost provinces—and scattered fighting elsewhere—ended decisively a lull in the ground war that had lasted more than two months. It was evident the Communists, freshly supplied and fairly close to their bases in North Vietnam, were mounting a new offensive in the North, but ranking U.S. officers declined to speculate on whether the Red goal was more battles of attrition to wear down American forces, a campaign to take control of one of the politically sensitive provinces, which seemed unlikely, or something else.

Ready New Attacks

The Communists were evidently also preparing new rocket attacks in the North similar to previous bloody assaults on the big U.S. air base at Da Nang. Marine fighter-bomber pilots reported finding and destroying 36 rocket positions in the northern battle area Thursday.

The gravity of the Communist threat in the northern provinces was underlined by U.S. Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara's announcement in Washington that an early warning barrier of barbed wire, mines and electronic detection devices would be stretched across South Vietnam below the DMZ.

McNamara said the defense line would not stop the flow of North Vietnamese south but would slow them up and the electronic alarms would bring mobile American units by helicopters and tanks to meet them.

Black clouds of the new monsoon season forced a cutback in air action over North Vietnam Thursday, and U.S. strikes again were limited mainly to the southern part of the country. Fighter- bombers concentrated on rail lines, antiaircraft sites and storage facilities.

On the political front, President-elect Nguyen Van Thieu, strengthened by the failure of his running mate, Premier Nguyen Cao Ky, to win control of South Vietnam's new senate, made plain that he intends to be the top man in the new government in fact as well as name.

Auto Strike May Be Long As Both Sides Stand Firm

DETROIT (AP) — There were several indications today that the United Auto Workers strike may halt Ford auto production for a long time as both sides stood firm.

And while the walkout by some 160,000 members of the auto workers union has halted Ford operations in 25 states, 1968 model cars rolled off assembly lines at General Motors and Chrysler.

No Progress

No progress has been reported in negotiations that began July 11 at Ford and ended just after midnight Thursday when the strike began.

No new negotiations are planned although a subcommittee meeting is scheduled for Monday to work out a schedule for further bargaining.

On the basic wage offer alone both sides appear miles apart.

Referring to the Big Three proposal of Aug. 29, one top union bargainer said, "We could have gotten that same amount if we simply extended or renewed the present agreement."

The company says it has no immediate plans for making a new offer.

Although the strike may force production cutbacks in such automotive suppliers as the steel and rubber industries, the chance of government intervention appears slight at this point.

The federal government has never invoked the Taft-Hartley Act to halt an auto strike. Ford has only one major defense contract, a $91.4 million one for 42,000 Jeeps from the firm's Highland Park, Mich., plant. A company spokesman said the government does not consider this production critical.

Walter P. Reuther, UAW president, led Ford workers off the job for what he calls "the longest and most ambitious list of demands" the union has yet sought.

No Contract

Since both Chrysler and General Motors refused union requests to extend current contracts, union members at the two firms are working, reluctantly, without a contract.

If and when a contract is reached at Ford, the union will use it as a pattern for a settlement at the other two companies.

Union pickets patrolled Ford plants throughout the country with no incidents reported.

Ford says its workers will be losing $5.2 million wages for every day they stay out.

The company will be losing its average daily production of 8,000 cars, 1,800 trucks and 144 tractors.

Ford dealers throughout the country have enough new cars to last a month, 85,000 1968-models and 175,000 1967-models, the company said.

The union is backing its strike with a $6-million fund which will be distributed at the rate of $20 to $30 a week to each striker depending upon marital status and number of dependents.

Brian Epstein Death Blamed On Over Dose

LONDON (AP) — Brian Epstein, the Beatles' manager, died accidentally from "incautious" overdose of sleeping tablets, a coroner's verdict said today.

There was no suggestion of suicide.

A pathologist, Dr. Donald Teare told Coroner Gavin Thurston: "The amount found in the body was equivalent to a small lethal dose, but indications were of repetition, rather than a single dose."

At the time of Epstein's death in his house in fashionable Belgravia on Aug. 27, he and the four Beatles were planning a trip to the United States and Canada. A letter relating to the trip was introduced at the inquest.

Epstein was 32.

Questioned as to how long Epstein might have been taking regular doses of carbrital, Dr. Teare replied: "I would roughly have said weeks rather than days."

The pathologist said an autopsy suggested the presence of between six and nine capsules of carbrital taken over a period of time.

"Bromide has an accumulative effect," he added.

RFK Asks Revision Of U. S. Tax System

Addressing 750 persons at a dinner meeting of the Civil Service Employes Association of New York State Thursday night, Kennedy said:

"Those who earn over $200,000 a year here in the United States pay an actual average of only 27 per cent of their incomes in taxes— an amount equal to what the $13,000 wage earner pays on the next dollar he earns.

"I don't think that this is right, and I think it should be changed."

"In 1965," Kennedy said, "35 people in this country who earned over $500,000 paid no tax at all."

Kennedy proposed revision of the Johnson administration's income tax increase proposal to exempt families of four with incomes of $7,000 a year or less. The current proposal would provide exemptions for families of four with incomes of $5,000 a year or below.

Kennedy was asked if his proposals meant that he was against the proposed income-tax increase, and he replied: "No. I don't have anything beyond what I said."

Geneva Pact Protection For GI's Rebuffed by Ho

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials say Hanoi has rebuffed repeated attempts to gain freedom—or at least Geneva Convention protection—for American prisoners of war.

Some 700 U.S. servicemen are listed as missing in North and South Vietnam. At least 200 are believed to be prisoners of the Reds.

Washington efforts on behalf of the captives have been made through the International Committee of the Red Cross and other channels, but to no avail so far.

North Vietnam claims the prisoners are war criminals, although it says they are getting humane treatment.

But the United States is not accepting such statements on prisoner conditions in the absence of verification by an outside body such as the Red Cross. Hanoi has not allowed Red Cross access to its prisoner camps.

Under the 1949 Geneva Convention on the treatment of prisoners of war, to which North and South Vietnam and the United States are all parties, prisoners "must at all times be humanely treated." It sets food, clothing, shelter and medical care standards, and provides for access to them by an outside group.

Baltimore Threatened

Teacher Rift Widens

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Unrest in the ranks of the nation's teachers widened today as the Baltimore school system was threatened with a strike. Detroit teachers remained out and New York City schools braced for a threatened mass resignation Monday.

Vacations Extended

More than 600,000 youngsters were already enjoying extended summer vacations in Michigan, Broward County Fla., East St. Louis, Ill., and McCracken County, Ky. Strikes in Baltimore and New York could add nearly 1.3 million to that total.

The Baltimore teachers union said a strike could occur before the end of next week after negotiations with school officials broke down Thursday over bargaining procedures and non-teaching duties.

The union representing 8,000 teachers said classes would open Monday as scheduled but warned that the city's more than 194,000 pupils might be back out in the parks and playgrounds before the end of the week. A membership meeting was called for Tuesday.

In Michigan, pickets continued to march in many of the 30 school districts where contracts are yet to be signed. Nearly half a million youngsters in 17 districts—including 300,000 in Detroit—remained locked out of their classrooms.

Both teachers and school officials awaited a state court of appeals hearing Saturday on whether circuit courts can grant injunctions to force teachers without contracts back into the schools.

A resolution authorizing the issuance of $175,000 serial bonds of the school district to defray the cost of alterations to the Vocational Building was approved. Alterations of the existing building will include furnishings, equipment, machinery and apparatus. An annual appropriation shall be made in each year sufficient to pay the principal and interest on the bonds, and a tax sufficient to pay the principal and interest shall annually be levied on all the taxable property within the district.

Base Bids Listed

Bids for alterations to the Vocational Building were awarded to lowest responsible bidders on recommendations of Associate Superintendent for Business Management Shaw and Harry Halverson and Associates, architects.

Successful bidders and the base bids were:

General construction—Henry H. Swart & Son, Kingston, $95,833; Electrical work — Joe E. O'Connor, Inc., Kingston $14,998; Plumbing — R. J. Welsh & Son, Saugerties $2,898; Heating and Ventilating—same contractor—$25,440; Sprinkler system —Grinnel Corp., Albany $2,646.

Dr. Josephson Named

In other business, the Board appointed Dr. Irving J. Josephson, Kingston, medical director for the Kingston School District at an annual salary of $17,000. Trustee Hubert Hoderath, chairman of the building committee, reported work on the new Clifford M. Miller Junior High School at Lake Katrine, is progressing on schedule and should be ready for occupancy next June.

Supt. of Schools Dr. W. Wendell Hoover reported enrollment in the Kingston schools at the close of last year was 10,006 and the enrollment as of yesterday was 10,552, an increase of 546. He noted that last year 742 pupils attended classes at Lake Katrine School and this year the enrollment was 746 after the sixth grades were moved to other schools. The high school enrollment last term was 2,012 and the present enrollment is 2,104, an increase of 91.

The Board signed a tax warrant for Mrs. Edna S. Morgan, collector-treasurer to collect taxes totaling $4,941,354.99 in two installments, the first due on or before Oct. 16, the second on or before Dec. 15.

The 1967-68 rate for the City of Kingston is $50.248 per $1,000. Rates for parts of towns within the district are: Esopus—$109.363; Hurley—$97.851; Kingston — $97.851; Marbletown — $92.958; New Paltz — $143.012; Rosendale—$132.798; Saugerties — $123.944; Ulster — $132.798; Woodstock—$123.944.

Collectors Appointed

The Board approved the appointment of Gordon A. Craig, Edsil Flowers and Walter May tax collectors for the school year 1967-68. The Board voted that the driver education classes for 32 students be conducted on Saturdays and in after school classes during 1967-68 and that an amount not to exceed $3,000 be appropriated for the expenses of additional driver education classes.

Although 12 bids were solicited for band uniforms for Kingston High School, the only bidder was Ostwald, Incorporated for $10,917.50. On recommendation of Ira M. Shaw the contract was awarded that firm.

A resolution was approved by the Board appointing Robert G. Dawkins, of Prudential Insurance Company, 277 Fair Street, as special agent of record for a tax sheltered annuity program of the Kingston City Schools Consolidated. Dawkins replaces William T. Ellis, recently transferred by the insurance company.

North Viets Say 500 Civilians Killed by U.S.

TOKYO (AP) — North Vietnam claimed today that more than 500 civilians were killed and some 1,100 wounded by U.S. forces, mostly aircraft, in assaults in North Vietnam during the first six months of 1967.

Hanoi's official Vietnam news agency made the claim in a long communique from its "commission for Investigation of U.S. Imperialists' War Crimes in Vietnam."

It said the United States has "increased its attacks with an ever greater quantity of bombs and shells," dropping on North Vietnam "68,000 tons in February and 77,000 tons in March." Since then, it said, "attacks have become more and more violent, bombs and shells have been used in greater and greater quantity."

Rail Span Falls Spilling Engine, Car in Water

GOUVERNEUR, N.Y. (AP)— A railroad trestle spanning the Oswegatchie River collapsed Thursday night, spilling a diesel engine and one of six box cars 25 feet into the stream, near this village east of Watertown.

No one was injured, the St. Lawrence County Sheriff's office said.

The New York Central train was pushing the box cars and a caboose along a spur line to a paper mill in the nearby hamlet of Natural Dam. The caboose and five cars had cleared the bridge before the engine and remaining car plunged into the water, deputies said.

The engine "was all but covered" by water, a deputy said.

An estimate of damage was not available immediately.

George Rockwell

WOLFEBORO, N.H. (AP) — George Rockwell, 76, co-founder of the Cambridge Rubber Co. and a director of the General Latex and Chemical Corp. of Cambridge, Mass., died Wednesday.

Dr. C. E. Benson

Resnick First C of C Speaker Tues. Morning

Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick will be the featured speaker at the first monthly breakfast meeting of the fall for the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce. The meeting will take place promptly at 7:45 a. m. Tuesday, Sept. 19, in the Crystal Room of the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Chamber President, S. James Matthews announced that the congressional report meeting, sponsored by the Chamber's Congressional Action Committee will feature a brief prepared statement by the congressman outlining his assessment of the current Washington scene. Following the statement, there will be an opportunity for Chamber members in the audience to ask questions of the Congressman concerning his current activity in Washington. Mr. Matthews said that this would be the first time that the Congressman has spoken to the general membership of the Chamber of Commerce.

In one other meeting last year, Congressman Resnick was a guest of the Chamber when members of the Common Council, Kingston Urban Renewal Agency, and the Chamber's Local Governmental Affairs Committee were present at a breakfast together with officials from the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Chamber Executive Vice President, Peter O. Allen indicated that reservations are desirable as a large turnout is expected. Reservations will be limited to the first 120 Chamber members and their guests who indicate their intention to attend. Should any vacancies still exist, tickets will be available at the door. However, Allen urged all Chamber members to call the office to specifically reserve places.

DeGaulle Tours Poland Today

The first stop was Krakow, where De Gaulle was to stay at the Wawel, former palace of Poland's kings, tour the Lenin steel mill and inspect art treasures.

De Gaulle leaves Krakow Saturday for Auschwitz, the Nazi camp where four million persons perished in the war.

A French source said De Gaulle told his hosts during political talks Thursday that East and West Germany should be reunited, but only if they renounce nuclear arms and accept their postwar borders.

A French Foreign Ministry spokesman said De Gaulle told Polish President Edward Ochab he believed Poland would have nothing to fear from a united Germany if it had no nuclear arms.

A Polish source said Ochab told De Gaulle that Poland does not oppose restoring normal relations with West Germany, but only if Bonn makes such policy changes as abandoning its claim to represent all the Germans.

Brezhnev Sees Failure of Mao Cultural Purge

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP) — Leonid I. Brezhnev expressed conviction Thursday of the ultimate failure of Mao Tse-tung's cultural revolution purge, which he said has wrecked the Chinese government and Communist party.

"We are convinced that the cause of socialism will ultimately triumph in China," the Soviet Communist party chief told a rally after Hungary and the Soviet Union renewed the friendship agreement they signed in 1948. The two nations declared that frontiers developed after World War II are inviolate and pledged every measure to repel any attempt by West Germany to change them.

Fiscal Report Now on File

The New York State Dept. of Audit and Control today disclosed it has just completed examining the fiscal affairs of the Village of Saugerties.

State Comptroller Arthur Levitt made the announcement upon completion of the examination of fiscal affairs of a number of towns, villages, schools and other special districts throughout the state.

Worship Services Resume Sunday

The regular order of worship will resume on Sunday, Sept. 10, at the Reformed Church of Saugerties with church services being held at both 9:45 and 11 a. m. For the fall season the minister, The Rev. Orville Jay Hine, will present a series of sermons based on the great psalms of The Old Testament. The sermon for this coming Sunday will be a meditation on Psalm 8.

This Sunday the regular sessions of the Sunday church school will also resume at 9:45 a. m. The children from preschool age through fourth grade will met in the chapel on John Street; those in the fifth grade and above attend the first portion of the early service and are then dismissed for their class sessions.

Kenneth Kennedy will continue as Superintendent of the Sunday church school with the assistance of Chester Wolven as assistant superintendent. There are classes for each school grade and the "Faith and Life Curriculum" of the Presbyterian Church is used throughout the church school.

Nursery care for little children is provided during the 11 a. m. service under the direction of Mrs. Edward Jabs. Parents with little children are urged to leave them in the care provided in the Chapel on John Street.

The choirs of the church will resume their rehearsals this week with the Adult Choir, that sings for the 9:45 a. m. service, rehearsing on Thursday evening at 6:30 o'clock in the Parish Hall. The adults who sing for the 11 a. m. service will rehearse at 7:30 p. m. on Thursday.

Sacrament of Infant Baptism will be observed at the 11 a. m. service this coming Sunday. Parents desiring baptism for their children are asked to communicate with the pastor.

Town Notes

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Ebert of Westfield, N. J. were weekend guests of the Rev. and Mrs. Walter Cowen, Saugerties. Mrs. Ebert presented a green hand crafted stole bearing a Latin cross and an alpha and an omega symbol on each end, done in gold with red shadings. Mrs. Ebert is a member of Redeemer Lutheran Church, Westfield, where a group of women meet bi-weekly for instruction in handcrafting church vestments. The group makes vestments of high quality for their own parish and also provides them as gifts for mission congregations.

The Rev. and Mrs. Werner Weinreich and family of Manorton were dinner guests of the Rev. and Mrs. Cowen, Saugerties, on Labor Day. The Rev. Weinreich has accepted a call to Grace Lutheran Church, North Tonawanda, effective October 1, 1967.

Church School

Saugerties First Congregational Church School reopens Sept. 10 at ten o'clock. The morning service will be conducted at 11 a.m.

Ulster Caucus For GOP Slated Saturday Night

The Town of Ulster Republican Committeemen are preparing for the Republican Caucus Saturday night at the Chambers School at 7 o'clock. Voting machines will be used to expedite the voting procedure. Two years ago the Republican Committee used voting machines at the caucus which proved to be very effective and accurate.

The candidates to be selected for the November election will be for the office of supervisor, town clerk, highway superintendent, one justice of the peace, one councilman, tax collector, assessor four-year term and assessor two-year term.

Persons seeking the Republican nomination for supervisor, the incumbent Thaddeus (Ted) Musialkiewicz, who will be seeking his second term as supervisor. Musialkiewicz served six years as councilman and is finishing his first term as supervisor; Mrs. Alma Macholdt, incumbent, will be seeking her second term as town clerk. Incumbent Edgar P. Elliott will be seeking the nomination for highway superintendent. Elliott served four years as town councilman and six years as superintendent of highways. There will be a contest for justice of the peace with three candidates seeking the nomination. Attorney Sherwood E. Davis, Edward J. Devine presently serving as chairman of the Town of Ulster Planning Board and incumbent Robert S. Stedge seeking a third term.

Councilman Anthony Cicorio, incumbent, will be seeking the nomination for his first four-year term. A contest for tax collector with two candidates seeking the nomination, Nick Valenzano and Harold Atkins. Incumbent Joseph Lohmaier will be seeking the nomination for four-year term as assessor. He presently is the chairman of the board of assessors. Edwin Callahan, incumbent, will be seeking the nomination for two-year assessor.

3,00-Year Dump

TIBURON, Calif. (AP) — Construction workers on the Tiburon peninsula may have uncovered a 3,000-year-old dump.

David Frederickson, an anthropology professor, said the site contains beads, charmstones, spear points, volcanic glass and bone tools discarded by Indians centuries ago.

TRAGEDY—Ten persons were killed near Donner's Grove, Ill. in head-on collision of this stattion wagon and a covertible. Nine of the victims were in station wagon. They included Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hoffmeister and their 5 children, all of nearby Woodridge. Two adults riding with them also died in wreckage. They are tentatively identified as Mr. and Mrs. John Brubaker, Mrs. Hoffmeister's parents. Victim in convertible was identified as Ralph Kushmierz of nearby Lisle, Ill. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Our Boys Write From Vietnam

Editor's Note: The Kingston Daily Freeman is privileged to publish letters written to the Ulster County Vietnam's Servicemen's Committee of Ulster Hose Co. No 5 by Kingston area men serving with the armed forces in Vietnam. We hope in this way we can better let our readers know how our boys in service feel.

* * *

PFC Dennis W. Robinson writes from Vietnam:

"Although we don't know each other personally I'm sure that we both know a great deal about each other. My name is Dennis W. Robinson and I am in the United States Marine Corps, currently serving in the Republic of Vietnam.

"I have been receiving the packages that you and your committee are sending in the name of the People of Ulster County. I would just like to take this opportunity to write and thank you for these most wonderful gifts.

"They serve to remind us that the people back home are behind us and trying to help out. They are a most welcome treat as they include things which are virtually impossible to get over here.

"To date I have received five packages and I understand that more are on the way. In addition, I am receiving copies of The Kingston Daily Freeman and I am just thrilled to get the home town news with such regularity.

"Speaking for myself and I m sure for every other serviceman on your list, I thank both you and the wonderful people of Ulster County for these wonderful gifts. I just hope that I am doing my share so that they may be proud of me as I am of them."

* * *

"I would like to take this opportunity to express my thanks to you and your organization for the CARE packages you have sent to me these past several weeks.

"Many of the items are in short supply and therefore we greatly appreciate them. Of course there is never any problem of disposing of the food.

"With luck I will return to the States in two months. At that time I hope to have the opportunity to express my appreciation personally. Thank you for thinking of us over here."

* * *

Robert Brink, N. S. A., Da Nang, Vietnam writes:

"I received your warm and welcome gift. It really makes a guy feel good to know that he is thought of, not only by his family and relatives, but by the people of the county he is from.

"I wish to thank all the people that contributed their thoughtfulness.

"It sure does make a guy feel real good. Thanks to you all again."

* * *

Cpl. Thomas Sickler, Third Marine Division, writes from Vietnam:

"I would like to let you know I received the cigarettes and four other packages. I would like also to thank the Ulster Hose Co. very much. It sure is great to know, while you are overseas, people back home are thinking about you.

"I know when I said thanks to the Ulster Hose Co. and everybody else who help out, I say thanks to all from everybody in Vietnam from Ulster County."

Written by Allen Lund of the 180th Support Helicopter Co.:

"It is with my deepest thanks to all of you who have put such good feeling in the gift packages which I received in the mail. I only hope that I may be successful in conveying to you the gratitude felt by myself and in behalf of all of us I want to thank you for your support back home.

"It's a great consolation to have a country such as ours to return to, and you can rest assure that we'll do our best to keep it this way. Thank you again, and may God Bless you all."

Lt. James P. Wagner, executive officer, D Battery, Second Battalion, 12th Marines in Con Thien, writes:

"There is very little I can say in appreciation of the three boxes I have received. I sincerely wish there was some way could put in words what I really think and how I feel for the fine example and thoughts you have shown.

"As is our custom, your many gifts were shared by all the men of this unit. I therefore extend the thanks of the entire unit, Battery D, Second Battalion, 12th Marine Regiment. Thank God there are still some Americans who care."

TODAY IN HISTORY

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1564, a Spanish expedition landed at what is now St. Augustine, Fla., and founded the first permanent settlement of Europeans in North America.

On this date —

In 1664, Peter Stuyvesant surrendered New Amsterdam to the British.

In 1855, the Crimean War ended.

In 1900, a death toll of 6,000 was counted in a hurricane and tidal waves which smashed the Galveston, Tex. area.

In 1935, Huey Long, D-La., was shot at Baton Rouge, La. He died two days later.

Ten years ago — Pope Pius urged the Roman Catholic clergy to study the morality of radio and television, a study similar to the appraisal of motion pictures.

Five years ago — Vice President Lyndon E. Johnson said an overseas tour convinced him that U.S. foreign aid had strengthened allied nations against Communist subversion.

One year ago — Black Power advocate Stokely Carmichael was arrested in connection with rioting in Atlanta, Ga. two days earlier.

Suspend Physicals

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Preinduction physical examinations for the month of September were suspended in Missouri for lack of funds.

Col. R. E. McCain, state manpower officer, said the draft call was being met with class 1A men who already passed their physicals.

Loyalty Day Plans In Final Stages

The Kingston Uniformed Fire Fighters Association announced today that plans for the Sept. 23 Loyalty Day Parade are in the final stages and that any organization wishing to participate should contact the Association immediately.

"Loyalty Day in Ulster County is an event in which each and every citizen should partipate," said John Dwyer, publicity chairman for the parade. Dwyer goes on to say "that it is time for the great majority of patriotic freedom loving ing American citizens to rededicate themselves to the principles for which this nation stands. American heritage is something that was fought for in the past and the fight will have to continue in order to insure freedom from communism. It is an insult to our fighting men and to every American citizen to read and hear of the small minority of our population who are desecrating the American Flag, burning draft cards and participating in demonstrations against our Government.

Let the greater percentage of American citizens come forth and display their Loyalty on this day by joining with patriotic freedom loving organizations to which they belong in the Loyalty Day Parade. Those who are unable to participate in the parade itself can display their loyalty by displaying the American Flag on this day and turning out to witness the parade. Let each and every one of us stand behind the Fire Fighter's in their effort to promote loyalty to the Government and Fighting Men of the United States of America," he concluded.

Auxiliary Police To Meet Monday

The first meeting of the 1967-68 season for members of the Auxiliary Police is scheduled for Monday night, Sept. 11, it was announced today.

The session will be held at 7:30 o'clock at the Moose Lodge meeting rooms, 82 Prince Street.

Uniform inspection will take place. All members are requested to attend. Men, 18 or over, who are interested in the Auxiliary Police, are invited to this meeting.

Grand Jurors Meet

The first meeting of the new season will be held by the Ulster County Grand Jurors Association Monday 8 p. m. at the court house.

Old business for the June meeting will be discussed as well as plans for the coming year.

Lottery Sales Up in August, Albany Report

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Fragmentary reports indicate that more New York State lottery tickets were sold in August than in July, a spokesman for the State Tax Department said Thursday.

The spokesman added, however, that the department would not have the final figures on the sales until Sept. 15.

The actual number sold remains "a conjectural thing," he said, but the reports "looked encouraging."

The July sales were sharply disappointing, grossing only $4,125,698. This was more than $2.3 million below receipts for the initial lottery, in June — and far below the $30 million monthly gross the state had hoped for.

Handicapped Problems Topic At New Paltz

Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick said that, "The handicapped child should be afforded the opportunity to reach his full potential in spite of his physical and mental disabilities. To accomplish this goal, we must become knowledgeable, active advocates of the cause of the handicapped. We must greatly expand the appropriations for programs to assist the handicapped, programs which are now fed with an eyedropper."

The Congressman made this statement in remarks prepared for the "Conference on the Problems of the Handicapped Child" held today at the State University College at New Paltz. The conference is sponsored by the Dutchess County Society for Mental Health, St. Francis' Hospital, and Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick.

Other participants included Anthony J. Pelone, director of the N. Y. State Division for Handicapped Children; Dr. James Moss, acting director, Division of Research, Federal Bureau of Education for the Handicapped and Dr. James A. Gallagher, associate commissioner, Federal Bureau of Education for the Handicapped.

Pleads Guilty Through Interpreter

Through an interpreter, a plea of guilty to attempted assault, second degree, was entered Thursday in County Court by Antonio Oyola Santiago, who admitted that he had attempted to assault one Louis Bevier of New Paltz with a knife Jan. 14, 1967, after a fracas near the Santiago home.

Unable to understand English, Santiago told his story through Mrs. Rachel Arenas of Modena, who acted as interpreter.

Santiago said he had been peeling potatoes with a knife when the incident began. It involved the parking of a vehicle by his home. He said Bevier had come to his house and had threatened him with a "board." Fearing bodily injury, he had chased Bevier with the knife to "scare" him away. He said he did not know whether he actually cut Bevier with the knife or simply cut his jacket. However, he admitted having the knife and threatening Bevier.

Edward Greene appeared for Santiago. Assistant District Attorney Francis Vogt appeared for the prosecution. Judge Raymond J. Mino adjourned imposition of sentence until Sept. 20 at 11 a.m. and remanded Santiago to jail.

Rochester Daily Halts Operation

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — The Rochester Daily Abendpost has ceased publication after 116 years because of what the publisher of the German-language newspaper said were "Insurmountable difficulties."

"Wages, cost of newsprint, mailing rates, taxes and so forth have continually been going higher and higher and are still rising," he said in explaining the "difficulties."

"It was evident that further publication for us would not be economically sound," Stoll added. The final decision to close was delayed "for a long time" in appreciatin to its readers, advertisers and others, he wrote.

The Abendpost, with a circulation of 14,000, served about 75,000 persons of German birth or extraction within a 40-mile radius of Rochester. It published Monday through Friday with 16 employes, two of them women who comprised the editorial staff.

Stoll, whose father Julius Sr. purchased the paper in 1882, was associated with the publication for 66 years, the last 30 as publisher. His editor, Eric Vossmeyer, was a 41-year veteran.

Founded in 1851 as the Beobacter am Genesee (Observer on the Genesee), the paper changed hands and names frequently before the Stoll family acquired it.

Gets Court Post

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — John N. Benoit of Levitttown, a Hempstead town councilman, was appointed by Gov. Rockefeller today to succeed the late Judge Martin Kolbrener on the Nassau County Court.

Benoit, a Republican, may serve under the appointment through Dec. 31. Meanwhile, he is expected to run for a full, 10-year term in the November election.

Boy, 13, Killed

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — An automobile struck and killed a 13-year-old boy Thursday night as he crossed Sheridan Drive in the nearby Town of Tonawanda, police said.

He was Joseph Zmuda, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph J. Zmuda Jr. of the Town of Tonawanda.

The family lives at 40 Benefield Place.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

Want Voter's Decision On New Town Building

The structure, a proposed building next to the firehouse, would necessitate floating a $45,000 bond issue. The association said it was a matter of principle to permit the electorate to decide the merit of such a building.

A petition will shortly be circulated. It calls for a special election over the bond issue, the association said.

A petition will shortly be cirby the taxpayers call for repeal of the Blaine Amendment, and that tuition-free education on a college level should not be given every qualified student.

Officers elected for the year 1967-68 were Walter H. Schulman, president; Annette I. Dietz, vice president; Arthur P. Shepard, treasurer; and Zena Wilson, secretary.

Supper Slated

A covered dish supper for church members and friends is scheduled for the church hall of the Methodist Church of Shady on Saturday, Sept. 23, at 6 p.m.

Mrs. Henry P. Eighmey, vice chairman of the Official Board of the Church, announced that the supper was planned by members of the Church Governing Body at its meeting on September 1, for the purpose of "fellowship and fun."

The annual fall roast beef dinner for the public was also announced for the church hall on Saturday, Oct. 14, at 5:30 p.m., with Mrs. Arthur MacDaniel in charge of the dinner. Reservations for this dinner may be made with Miss Evelyn Stone of Shady.

Dutch Reformed

Woodstock Dutch Reformed Church today said it will conduct a congregational meeting at the close of worship, Sunday, Sept. 17. The meeting is to review the status of the funding structure.

Lutheran Church

Christ Evangelical Lutheran Church is starting off the new church school year with a Rally Day this coming Sunday.

Worship services will commence at 9:30 a. m. Following will be a church school registration and then to the YMCA Camp in Shokan for a picnic. Vesper services will conclude the day.

Vocal Concert

Woodstock's Little Theater off-the Green will present a repeat performance of a vocal concert on Saturday, Sept. 23, 8:30 p. m.

It was first performed last Friday evening.

According to persons who attended the concert, it is a delightful performance and well-worth seeing.

Christian Science

Woodstock's Christian Science Church will conduct services Sunday, 11 a. m., from 85 Tinker Street. "Substance" is the title of the Lesson-Sermon this week.

Fire Co. Meets; Japan Discussed

Wilson, who recently returned from Japan after a business trip, spoke on fire apparatus used in Japan and outlined methods used in alerting firemen.

Wilson also reported six fire calls for August for the Woodstock Department, and announced a fire commissioners meeting for September 26.

Captain H. Phillips Eighmey of Company No. 3 reported two fire drills held during the month, and announced September drills for Sunday, at 2 p.m., and Wednesday, Sept. 27, at 7 p.m.—to which all active firemen are requested to be in attendance.

Fire station daily check for the month was assigned to firemen Robert Heinlein, Louis Kolbe, Jack Mergandahl, and Cornelius McCleary.

Alfred Ostrander reported on the successful concession stand held at the Rawhide Ranch Rodeo. He said a profit of $222.92 was made for the building fund of the fire company. Ostrander thanked all firemen and auxiliary members who helped at the concession and stated that this was the most successful event of this type ever held by the company.

Reports on the current fund drive indicate a total of $340 has been received. The drive will continue until all firemen cover their territory.

Ladies Auxiliary

A family covered dish supper has been scheduled for Saturday, Oct. 28, at 6 p.m., at the firehouse in Lake Hill, by the Ladies Auxiliary of Woodstock Fire Company.

Mrs. Alfred Ostrander, president of the Ladies Auxiliary, announced the family supper. It is one in a series of such events for the families of active firemen and auxiliary members. A Halloween theme will be followed for the supper, said the auxiliary leader.

Other events at the meeting included the reception of Mrs. L. Hochberg of Lake Hill into membership, and a jewelry party given by Mrs. Stanley Kaften of Lake Hill.

The next regular meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary is scheduled for Tuesday, Sept. 26, at the firehouse in Lake Hill at 8 p.m. Mrs. H. Phillips Eighmey and Mrs. Alfred Ostrander will act as hostesses.

Schick Office Opens Saturday

Citizens for Schick campaign headquarters will have its formal opening at 2 p. m. Saturday at its Albany Avenue location, in the former Thompson Laundry building.

The organization, composed of individual of varied political shadings, has pledged itself to work for the election of John J. Schick as Ulster County Judge.

Schick has been nominated by the Democrat and Conservative parties.

On Tuesday night, over 75 men and women attended a preliminary meeting to chart their campaign strategy.

Stanley Mumford of Woodstock, Citizens Committee campaign manager, opened the organizational meeting and introduced the guests who were in attendance. James Fahey of Rosendale general chairman, welcomed the members on behalf of Schick. Fahey also extended an invitation to the public to attend the formal opening Saturday.

Among the other speakers was Ulster County's Conservative Party chairman, Harry Hoffman, who said, "Unknown to the general public, John Schick did not seek the Conservative Party endorsement—the Conservative Party sought John Schick since they felt that he is the most eminently qualified person to restore prestige to the Ulster County Court.

Chamber Has Fact Book

ALBANY — Latest statistical information about communities, counties, metroploitan areas and economic areas of New York State is found in New York State Business Fact Book, 1967 Supplement, publication of which was announced today by State Commerce Commissioner Ronald B. Peterson.

Commissioner Peterson noted that the supplement includes a statistical summary of 1966 confirming that economic activity broke all previous records during the year. He said that new peaks in employment, new unemployment lows, as well as record highs in manufacturing production and capital investment in new plants and expanded facilities throughout the State were attained in 1966.

He pointed out that the book, the seventh annual supplement in a series begun in 1961, is published by the State Commerce Department in order "to provide up-to-date economic data for business and industrial organizations, development corporations and other groups requiring accurate information about their communities and areas."

The supplement contains detailed data on population, employment, personal income, manufacturs, business establishments, construction contracts, mineral industries and miscellaneous categories. A special listing of large new manufacturing plants and expansions under way or completed in the State in 1966—64 companies, some with multiple expansions—is included.

Copies may be obtained free of charge from the New York State Department of Commerce, 112 State Street, 12207 or from any regional or branch office of the Department.

Lights Nab Suspect

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Deputies searched for a bank robbery suspect on a remote farm road north of Portland.

A flashlight was too weak so two television news photographers turned on their floodlights.

Feeling of Economists

Critical, Eventful Days Ahead

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — With prices, wages, credit costs and spending either at high levels or now rising sharply, many economists believe that critical and eventful days are ahead of us.

It is a little early to say how this drama will be played out, but some of the characters now are being cast. They include taxes, inflation, labor-management discord, business-government disputes and guideposts.

Politics Only Certainty

None of these is assured a role, although the chances are remote that many of them will be left out. The only certainty is that politics will play a big role, center stage much of the time, as elections near.

At this point in the drama's development the administration is seeking a tax increase to help offset a large and inflationary budget deficit which tends to dilute the value of everyone's dollar.

This deficit is the result of heavy government spending without provisions being made for payment except through cheaper money. It means that the government has made an excessive demand on the economy.

Now the government seeks to correct the problem by raising money through taxes to pay for its purchases. In its opinion the reduction of demand by less spending will not be sufficient. Therefore, higher taxes.

A tax increase, as viewed by its proponents, would serve two related purposes: reduce the budget deficit; and by taking money from business and consumers, lessen their ability to make excessive demands on the economy.

Pressures More Evident

As the tax debate continues, the inflationary pressures are becoming more evident in higher prices for haircuts, steel, automobiles, appliances, rubber goods. Wage demands also are rising.

There is nothing whatever wrong about higher prices and wages. It is when these wages and prices exceed productivity that the damage is done. Greater productivity is what pays for higher wages and prices.

If productivity decreases or remains stationary, wages and prices can increase only at the expense of each other. Unless the pie is larger, nobody can have a bigger slice without depriving someone else.

What nobody can say at this stage is whether the government will succeed in convincing Congress of the need for a tax increase, or even that a tax increase will solve the problem.

This suggests another role in the drama: the chance of wage and price controls. This is a remote possibility. Notes these words, uttered earlier this year by Gardner Ackley, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers:

"As one who spent about six years of his life, during two wars, engaged in price control work. I can report my view that continuous peacetime price and wage controls would be a disaster."

Guideposts Pounded

If this possibility is remote, then the possibility of a new guidepost formula is not.

Guideposts were seemingly effective earlier in this decade in tying wage and price increases to rises in productivity. Last year, however, they were pounded into the ground by wage and price increases.

Since then the inflationary fires have been getting hotter, and now there seems to be a very real need for a new guidepost formula. The administration, however seems to be having difficulty in devising one.

Nevertheless, rising wages and prices—and the damaging consequences of them—should remind everyone of the somewhat cryptic statement early this year by Ackley.

"I suggest," he told the Society of American Business Writers, "that the next steps in the revival and strengthening of the guideposts must be and will be taken soon, for the present breathing space in price pressures will not last forever."

That statement was made in May and did not include any indication of timing, nor did it even suggest a specific proposal.

If Ackley does decide to have guideposts play a role you may be sure it will provoke the suggestion from private enterprise that government, itself, abide by the guideposts.

This is the drama now unfolding.

With an expected 3,000 persons in line from 46 fire companies, 23 women's auxiliaries, 32 musical organizations and 42 pieces of fire equipment, the annual firemen's parade of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association will get under way at 4 p. m. Saturday in Ellenville.

With the sounding of the chief's call, the parade will start at the corner of Elm Street and the four-division parade will march over numerous Streets of the village to the Channel Master-V.A.W. parking lot where it will disband.

Reviewing the parade at Liberty Square will be the judges. The various organizations will be competing for 18 cups and medals.

Grand Marshal will be Ben Litchrod who was president of the County Association in 1938 when the Association last held its convention in Ellenville. Litchrod is the oldest living former fire chief of the village.

JULES ALBERTINI

To Be Feted At Post 150 Dinner Saturday

A man who has spent more than 16 years as a manager and coach in American Legion baseball, Babe Ruth League and Little League will be honored at a testimonial dinner Saturday, 7:30 p. m. at the American Legion Hall on West O'Reilly Street.

Jules Albertini has served as a member of the Kingston Babe Ruth League since it was founded in 1950 as the Fraternal Youth League. He has managed Kingston Post No. 150 since that time.

A native of Kingston, Albertini has spent his entire life in the city, except from 1941-1945, when he served in the U.S. Army. Included was action in the Pacific.

Ex-Commander

Albertini was commander of the Kingston Post in 1958 and 1959. He has also served as athletic officer for the past nine years and has also been on other various committees, as well as a member of several firing squads. He joined the local post in 1945.

In addition to his legion activities, Albertini was president in 1960 and vice-president the previous year of the Babe Ruth League. He has been manager and coach of several Babe Ruth All-Star squads.

Prior to taking an active part in the Babe Ruth League, Albertini helped coach a local team which captured the Bridgeport Invitational.

He has not confined his talents to baseball. Albertini has aided Biddy League basketball and is still active as a scorekeeper and registrar of the league.

Mino, Mayor to Speak

A member of the Hudson Valley Football Officials Assn., Albertini is official timer at the Kingston High games and also officiates high school grid contests. He is also a member of the Kingston Umpires Assn.

Married to the former Lena Weider, Jules and his wife are parents of Linda, Darlene and Jules Jr. They reside at 81 Lucas Avenue, He is a member of St. Mary's Church and its Holy Name Society.

Guest speaker at the Albertini fete will be Ulster County Judge Raymond J. Mino. Kingston Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan is also expected to speak.

Wawarsing Dems Elect Slate

Wawarsing Democrats, meeting in caucus Thursday night, renominated incumbent office holders to seek election in November and named two men to oppose the GOP incumbents for two council seats.

Vincent Spanger and Sol Jargowsky were nominated to run for posts now held by Republican councilmen Delois Craft and Frank Miller.

Designated for renomination were supervisor, George M. Barthel; town clerk, Kenneth Mitchell and superintendent of highways, Harry Decker.

Dairy Members

Ulster County members include S. Robert Kelder Jr. of Stone Ridge and Julius Kraft of Wallkill.

Financial and Commercial

By ED MORSE
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market resumed a wavering course in fairly active trading early Friday.

Gains outnumbered losses by a fair margin on the New York Stock Exchange, but the Dow Jones industrial average showed a loss of about a point due to an indifferent performance by blue chips.

All big three auto stocks took fractional losses as Wall Street heard reports that the strike against Ford may last a long time.

Rubbers edged higher. Rails and oils were mixed. Airlines were mostly lower.

Xerox slumped 4 points. Losses of a point or so were taken by Boeing, United Airlines and IBM.

One Charged, Another Hurt In 9W Crash

A three-car chain reaction collision at 7:45 p. m. Thursday on Route 9W about one mile south of Route 209 resulted in a charge being filed against one driver, and another complained of a sprained neck.

Trooper Thomas Searles of Kingston substation said the cars were driven by Joseph Emanuele, 25, of 241 Broadway; Joseph Stopczynski, 24, of 160 First Avenue, both of Kingston and Lawrence Thomas, 23, of Lake Katrine.

Stopczynski was treated at Benedictine Hospital for a sprained neck. Thomas was cited by Trooper J. J. Brainard for driving with unsafe tires. The summons is returnable before Justice of the Peace Robert S. Stedge, Town of Ulster.

Trooper Brainard reported Emanuele and Stopczynski were stopped for a red traffic light heading north when Thomas approached the intersection and his car reportedly hit the rear of Stopczynski and pushed his vehicle against the Emanuele car. Thomas, troopers said, claimed his foot slipped off the brake pedal and hit the accelerator causing the car to lurch ahead.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING....

by ROGER E. SPEAR
Investment Advisor & Analyst

Cut Losses But Let Profits Run

Q) "I am a male nurse with seven children. Naturally, it has been hard to make my salary cover all my expenses. Awhile ago I inherited $10,000. With it I invested in Merck, Sinclair Oil, Eastman Kodak, Gillette and Wm. Rorer. All show good profits. You often say you don't get married to stocks. Should I sell these, nail down the profits and get into something else?"—M. Z.

A) You have used extremely good judgment and it would be difficult to improve on the list you've put together. When I speak of getting married to a stock, I refer only to deteriorating situations that investors can't bring themselves to sell because their pride of opinion becomes involved. There is another Street maxim that applies in your situation. That is: cut losses but let profits run. I see no reason for you to make any changes in your list.

Q) "We have $75,000 invested in savings accounts and in Series H bonds. We have fixed salaries and fear inflation which seems to get worse all the time. Will you please recommend some stocks which would be a hedge against inflation?"—L.R.

A) I will be very glad to do so. You understand, I hope, that to follow the course you suggest will result in considerable loss of current income. The only stocks that I consider siutable as a long-term hedge against inflation are those which are growing in earnings, dividends and price at a rate faster than any further likely dollar devaluation. These types of stocks are highly valued by the market and offer a relatively low yield. You might put $25,000 into equal dollar amounts of Baxter Laboratories, Bristol-Myers, Norwich Pharmacal, Bell & Howell, Consolidated Foods. This would give you strong representation in hospital supplies, toiletries, pharmaceuticals, electronics and packaged foods—all growing segments of the economy.

Local Justice Courts Duties Cited by Davis

Attorney Sherwood E. Davis, who is seeking the Republican nomination for Justice of the Peace at Saturday night's GOP caucus in the Town of Ulster, said today that the State's new Justice Court Act, which went into effect this month, has added many additional responsibilities for those serving in the office of Justice of the Peace.

The local attorney said that two of the most important changes in the law deal with an increase in the Justice Court's jurisdiction over civil matters, and an extension of the Court's ability to try various additional criminal cases.

According to Davis, the old law limited the Justice Court to hear civil cases which involved no more than $500, but now that limitation has been increased to $1,100, which means that more civil actions can now be disposed of in the local court without the necessity of the cases being brought into the County Court. Davis said "I certainly feel that this change will facilitate the dispensing of justice on many smaller civil cases, which will benefit all parties concerned, and that it will also help to relieve the congested calendar of cases before our County Court."

Concerning criminal matters, Davis went on to say that prior to this month many crimes in the category of misdemeanors could not be tried in the Justice Court, and that they had to be presented to the County's Grand Jury, and then to the County Court if the person involved was indicted for the crime. The Republican candidate then added, "Criminal cases of this nature can be more expeditiously disposed of in a Justice Court, without the unnecessary delay of a Grand Jury hearing and a lengthy trial in County Court, and I think that most will agree that the cause of justice will be better served if those accused of certain crimes are granted their constitutional right to a speedy and public trial before a local magistrate."

The local attorney said that the broadening of the Justice Court's jurisdiction over civil and criminal matters will also mean many new legal motions being brought before the Justice of the Peace, as well as additional questions of evidence and law. Davis further pointed out that the Court's increased duties will require that the presiding magistrate be completely familiar with various technical points of law and trial procedure. The Republican candidate said, "As an attorney I feel that I could contribute a broad range of necessary legal experience to the office of Justice of the Peace, and as one who is self-employed, I would certainly be in a good position to arrange the local Court's hours to suit the convenience of the public so that the holding of court would not be primarily dependent upon the availability of the magistrate."

Gets Suspended Sentence on Song

Theodore J. Mlynarski, 20, of nearby Orchard Park, erned the suspension from Peace Justice Ronald H. Tills of Hamburg after composing a safety ballad and singing it in court, accompanying himself on a guitar.

The defendant, a pre-law junior at Colgate University, received the usual sentence from the Hamburg Youth Jury, a panel of young people in this Buffalo suburb who judge peers accused of minor law violations.

Mlynarski, convicted of driving 70 miles an hour in a 50-mile zone, composed two stanzas and a refrain to the tune of "Greensleeves," an old English ballad. A portion of the refrain went:

"Don't mix your driving with whisky and wine,

"Checking your speed is the thing to do,

"If you don't, a policeman will do it for you."

Racial Imbalance Higher in State

The department based that conclusion Wednesday on a survey of public, elementary schools in 41 school districts outside New York City for the year 1966-67 with the same districts in 1961-62.

The department reported that the number of schools deemed racially imbalanced had risen from 103 to 129.

For the purpose of the two surveys, a school was considered racially imbalanced if 31 per cent or more of its pupils were Negro.

In Buffalo, the state's second largest city, the number of schools deemed racially imbalanced had increased from 19 to 24, out of a total of 80. In 17 schools in that city, the Negro enrollment was more than 90 per cent. Five years ago, there were 14 schools in that percentage category.

The number of imbalanced schools in Rochester increased from 9 to 11, and the school population was more than 90 per cent Negro in 5, compared with 2 in 1961.

In the Hempstead district, the number of racially imbalanced schools remained the same—4—but the number of schools with more than 90 per cent Negro enrollment went from none to three.

In Albany, the number of imbalanced schools dropped from seven to five. But, while none was more than 90 per cent Negro five years ago, one was in 1966-67.

Reductions in the number of imbalanced schools also were reported in Lackawanna, Brookhaven, Riverhead, Kingston, Ellenville's Wawarsing 2, and White Plains.

MARK UNION LABEL WEEK—Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan this week urged that Union Label Week be observed during the period of Sept. 3 to 9 as officially designated by organized labor. Movie Makeup Work Rewarding to Cash

BY GENE HANDSAKER
Associated Press Writer
(For Bob Thomas)

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Almost any star from Astaire to Zsa Zsa, Don Cash has made up.

Recently he spent 3½ hours a day turning Roddy McDowall into a chimpanzee for the movie "Planet of the Apes." At the moment he's fashioning 200 mustaches for the bandits to wear in a Jimmy Stewart western.

Offbeat work? Yes, but for Don Cash the most rewarding phase of his 38 years as one of Hollywood's top make-up men was a sideline for which, at first, he didn't get paid.

"It's the greatest thing," he says, "to see depressed, discouraged men come to life again."

In World War II Cash—chubby, ruddy and now 59—made an artificial nose for Louis Hayward to wear in a movie in which Hayward was playing five roles.

Somebody wrote a magazine article about it. Someone at Los Angeles County General Hospital saw the article and phoned Cash: Could he make an artificial nose for a man who had lost most of his own?

Cash could and, working with molds and sponge rubber in his home workshop, did. Soon he had a busy but profitless sideline making artificial ears, eyes, noses and fingers for the charity patients.

Then free-lancing as a make-up artist, Cash recalls: "I raised the price of my work to cover the cost of my materials. And, funny thing, the more I charged the studios, the better they liked it."

The Army heard of Cash's sideline and recruited him to repair GIs' battle-damaged faces at Walter Reed Hospital in Washington.

He worked in operating rooms, carving features plastic surgeons would implant. Ears, noses and fingers he attached with liquid surgical adhesive and Cash-created artificial skin.

He accompanied repaired patients to Washington night clubs to see if strangers could detect, say, an artificial nose. If they could, he'd tell the GI: "Let's go back and work on it some more."

He created artificial eyes for a man blinded by a booby trap, attaching them realistically to spectacles. The spirited patient ultimately gave up his guide dog—"what the heil am I pulling him around for?"—and, the last Cash heard, was living on an Arkansas farm with his wife and two children.

Cash entered the Army a captain and, for his work, was promoted to major. His efforts were unpublicized at the time because, he says, the Army didn't want to stress the nature of the injuries.

The U.S. Junior Chamber of Commerce later presented him its distinguished service award on a nationwide radio program dramatizing his replacement of most of a soldier's face. The narrator praised Cash for "restoring his fellow men to useful lives."

"They have it pretty well organized," he said, "with trained people and all the equipment."

Expect 40,000 for Grape Festival

The annual Naples Grape Festival is slated for Sept. 29, 30 and Oct. 1. An estimated 40,000 persons are expected to crowd the village, located in western New York, of 1,200 to participate in this year's festival-harvest.

Naples, 40 miles south of Rochester, sits in a picturesque valley surrounded by rolling, vineyard clad hills.

Builders Elect

Three Kingston men will be named to director posts with the Home Builders Association of the Hudson Valley at the first fall meeting Tuesday at the Rhoda Arms, Newburgh.

William Paulus has been proposed as director for one year and George Berry for a three year term.

Mal Cunningham, a past president of the association was nominated as director for national and state associations.

Paltz Theatre Planning on Film Festivals

New Paltz' newest theatre, the Academy, which opened last Friday night, will offer film festivals and independent showings in addition to the usual star-studded cinema fare.

The theatre's creator, Don Bellinger, who has housed his new enterprise in an old church building, has enhanced it with intimate and unusual decor including an art gallery.

Future film showings will include "The Dirty Dozen," "Blow-Up" and "The Agony and the Ecstacy."

Located on Rt. 32, a block from Main Street, the Academy also promises the work of some foreign artists such as Truffaut and a new film documented by a local art professor, Harry Hurwitz.

Presently regular performances are at 6, 8 and 10 p.m. Monday through Saturday and continuous performances Sundays beginning at 2 p.m. A Saturday children's matinee will also be shown. Hours are subject to change at a later date.

7:30pm. The Wild Wild West

8:30pm. Gomer Pyle –USMC

Jim Nabors breezes along as the well-meaning, inept Gomer, making a shambles of military routine and his sergeant's peace of mind. Frank Sutton co-stars. In color.

9pm. The CBS Friday Night Movies

Extensive UCCC Evening Courses

Ulster County Community College will offer extensive evening courses this fall in both Kingston and Stone Ridge in addition to having extension courses at three public schools in the county, President George B. Erbstein said today.

The courses at Stone Ridge will be at the College's new Stone Ridge campus, while in Kingston, the courses will be offered at the Kingston Classroom Building, 214 West Chestnut Street. In addition, there will be college extension courses at Ellenville High School, Saugerties Junior-Senior High School and the Woodstock Elementary School.

Sept. 12-13 Registration

Registration for all the courses will be in the George Clinton Administration Building at the Stone Ridge campus on Tuesday, Sept. 12 and Wednesday, Sept. 13. The hours both evenings will be from 6 to 9 p. m.

"We've expanded our evening and extension courses for the citizens of Ulster County," President Erbstein said, "to provide greater higher educational opportunities. We're offering courses for the people of the community to meet specific job requirements, to facilitate advancement in certain occupations and professions, or to gain personal satisfaction toward a fuller life."

President Erbstein said counselors and faculty members will be available both registration nights to help interested county residents in selecting courses for their betterment and improvement.

These are the courses the college will offer at its Stone Ridge campus: Principles of Accounting I, Business Principles and Practices, Business Law I, Beginning Shorthand, Painting I, Intermediate Painting I, Art History I, Freshman Composition, Western World Literature, Intermediate French I, Music Appreciation, Elementary Russian, Elementary Russian, Elementary Spanish I, Fundamentals of Speech, General Biology I, College Preparatory Math, College Mathematics, Elementary Analysis of Functions, Physical Science I, Economics I, History of Civilization I, D. C. Electricity, Technical Drawing I and Technical Materials.

These are the courses the College will offer at its Kingston Classroom Building: Intermediate Accounting I, Cost Accounting, Personnel Administration, Elements of Corporation Finance, Mathematics for Business and Industry, Real Estate Appraisal, Principles of Data Processing, Freshman Composition I, American Literature I, Modern Drama, Introduction to Philosophy, Public Speaking, Calculus II, Modern Mathematics, Technical Mathematics III, College Mathematics I, Comparative Economic Systems, American History I, American Government, General Psychology, Developmental Psychology, Social Psychology, Principles of Sociology, Introduction to Anthropology, Urban Sociology, and General Psychology.

At Ellenville High School, the college will offer Principles of Sociology, while at Saugerties Junior-Senior High School, the courses to be offered are Principles of Data Processing and Business Principles and Practices. At Woodstock Elementary School, History of Civilization I and Freshman Composition I will be offered.

Interested persons may obtain further information about these courses by calling the director of community services at the college's Stone Ridge campus.

Review Survey on Medicaid

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — More than 70 per cent of the physicians and 60 per cent of the dentists in New York State—outside of New York City—are treating medicaid patients and billing local welfare districts, a nearly completed state survey showed today.

A separate study of participation in the controversial state program is under way in New York City, where city officials estimate that fewer than 4,000 of 17,000 physicians are active in it. A city requirement for registration at the outset of the program is blamed. That requirement has been dropped.

The program, an offshoot of the federal medicare, pays medical bills for people deemed in need, regardless of age. Federal, state and local money is used.

Many members of the medical profession have objected to various aspects since the program went into effect in May 1966.

A hotbed of objection was the Buffalo region, but the State Health Department's survey shows that 72 per cent of the physicians and 62 per cent of the dentists are participating in Erie County, which includes Buffalo. The percentage was down to 40 per cent, however, in Chautauqua County, part of the Buffalo region.

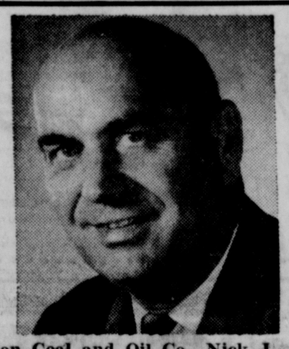

A State Health Department spokesman said 70 per cent "is a very good figure, because there is a sizeable proportion of doctors who do not have occasion to see medicaid patients."

For instance, plastic surgeons. "The affluent get their noses fixed, the non-affluent don't. They are more concerned about getting their children immunized."

In Livingston County, near Rochester, 77 per cent of the dentists were taking part, but the percentage of physicians was 48.

Nick J. Valenzano

General Manager of Kingston Coal and Oil Co., Nick J. Valenzano will seek the nomination of Tax Collector in the Town of Ulster, on Sept. 9th, at the Republican Caucus.

Nick has, in his 12 years of residency, always been active in civic affairs. He is an active member of Ulster Hose Co. No. 5, having served as vice-president.

Valenzano is now serving as chairman of the Park Commissioners of the Town of Ulster.

As candidate for the position of Tax Collector, Nick is confident in assuming the responsibilities and confidential trust required of the position.

Twilight Fruit Meeting Set September 13

A twilight fruit meeting has been scheduled by William H. Palmer, Ulster County Cooperative Extension Agent, for Wednesday, Sept. 13, at 7 p. m. at Hepworth's cold storage plant on Route 9W at Milton.

At this pre-harvest apple meeting fruit growers will receive timely information on crop prospects, stop-drop sprays, scald prevention, best picking dates for storage and other marketing information.

Speakers will include Chick Forshey, fuit growth and conditions; Dave Blanpied, scald prediction and picking dates; Peter Hoffman, use of hormone sprays; Ben Dominick, crop prospects and market factors; Rocky Bery, marketing the crops.

Those attending the meeting are requested to be on time and hear the entire program.

On May 6, 1956 a meeting was held in Kingston for parents and friends of the mentally retarded with the Executive Director of the New York State Association for Retarded Children as the speaker. This was the first meeting of its kind in Ulstetr County.

The plan to formulate the Ulster County Chapter was introduced on June 6, 1956 and during that summer a Board of Directors was designated.

A survey of the number of mentally retarded children was taken and presentetd to the Kingston City Schools for the formation of a class for severely retarded children below the I. Q. of 50. A class was formed for trainables at the Temple Emanuel with the teacher's salary paid by the Kingston Board of Education.

The Association petitioned the Community Chest in 1957 for funds—$3,000 was allocated to the Association for 1958 operations. A summer day camp program was initiated for retarded children in conjunction with the Jewish Community Center at Turkey Point.

In April 1960 a nursery school for mentally retarded children was established on a part-time basis. Two days a week for two and a half hours a day.

A part-time Executive Director was retained in 1963 and in 1964 a full-time Executive Director was retained when the Association became a part of the Community Mental Health program in Ulster County. Existing programs expanded and new programs were instituted after that.

REFORMED—"Chumma" has reformed—and Brookfield Zoo officials are delighted over it. Chumma, recently gave birth to quads and for weeks they were kept from her because on two previous deliveries, Chumma refused to have anything to do with her cubs. Three of the quads are shown with her and she seemed to enjoy her responsibility. Fourth one is hiding behind Chumma. All cubs are male (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Saugerties Boy Given Trip to Lourdes

FRANK MEYER JR.

The Knights of Columbus, Hudson Valley Chapter and Conference made known the selection of a Saugerties boy who will be transported by airplane with his mother to visit the shrine at Lourdes, France.

The boy, selected from a group of applicants for the annual trip was Frank Meyer, Jr., 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Meyer Sr., of Elm Street, Saugerties.

Diagnosed as totally blind due to a lost retina since October 1966, Frank graduated from St. Mary of the Snow, attended the first two years of high school at St. Patrick's, Catskill, and is presently attending Saugerties High School. Frank also attesnded a school for Braille and maneuverability at Batavia. He enjoys all kinds of music.

Frank Meyer Sr., a former resident of Springfield, L. I., is plant superintendant at Ferroxcube Corporation where he has been employed for the past 14 years. He served with the U.S. Marines during World War II with two years in the Pacific Theater. Mrs. Meyer, the former Florence Rivers is employed at Saugerties Sportswear.

District Deputy James Kelly, George Brickwedde, William Sincerbox and Philip R. Sweeney, grand knight of the Saugerties Council are assisting the Meyers in making arrangements for the trip, September 21, through October 5. They will travel on Alitalia Airlines in conjunction with the Catholic Travel Office, Washington, D. C.

They will be accompanied by a priest, a nurse and a physician and other mothers and children from Northeastern United States.

The hope of all those who participate in the annual pilgrimage is that a cure will be effected through the devotion to Our Lady of Lourdes.

On June 17th, Mr. and Mrs. Meyer and Frank were guests of the annual Grand Knight and Past Grand Knight dinner dance of the Hudson Valley Chapter and Conference held at Bear Mountain Inn, at which time prizes from the annual Lourdes fund raising campaign were awarded. These funds are used to finance the annual pilgrimage.

Expo 67 by All Means

MONTREAL (AP) — A swimmer, a hiker, a bicycle-rider and canoeists, all on marathon treks, are among visitors to Expo 67 who make getting here half the fun.

The city's setting on the St. Lawrence River also attracts boating enthusiasts, including the crew of a teakwood junk who came from Hong Kong and a honeymoon couple whose 1909 cabin cruiser chugged 850 miles like a slow boat to China.

Tony Whittemore, 11, and his brother, Jeff, 9, traveled to Expo from Needham, Mass., by pony cart. Their 26-day, 300-mile trip won them a prized privilege from exposition officials—four days of getting into pavilions without having to wait in long lines.

For some travelers who chose unusual ways to reach Montreal, Expo was a long-awaited goal. For others, it marked a respite in odysseys that would take them hundreds or thousands of miles further.

For distance-swimmer Russell Chaffee, 42, of Sayre, Pa., the trip was, in part, to meet people. For cyclist Gordon Young, 43, of Thousand Oaks, Calif., it was a way to shed 50 pounds.

The Centennial Voyageur Canoe Pageant, comprising 100 Canadians in 10 canoes, came 3,000 miles from Rocky Mountain House, Alta.

Two New Jersey paddlers, barred from joining the Canadians' observance, hope to complete their own 1,900-mile canoe trip from Manitoba Province this weekend.

Alfred Welenofsky, 29, and Steve Reiners, 21, both from Nutley, N.J., said a difficult part of their trip was in Lake Superior, where "we were nearly dumped several times" in rough water.

Chaffee, a mathematics teacher, began his 370-mile swim at Watkins Glen, N. Y. He stroked up to 38 miles a day through Seneca Lake, the New York State Barge Canal, Lake Ontario and the St. Lawrence, with the final leg amid floodlights and an escort of police boats.

He went home by automobile.

Young's arrival from California drew less fanfare, but the cyclist had accomplished part of his goal—losing 30 pounds in a month, "despite four or five meals a day."

Young, who had weighed 280 when he set out, pedaled on toward Massachusetts' Cape Cod, hoping to shed another 20 pounds.

Mrs. Helen Hall, 70, of Philadelphia, listed Expo as a stop on a walk she said would end in Alaska, hopefully "before the snow starts."

Mrs. Hall, who pulled a grocery cart, told reporters one aim of her trip was to draw attention to the needs of persons dependent on old-age benefits.

The Chinese junk set out in 1965 on what its captain, Pierre Hermann, a native of Mulhouse, France, said was "an experiment to live and sail on a boat like that."

Hermann said Expo officials had invited him to exhibit a model of his "Chang Feng."

He planned to sail his 72-foot-long vessel to New Guinea in the South Pacific after staying here several weeks.

False Report Charged to Driver

An 18-year-old Brooklyn youth was arrested Thursday by Highland State Police and charged with making a false report to authorities and New Paltz police filed two vehicle and traffic violations against the motorist.

Trooper John Crodelle said Robert Edward Ackerman, of 5324 Avenue L, Brooklyn, was held in $100 bail for hearing on Sept. 26 before Justice of the Peace Linn Baker, Town of Lloyd.

On the early morning of Sept. 6, Ackerman's car was involved in a traffic accident in New Paltz. At 11:45 a. m. that day he reported to state troopers that his car had been stolen. Investigation resulted in his arrest yesterday for making a false report.

New Paltz Police cited Ackerman for leaving the scene of an accident and driving without a license.

Serious crime in the United States jumped 20 per cent in the first three months of 1967, according to an FBI report.

Boy, 5, Injured

A five-year-old boy sustained injuries to his arm and lip after being brushed by a car Thursday afternoon, Kingston Police said today.

According to officials, the youth was brushed by an auto operated by Helene Collins of 285 West O'Reilly Street. Police said the accident occurred at the corner of Prospect and St. James Streets.

New Home Can Be Top Investment

Build now?

Quoting figures from FHA, he points to the record for the past 10 years: Prices of homes insured by this agency have risen nearly 31 per cent; values of lots on which they are built have gone up 92 per cent.

Young couples should build as soon as possible, Concord counsels, because the trend of prices for materials and labor continues to be up.

Dollars Appreciate

"The sooner they build, the more quickly their investment dollars will begin appreciating in value due to inflation," the Masonite counsellor declares. "Home ownership is an anti-inflationary investment which will grow more quickly than other commodities."

He cited other advantages of home ownership:

Interest Tax Deductible

Interest payments on the mortgage are tax-deductible.

It is the beginning of an estate and a foundation for financial growth through other investments.

Home ownership leads to a more enjoyable and prosperous life. Home owners' desire to improve their status makes them better financial risks and job holders, and it builds better income.

In planning your home, Concord suggests, work closely with your lumber and building materials dealer. Ask to see his line of Masonite siding and interior paneling products, widely known and used for good appearance, long life and easy maintenance.

New Vinyl-Clad Moldings Asset To Home Owner

Moldings are the amateur (or professional) carpenter's best friend, as they cover errors in workmanship and give a finished appearance to the entire job.

A new type — vinyl-clad, introduced by Masonite Corporation to match the panels in its Royalcote line—offers additional advantages. The company lists them as follows:

Completely uniform surface providing perfect matching; on-the-job decorating eliminated; they won't splinter, crack or develop grain rise; impact-resistant surface won't chip and it resists abrasion; they can be sawed and processed with common tools.

Installations can be time-saving, too, because Royalcote Vinyl moldings may be applied in minutes with a cartridge-type adhesive, eliminating nailing chores, filing in holes and touch-up.

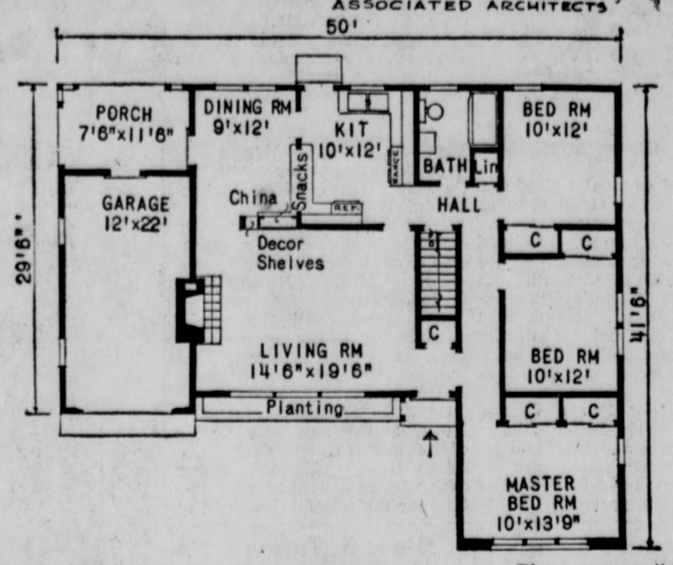

The moldings are available in a variety of types, colors and patterns for any installation. They may be used with any kind of wall paneling.

1.2 Million Needy

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The Department of Agriculture says more than 1.2 million needy persons in nine Southeastern states received food through the department's food commodities and food stamp program in July.

Ranch Home Features Expansion Bedroom

By JACK McELENEY

Rooms in combination well adapted to modern living are expressed in the ranch type home presented today.

This treatment is carried out thru the sleeping area and extended to the living room, kitchen and dining area to offer combining facilities that ease the burden of housekeeping and at the same time provide expansive comfort for the family.

The kitchen takes all areas of the house into account, has much cabinet space and a snack bar which does double duty as a separator between the kitchen and dining room.

The living area of "The Ross" has 1,240 square feet with the garage and the porch adding another 334 square feet.

The Green Thumb

by GEORGE ABRAHAM

THE HOME LAWN: Fall's an ideal time to feed your lawn. Pretty soon the annual weeds will be killed by frost, leaving bare spots. Fall feeding encourages the existing grasses to spread and fill in the bare spots. You might want to scatter some grass seed in the bare spots now. Loosen up any area which happens to be sparse or bare, scatter in some grass seed and plant food. When fall rains come the seed will be ready to take off. Stay away from the real coarse grasses, such as ryegrass, tall fescue and other pasture grasses. A lawn is a lifetime investment, and if you start out with good grasses, your lawn will remain as long as your house.

Stick to the attractive, narrow-leaved lawn grasses such as the Kentucky bluegrasses, fine fescues or possibly bentgrasses. I'd like to add that while bent grasses are beautiful and fine-textured, they take a lot more care than Kentucky bluegrass-fescue turfs.

FREE: Want to know more about the art of having a good lawn? Send me a self-addressed, stamped envelope and ask for a copy of my bulletin, TIMELY TURF TIPS.

DRYING FLOWERS: Did you know that the blue or the red flowering salvias dry well for indoor arrangements. You can use silica gel drying agent, or you can try hanging them upside down and drying them that way. Bells of Ireland, Marigold, zinnia, delphinium, Feverfew, and China Aster are some of the many items which can be preserved for winter bouquets.

Some of the materials used for drying flowers (called Desiccants) include sand, borax, corn meal, mixture of borax and corn meal, and silica gel. The gel is a commercial desiccant which works fine, without damaging or losing color of the blooms. If you will send me a self-addressed, stamped envelope I'll send you my free bulletin on preserving flowers for drier arrangements.

ANTS IN THE LAWN: Ants in the lawn or along the foundation of your home can be controlled by dusting some chlordane or dieldrin in the area where you see them.

GREEN THUMB CLINIC: "Please tell us if whitewashing a tree trunk will prevent insect attack."

Answer: Whitewashing a tree trunk has no effect on insects. The only value is to prevent "southwest injury"—winter injury on the southwest side of a tree. Whitewashing also makes the tree visible at night, and while it may not kill insects, it may save someone's life. There's no spray or sticky material which is effective in trapping insects as they climb up and down a trunk.

NOW AVAILABLE IN KINGSTON FOR THE FIRST TIME!

Try Hy-Test 303 This Heating Season .... It Costs No More!

SAVES YOU UP TO 20% OF YOUR HEATING COSTS!

Do you know that as little as 5/16th of an inch of soot—built up in your burner by ordinary fuel oils—will reduce heating efficiency by as much as 20%?* The premium additive in HY-TEST 303 not only burns soot-free—but will actually burn off soot deposits now in your furnace! Prove this amazing fact to yourself, by checking your own furnace before and after using HY-TEST 303. The Result: You will burn less oil using HY-TEST 303—yet pay no more per gallon than you would for ordinary oil.

ENDS TANK CORROSION

Every one of our trucks is equipped with a patented filter and dehydrator that removes all impurities and extracts every trace of water from HY-TEST 303 on delivery BEFORE it reaches your tank. In addition, the premium additive in HY-TEST 303 prevents moisture from collecting at the bottom of your fuel tank, banishing the danger of tank corrosion and leakage.

INSURES TROUBLE-FREE HEAT

Because HY-TEST 303 is the purest oil ever delivered, because it burns more completely, you get the most trouble-free fuel oil ever available. At spring checking time, look for and see the difference! No more nozzle-clogging sludge, no more heat-killing soot, even the unpleasant petroleum odor is gone!

Micare-Waltamath Nuptials Told

MRS. JAMES WALTAMATH
(Hague Studio)

Miss Angeline Rose Micare, 5 Crown Terrace, Albany, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dominick Micare, was married Saturday, Aug. 19, to James Robert Waltamath, 243 Church Street, Little Falls, son of Mr. and Mrs. Max L. Waltamath.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a chantilly lace cage gown over crepe sheath, styled with a bateau neckline, short sleeves and cathedral train. Her silk illusion veil was caught to a cluster of satin petals edged with seed pearls and sprays of crystals. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses, stephanotis, a white orchid and ivy.

Barbara Micare, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a lime chiffon over crepe gown fashioned with an empire bodice, sheath skirt, long puffed sleeves and trimmed with satin. Her headpiece was a cluster of chiffon petals fastened to a circular veil. She carried a colonial bouquet of apricot mums.

Attendants were Donna Carpinello, niece of the bride, Sally Waltamath, sister of the bridegroom, and Alice Torda. Their apricot colored gowns were fashioned identically to that of the honor attendant. They carried lime colored chrysanthemums.

Alfred DiCaprio was best man. Ushers were Joseph Micare, brother of the bride, William Moynihan and James Jantosciak.

After the wedding a reception was held at the Ambassador Restaurant.

The bride is a graduate of Cardinal McCloskey Memorial High School and was employed by the State University of New York at Albany.

Her husband received his Bachelor's degree from State University of New York at Albany and is working for his Masters degree at the same college. He is a member of Alpha Pi Alpha and is on the faculty of Kingston High School.

Mr. and Mrs. Waltamath will reside in this city.

K of C Scholarship Program Announced

State Deputy James E. Foley has announced the start of a Scholarship Program for the 1967 Columbian Year, sponsored by the New York Council's Knights of Columbus. John J. Waycie, 47 Sussex Street, Port Jervis, has been appointed chairman.

The state is divided into 12 districts with three scholarships in each district for a total of 37 awards. A special offer is that of the "Joseph S. Coffey Jr." Memorial Scholarship which is on a statewide basis, in the sum of $600 a year for a four-year period.

There shall also be awarded the Joseph F. Lamb Memorial Award Scholarships in the amount of $400 a year for each of four years, one scholarship for each district, 12 awards.

Scholarships are open to any Catholic graduate of a recognized high school in New York State during the term ending January or June 1968. Candidates are required to submit to a preliminary regular college entrance test in scholastic aptitude given by the College Entrance Board of Princeton, N. J., on Saturday, Dec. 2.

Scholarships may be used at any Catholic College in the U.S., and subject to approval by the committee. Applications must be filed with the committee no later than Oct. 28, and may be obtained from John A. Coleman High School, Kingston High School, Grand Knight Frank Castigleone of Kingston Council No. 275, or by writing to the chairman. The 37 scholarships will total $45,000.

Community Concert Lists 1967 Series

John McCullough, president of Kingston Community Concert Association announced that membership cards have been mailed to all subscribers of the association.

The 1967 series of concerts includes the Columbus Boy Choir, scheduled to appear Wednesday, Oct. 11; Simon Estes, bass-baritone, appears Monday, Jan. 15; and the final concert, presented on Monday, Feb. 19, features the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra with Lee Luvisi, guest pianist.

Subscribers who do not receive their membership cards in the mail within the next few days are urged to contact Mr. Louis Kegler in Kingston.

QUIZ ON FALL PARTY PLANNING

Fall is almost here, and with it will come an increase in entertaining. The most important single factor to insure your party's success is careful planning. The questions below may serve to test your knowledge, and give you some ideas when you next consider giving a party. Score 10 points for each correct choice, and if you score less than 70, you need a copy of Emily Post's Etiquette to help you with your entertaining.

1. When making up your guest list, it is best to (a) pick only people who know each other well. (b) mix couples who are not necessarily close friends.

2. Invitations to an informal dinner party (a) need not request an answer. (b) may say "regrets only" with your telephone number.

3. If you are planning to serve cocktails, you should (a) let the men guests help by making the refills. (b) do all the bar-tending yourself.

4. If you are not serving before-dinner drinks, you should plan to (a) serve dinner at the hour stated on the invitation. (b) serve dinner 15 or 20 minutes or so after the stated hour.

5. When planning your seating arrangement, the person on the host's right should be (a) the hostess. (b) the oldest or most important lady guest.

6. A raconteur or witty talker will most enjoy sitting next to (a) a good listener. (b) another equally entertaining conversationalist.

7. When you are doing the cooking and serving alone, the most practical menu features (a) a roast with vegetables, gravy, etc. (b) a casserole.

8. After dinner, if you wish your guests to linger on, you should (a) plan some activity. (b) rely on good conversation.

9. If you are giving a cocktail party you (a) may offer two or three kinds of cocktails. (b) must offer many types of liquor for people to choose from.

10. When you give a dinner party, you should (a) count on your lady guests helping with the clean-up. (b) firmly refuse all offers of help.

Here are the correct answers:

1. (b) 6. (a)
2. (b) 7. (b)
3. (a) 8. (a)
4. (b) 9. (a)
5. (b) 10. (b)

Lyric Choristers Start 11th Season

Lyric Choristers, a mixed choral group, will start its 11th season with a covered dish supper Wednesday, Sept. 13 at 7 p.m. in St. John's Episcopal Church, Albany Avenue. Miss Dorothy Briggs of Mt. Marion is in charge of the arrangements. Rehearsal after supper.

Richard A. Blish, a member of the Onteora Central School System, will be director for a second year. Mr. Blish teaches vocal music in the Woodstock and Phoenicia Schools. He received his BS in music education from Union College, Barbourville, Ky., and taught music for two years in Ripley, Ohio, before joining the Onteora Schools.

The accompanist, Mrs. Helen Chen Ling, came to the United States from Hong Kong in 1965. She has taught music for more than 16 years. Mrs. Ling is employed at the Kingston Trust Company Central Branch.

The Choristers give two concerts a year in Kingston and have performed at Christmas time in the Middletown State Hospital for the past six years. They have given concerts at the Wallkill Prison and the Hudson River State Hospital.

Subsequent rehearsals will be held each Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the George Washington School. All interested singers are invited to attend.

British Fashion Oracle Says: Pink Is the Shade for Men — Do Say!

LONDON, England (AP) — Sir Mark Palmer, Baronet, looked into his crystal ball and predicted that pink will be the popular shade in menswear next season. Not only pink shirts, but pink hats, rose-colored shoes, maybe pink Arab robes.

Don't laugh. As founder and head of the English Boy model agency, Mark is something of a fashion oracle. He set up shop in Chelsea in March and has since revolutionized the image of the male fashion model.

A staff of 35 English boy models are kept busy at $15 an hour. Their physical structure must be: height, 6 feet tall, weight, about 140 pounds, and chest, not more than 36 inches around.

It's no surprise that the star of the English Boy stable, Bill Chenail, 20, is known as "Master Twiggy." His measurements aren't far from those of the waif-like female model.

When we met Mark Palmer, 24, he was wearing a sky blue flat felt hat, blue striped red blazer, flowered Moroccan vest with striped tie around the waist, and sure enough, pink pants and pink shoes. (Incidentally, Mark, an ex-Oxford man, omits his title from his pink business cards.)

"Painted the shoes myself," he said with pride. The shops have an annoying habit of being one step behind Mark. Just the other day some green shoes appeared in the window of a sedate men's shop; but Mark has already run through the green phase.

"We're riding the crest of the wave," says Palmer." The shape of men's bodies had already changed before we pointed it out, but nobody had noticed. Now other more conventional male model agencies are taking this change into consideration. Male models should look like poets."

According to Mark, the new wave in English fashion was started not by Carnaby Street ("badly made stuff, that") but by designer Mary Quant in Chelsea.

"Actually, the originators of fashion are the layabouts and scrubbers who haven't got any money, so they cut things off, make over, invent for themselves." Layabouts is a dirty word in some Britons' vocabularies, and the term "scrubber" for the layabout's feminine equivalent usually starts a hair-pulling, nail-scratching fight when applied to a girl in television's "realism" plays. Coming from Mark, the words sound complimentary.

"Some of our models we got from drama schools, shops and photographers studios," he explains, "but others were just bums. They were just hanging around."

Now some are making over $600 a week modelling, but they don't boast of the money. "We hate money," Kelvin Webb, one of Mark's partners, says flatly. "But sad though it may seem, one must make money to do anything."

The English Boy model agency is not just a supplier of new-style clothes horses. "We want to influence young people to think for themselves," says Webb." "Why should a quarter of the population tell the other three quarters what to do? Some young people have been conditioned against thinking. It's wrong that they should be taught by people of 65 in the universities. Our philosophy is love each other and quit fighting." From Mark's point of view, young people's minds have moved ahead; their bodies are just catching up with them. Besides flowing Arab robes and pink for men, he foresees more male jewelry, scarves, bright colors, and a movement away from neatness. English Boys may be kookie, but they are not scruffy.

"A lot of people have been writing me from America asking advice on how to set up an agency like mine," says Mark Palmer. "But I'm not telling them because I hope to set up my own New York agency quite soon."

The Chef's Book

Drained canned apricot halves make a delightful salad to serve with baked ham. Arrange the apricot halves on lettuce, fill their cavities with slivered toasted almonds and serve with dressing.

Juice from canned peaches, apricots or pears may be mixed with melted butter and lemon juice and used as a delightful baste for broiled chicken. Serve with buttered rice tossed with pine nuts.

Easy way to make coconut custard pie: fill a baked pie shell with vanilla pudding-and-pie filling mix, but do this just before serving so the crust will stay crisp. Add a topping of toasted coconut. Good served with summer's fresh fruits—sliced pears, strawberries or blueberries.

When folding creamstyle cottage cheese into scrambled eggs, it's best to do so just a few seconds before the eggs have finished cooking. If the cheese is overcooked, it will be watery.

Ever make quick cheese bread? Cut a loaf of French bread into slices, but don't cut all the way through. Spread the slices with a mixture of grated cheddar cheese, mayonnaise and paprika. Bake in a moderate oven on a sheet of foil until very hot—20 to 30 minutes.

Have you tried adding a few whole cloves when you are heating black bean soup? Interesting flavor. Be sure to remove the cloves before serving.

Add a tablespoon of grated orange rind to that custard-pie filling (along with the usual vanilla flavoring). Delicious flavor change!

To render fat means to heat it until the fat may be drained away from the connective tissues, which are discarded.

Exactly what is chutney? It's usually a combination of fruits and vegetables cooked with sugar, vinegar and spices. Chutney is a "must" with curries and is an excellent relish to serve with other meat, fish or egg dishes.

KIDNEY TRANSPLANT SUCCESS BECOMING MORE EVIDENT

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, MD
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—How successful are kidney transplants? How do they compare with the artificial kidney?

A—Kidney transplants are still experimental, but improvements in technique are being made. In general, the more closely related the recipient is to the donor, the better are the chances for a successful transplant. If a transplant works, the recipient can live a normal life and need worry very little about his kidneys, whereas the uremic patient who depends on an artificial kidney must take time out frequently to be hooked up to this complicated device.

A—The hardness of the water in the laundry would not be a factor. Bedsores are caused by localized pressure. Various devices for relieving the pressure by distributing it more evenly are helped. One of the best of these is a special water mattress that uses the total flotation principle.

Q—I am aware of the special precautions needed in lifting heavy weights to prevent back injuries. Are there any exercises that will strengthen the back muscles?

A—Bending forward and touching your toes from a standing position or from lying down will strengthen these muscles but not to the point of making it safe to lift heavy objects with your back instead of your legs. These exercises should be avoided if they cause pain or discomfort, and backward bending exercises should be avoided, period.

Q—For the past two years I have had bouts of what one doctor says is angioneurotic edema. Another doctor calls it urticaria. What is the cause?

A—Urticaria is hives and angioneurotic edema is also called giant hives, so there is no essential disagreement between your doctors. The cause is allergy but discovering the offending allergen is often difficult. A continuous search for it should be made until it is found because only by removing the cause can you get lasting relief.

Q—Can the white blood cell count fall to half the normal count? What can be done to bring it back? What is leukopenia?

A—Yes, the white count may fall and when it does you have leukopenia. This may be caused by anemia, various drugs and some infectious diseases. Before the condition can be treated, the cause must be determined.

Sawkill Ladies Plan An Afternoon Tea

An invitation to attend an afternoon tea has been extended to the ladies of the Sawkill Fire District and Fire Protection area, by Mrs. Francis Joy, membership chairman; Mrs. Jean Patton, executive board president; Miss Laura Joy, vice president; Mrs. Ann Ferrigan, secretary and Mrs. Marion Clark, treasurer.

The tea is scheduled for Sunday at 3 o'clock in the Sawkill Firehouse. It will be an opportunity to meet the officers and an opportunity for the newcomers in the community to get acquainted. Refreshments will be served by members of the auxiliary.

Mrs. Joy reported that letters were mailed to all the ladies in the fire area, inviting their membership in the auxiliary. Anyone interested in joining may contact any member.

The first regular fall meeting of the auxiliary will be held Monday, Sept. 18 at 8 p. m. in the firehouse. Future meetings will be scheduled for the third Monday of each month in order to enable more ladies to attend.

Instant Tatoos Make the Scene At Village Discotheque Opening

NEW YORK (AP)—What to wear to a really wild party? Something savage, of course. Paint up your face and body the way the so-called uncivilized did.

"Wear as little as you can," said the invitation to the opening of Salvation, a new Greenwich Village discotheque, "so that areas may be available for tattooing."

But people are perverse. Usually the crowds who jam into discotheque openings don't have to be told to undress rather than dress for such occasions. Yet the people who made their ways into the deep, down-under cave of Hadean lights and writhing bodies were defiantly covered with cloth from their chins to their shins.

Still, there was room for the tattos. A bow-wielding cupid fit nicely across the forehead, a red butterfly on the cheeks and Moby Dick on the back of the hand. A sheet of 13 more included the zodiac sign, an unbowdlerized bull, and barnyard chicks.

At the opening of the Electric Circus Village, another New York discotheque, artists were hired to paint on people. However, the decal tattoo, which defies soap and water, is the easier way to the savage look.

The French were the first to find beauty in making every man his own art gallery. Temporary decals called "tatu" over there were just what they wanted to change the show regularly.

Two Americans, David Padway and Leo Garden, discovered the tattoos in France. Along with a pretty Harvard Business School graduate named Marlene Krauss, they formed a tattoo peddling company. The Huckleberry Tomorrow.

Though winter is coming on and the bare spots will surely be fewer, the company is plotting bigger and better tattoos for future uncover seasons. Pop flags, "Peace" and "Mother"

Beauties Compete for Ulster's Crown Saturday

Another Miss America will be crowned Saturday night in Atlantic City, N. J. Awaiting her is a year in the sun with fame, wealth and hordes of admiring men who won't get past her chaperones.

While the Miss America contestants await the 11th hour at the Jersey sea resort, Ulster County residents will be reminded that their own beauties will compete for the county crown on September 16 at 8 p. m. in the Saugerties High School.

The first of 16 girls will step forward and meet a capacity audience. She will compete in gown, talent and swimsuit categories and wonder which lucky girl will win the coveted crown of Miss Ulster County of 1968. The local queen and her runners-up will share $1,000 in scholarship awards and numerous gifts. The new county queen will have the privilege of representing this area in the finals next July in Olean, N. Y., where she will compete for the state title.

Other queens attending next week's pageant in Saugerties will be Marcelle Renee Maier of Yonkers, Miss Westchester; and Jane C. Lenihan of Rye, Miss New Rochelle. If the current Miss New York State, Kari Pederson, doesn't win the national crown, she plans to attend the Saugerties competition also.

A South American theme has been chosen for this year's contest. Staged as a fiesta, the contestants will have an opportunity to get a preview of the sets when they meet for a dress rehearsal on September 15.

KEYBOARD TIME for some of the contestants, backstage at the Saugerties High School brings together contestants (l-r) Hilda M. Kruger, Saugerties; Cynthia Pallus, New Paltz; Sally Ann Landrio, New Paltz, and Michele Mauro, Saugerties. The girls will compete in gown, swimsuit and talent categories in the upcoming Miss Ulster County of 1968 Pageant.

It is a tribute to the massive brainwashing techniques of television that some 800 spectators found their way to Deitz Stadium last Sunday for the return of semi-pro football.

If there was ever any proof needed that football is now the No. 1 sports attraction in the country, this amazing turnout furnished it. The last time a sports contest attracted 800 persons to the stadium was, to put it mildly, a long, long time ago.

Those who attended were treated to a typical semi-pro football game with its normal quota of fumbles, intercepted passes, missed tackles, a 55-yard pass interception and other goodies you wouldn't find within a mile of, let us say Packer Stadium in Green Bay.

In sharp contrast to the so-called Golden Bears of Stamford, Conn., who trotted out on the field staggering under surplus avoirdupois, bedecked in a variety of uniform shirts, helmets and pants, the Hudson Valley Crusaders were sharply attired in red uniforms. They made a splendid impression on the fans and such is the mood of the sports picture that this unheralded band of Dutchess County gridders could make it big for the remainder of the season.

• • • • • • • • •

THE REMARKABLE THING ABOUT the Crusaders is their simon pure approach to the game. The trade calls them semi-pros but money is really secondary to these fellows. They play primarily for the fun and love of the game and if there is a kitty to whack up at seasons end they do it about 45 ways. And they are likely to transform Deitz Stadium into Fun City before the season ends.

If there is one glaring weakness in the whole Crusader picture, it is the public relations setup. It is simply bush league. This is regrettable because everything else about the organization seems attuned to the times.

They'll try it again Sunday night against the Long Island Jets. If the attendance doesn't surpass 800 we'll be surprised. We make the announcement about the Jets just in case the Crusaders try to keep it a secret.

THE RUNNING FUED BETWEEN Phil Rizzuto, the Yankee broadcaster, and Eddie Stanky, White Sox manager, goes back to their playing days. It is getting more lineage than the White Sox bid for the pennant. The Chisox's surprise gate slump (under 800,000 to date) may be proof the modern buff couldn't care less about baseball as it was played in the good, old days.

The New York Metsies are battling resolutely to hold down last place in the National League, but the last time we looked they were approaching the million and a half mark in attendance. It must prove something. It proves that the new breed would desert Shea Stadium in droves if the Mets ever challenged for the pennant. If the White Sox win the pennant it might not be a bad idea to go fishing for the duration.

PLAYER OF THE YEAR in the American League has to be Carl Yastrzemski of the Boston Red Sox, say the experts. Not so, demurs Eddie Stanky, who thinks the honor should go to the Tigers' fine young catcher Bill Freehan. Stanky's reasoning? Freehan has delivered more clutch hits for the Tigers than Yaz has for the Red Sox . . . Does anybody want to bet against Mike McCormick of the San Francisco Giants as the comeback player of the year? Or Orlando Cepeda as MVP in the National League? Boston's Dick Williams and that man Stanky will vie for Manager of the Year in the American League, with Williams a shoein if the Red Sox make it to the top.

THE 1967 TENNIS SEASON was the finest in Kingston. Thanks to men like Nick Fowler, Bill Spangenberger, the Kingston Tennis Association and a sharply improved public relations program, the racquet swingers received a lot of well deserved publicity.

The tournament got a windfall when the New Paltz Hudson Valley affair was summarily cancelled out, but that wasn't the whole story. A fine field was assembled, for the local event and it produced high quality tennis.

Tennis has been slowly emerging from th doldrums in the past few years in the Kigston area. The 1967 tournament may be remembered as the one that restored the game to its proper place in the area sports program.

Clubs Clash Under Block Park Lights

They turned the lights on at Block Park last night and Royal Grill and Perry's Grill ended the evening where they started.

Royal stopped the regular season champions, 1-0, in an eight inning thriller in the first game of a playoff doubleheader. Perry's came back to take the second contest, 6-2.

The teams will conclude their playoff series on Saturday at 7 and Perry's will attempt to make it a clean sweep to climax a great season.

One-Hit Duel

Bill Costello and George Norton hooked up in one-hit pitching duels in the opener. Costello had a no-hitter during the seven inning regulation game, fanning 13 batters. A single by Mike Amato was the only safety off Norton during the same span.

In the eighth, Tom Fiore doubled to left center and moved to third as Richie Amato was flying out to center. A passed ball enabled Fiore to score the only run.

Norton was tagged for seven hits in the second game, including a double by Mel Williams, a triple by Tony Amato and Mike Amato's home run.

Costello, who hurled six strong frames, gave up six safeties with Vince Smedes getting a single, double and home run.

The champions tagged Norton for a pair of second inning runs when Pat Berardi singled with two outs, Joe Clausi was safe on a fielder's choice and they both scored as the ball was being thrown away.

A hit by Costello, an error, infield out and another misplay gave the winners a run in the fourth. They clinched the tilt in the sixth as Mike Amato's roundtripper and a pair of errors accounted for two markers.

Tired, Skinny Lonborg Too Tough for Yankees

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Jim Lonborg, down about 20 pounds from his normal weight, says he's a little tired. The New York Yankees, down about 20 games from their normal position, are not impressed.

Lonborg, the ace Boston right-hander, threw his second three-hitter against the Yankees in nine days Thursday night, leading the Red Sox to a 3-1 victory. Minnesota, beating Baltimore 4-2, remained in first place in the American League, one percentage point over Boston.

The victories shattered the virtual four-way tie as Detroit and Chicago, idle Thursday, fell half a game off the pace.

Lonborg's victory over the Yankees, now mired in ninth place 17½ games off the pace at a time when they're usually running away with the flag, was all but a carbon copy of the one in New York on Aug. 29.

In both cases, the score was 3-1. In both cases, Lonborg gave up only three hits. In both cases, a home run by Tom Tresh spoiled the shutout.

In the National League, St. Louis crushed New York 9-2, San Francisco shaded Houston 3-2 in 15 innings, Cincinnati beat Philadelphia 3-1, Pittsburgh took Atlanta 4-2 and the Chicago Cubs nipped Los Angeles 3-2 in 12 innings.

"I think I'm a little tired," Lonborg said when his 19th victory was in the books. "It's been a long season for me. I started out weighing 215 and I'm down to about 195. But don't get me wrong. I'm not so tired that I can't contribute my share down the stretch."

Rico Petrocelli provided the power for the Red Sox, driving in two runs with his 14th homer and a double. Lonborg himself provided the other one with a ground-rule double.

The Twins hung onto their precarious lead with two runs in the eighth inning. Tony Oliva delivered a double that cracked a 2-2 tie and Bob Allison's single sent Oliva in. Dean Chance won his 18th game, stopping the Orioles on four hits.

Nicklaus Pick In World Series

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Jack Nicklaus' gigantic shadow will grace the Firestone Country Club today in the unofficial practice round for the 36-hole World Series of Golf beginning Saturday.

Nicklaus, who has made the tournament his personal jackpot, was not around earlier in the week while his three rivals were exploring the 7,180-yard layout with a demanding par of 35-35—70.

Nicklaus, the U.S. Open champion; Roberto de Vicenzo, winner of the British Open; Masters champion Gay Brewer, and PGA titlist Don January will be shooting for a top prize of $50,000 in a showdown of champions.

Second place is worth $15,000, third $7,500 and fourth $5,000.

The World Series, a new experience for De Vicenzo, Brewer and January, is old hat to Nicklaus. Jack won the first World Series in 1962 and repeated in 1963.

In four World Series appearances, the ckeye belter from Columbus, Ohio, has earned $126,000. Currently Nicklaus is the leading money winner on the golf tour with $156,000.

However, a victory this weekend will not add to his official money-winning total because the series, although sanctioned by the PGA, does not qualify as an official event.

The Series winds up Sunday and in case of a tie there will be a sudden-death playoff. The last five holes on Saturday and Sunday will be televised nationally by NBC.

Cards Not Counting Series Ducats Yet

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Officials of the St. Louis Cardinals are hesitant about counting their World Series tickets before the Birds hatch a pennant.

KC Baseball Feud Nearing Showdown

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The running feud between Kansas City Athletics baseball players and their owner, Charles O. Finley, headed toward a hearing before Commissioner William Eckhrt as the A's unlimbered further charges Thursday on two fronts.

Eckert announced in New York that the dispute had been set for a hearing Monday in his office.

His announcement had barely been made when the Major League Baseball Players Association filed an unprecented unfair practices charge against Finley before the National Labor Relations Board.

And Lew Krausse, A's pitcher whose suspension and fine by Finley precipitated the squabble, charged that Finley had intimidated him into making a statement that the owner was justified in his fine and suspension. Krausse also said Finley had repeatedly tried to get him to influence other players to withdraw their request for a grievance hearing before the baseball commissioner.

Krausse: Quote

"He's through scaring me." Krausse was quoted as saying in a copyrighted story in the Kansas City Star. "I love baseball and I owe a lot to it, but if that man doesn't trade me I'll hang up my glove. I don't want to play for Finley again. As soon as you think you can confide in him and trust him he burns you."

It was Aug. 18 that Finley fined Krausse $500 and suspended him indefinitely for alleged misconduct aboard a commercial air liner. The players, through their player representative, pitcher Jack Aker, drafted a statement critical of Finley and immediately afterward Manager Al Dark was fired; first baseman Ken Harrelson, now with the Boston Red Sox, was given his unconditional release, and Aker was fined for allegedly violating curfew.

The action before the Labor Relations Board was filed by Richard Moss, attorney for the Players Association and their executive director, Marvin Miller. It contends Finley has "threatened individual employes in an attempt to coerce them into withdrawing their pending grievances" and "by so doing has interferred with, restrained and coerced players in the exercise of their individual rights which are guaranteed by law."

Seniors Are Urged To Bring Caddies

Because of the heavy entry in Sunday's Seniors golf tournament at Wiltwyck Country Club, all golfers are advised to bring caddies.

The quota of 24 electric carts has long since been snapped up. Some caddies will be available at Wiltwyck but entrants are advised to play it safe and bring their own caddies.

Cousy Admits Association With Springfield Gambler

By DAVE O'HARA

BOSTON (AP) — Bob Cousy, former All-America whiz and one of pro basketball's all-time great players, was reported under sedation today after admitting a close friendship with an alleged gambler, but denying any wrong-doing.

A reliable source said Cousy, now coach at Boston College, was given sedatives at his Worcester home by a doctor less than two hours after he struggled through a tear-filled news conference Thursday at the BC alumni hall.

"I suppose I'm guilty of indiscretion," Cousy admitted between sobs at the 70-minute meeting with both sports and news reporters.

"But I'm not guilty of anything else," he added. "If you're guilty of something, or have something to hide, you're evasive. And I don't sneak around."

Disregarding advice of friends to merely issue a statement, Cousy elected to face probing questions in his reply to a Life magazine article linking Boston athletes with gamblers.

He said the article reported he was friendly with Andrew Pradella and Francesco Scibelli, both of Springfield, Mass., and identified by the magazine as associated with gambling.

FRAN TARKENTON SAYS:

Even Old Pro Can Feel Like New Boy in Town

My first night as a New York Giant, I sat in my room on the second floor of the players' dormitory at Fairfield University in Connecticut, and I wondered half aloud, "What in the heck am I doing HERE?"

Not that I was worried about being accepted. After all, I wasn't like a rookie coming into a pro football camp. But for six years I'd look around me in the huddle and see guys I knew intimately as good friends as well as teammates, whose lives were all mixed up with mine. I felt like a Minnesota Viking.

Suddenly, it was all strange. I stepped up behind the center in practice, got my feet planted and my hands extended for the ball, and there was a different feel. I've been getting the ball from Mick Tingelhoff for six years. He's shorter than Greg Larson of the Giants, and, to put it bluntly, has a bigger tail. Greg is bigger over-all and has a different stance. It's not the same.

I'm not the first guy who's ever been traded, but for a quarterback there are some broad problems of adjustment. Take the terminology. I've been using the same words for six years.

Name for Blocking

In our first exhibition game against the Atlanta Falcons, we were in a third down and short yardage situation. I called a dive play (or straight buck into the line), with the fullback carrying the ball. In Minnesota, on that kind of play we used a system of blocking we called "George." In New York, it's called "Blue."

As we broke the huddle, I got to Greg Larson and told him, "on this play, Greg, you and Bookie (Bolin, the right guard) 'George' it.

He looked at me blankly and asked, "George who?"

The next week, against the Washington Redskins, we were second and nine early in the game and I wanted to call a screen pass to our fullback, Tucker Frederickson, from a strong left formation. In Minnesota, it would have been simply "77 flip screen right." But here with the Giants it's called "flood right, screen right to the fullback."

In the huddle, I started out, "O.K., 77—." And then I caught myself. I was stammering for a minute after that, though which you know is not good for a quarterback in the huddle.

So this was the toughest thing for me, tougher even than getting used to the guys because the Giants, of course, were friendly.

The important essential for any man coming to a new team is to earn the respect of that team. The Giants have been under great quarterbacks like Charley Conerly and Y. A. Tittle. They're a well-disiplined team. I knew they wouldn't take liberties with me in the huddle. It isn't, as coach Allie Sherman likes to say, a scattered group.

The quarterback's got to win the confidence of his team by performing well, where they know on third and long yardage he can do it for them. At the same time, the quarterback's got to know what they can do for him, to be able to lead a group of different personalities and different traits. So after the initial feeling of strangeness faded, I had to adjust to the abilities of the guys.

Take, for instance, the receivers on the Giants. They have unbelievable speed. Aaron Thomas is the fastest slot end (or tight end) in football. Homer Jones is fantastic—not every man can say that he beat Bob Hayes in a foot race. Del Shofner is faster, even now after 10 years, than anybody we had in Minnesota. Therefore, I've had to work on my timing with them.

And they all have their little tricks in running routes. Homer does a different turn-in pattern than Shofner.

Finally, to feel like a Giant, I've had to know the fans. I don't mean it's open house at the Tarkentons. My phone number's unlisted, like it was in Minnesota and like it is in Atlanta. But I've never seen people more interested in pro football than they are in New York, or recognize you more.

After the game against the Philadelphia Eagles in Princeton, N. J., I got dressed and drove my car around to a gate to pick up my wife, Elaine. I figured I could get lost in the crowd. Considering the final score — the Eagles won — I wanted to.

It made me realize what I was doing in New York.

Open Season Against CBA

By ED PALLADINO
Freeman Sports Staff

Encouraged by a turnout of 55 boys, Saugerties High football coach Fred Seither is prepping the Sawyers for their first engagement, a night contest Saturday, Sept. 23 at Bleecker Stadium, Albany against Christian Brothers Institute.

Highland, which usually helps the SHS eleven commence its schedule, is not on the slate this season and Seither just recently booked the non-league opener with the CBA eleven.

For the first time in several seasons, the head coach has some speed in the backfield and an experienced quarterback to handle the offense.

Starting Backfield

John Warns, who did most of the signal calling last season, returns for another crack at the job. Tony Konopka, a second team All-DCSL selections and Richard Praetorious are leading candidates for the halfback posts and Tom Christiana is the fullback.

End Drew Craig, tackle Carl Nickerson and guard Dick Bollin are returnees up front. Letter winners back for more action include Ken Myer, end; Ward Borcherdt and Dick Downey, tackles; Tom Ziegler and John Washburn, guards and Howard Post and Tim Suenram, centers.

Pete Kramer will again be the assistant varsity coach. Newcomer James Kirk will handle the jayvees and Bill Schirmer, one of the school's greatest athletes and an outstanding defensive end at the University of Miami, returns to handle the junior high gridders.

Saugerties High

STRENGTH — Experienced backfield with fair to good speed; good number one quarterback.

Braves to Play Winsted Sunday

The baseball season isn't over for the Kingston Braves—not yet. Fred Davi's tossers travel to Winsted, Conn. Sunday for the opener of the best-of-three semi-final playoff series.

Amenia plays at Millerton in the other semi-final. The Braves and Winsted clash at Dietz Stadium on Sunday, Sept. 17.

Honeymon Was Short for Short

By DICK COUCH
ASSOCIATED Press Sports Writ

Short, Philadelphia's 29-year-old southpaw ace, took a bride Thursday afternoon, then pitched five perfect innings against Cincinnati Thursday night.

But Leo Cardenas' leadoff single in the sixth ended the hitless string, Tommy Harper poked another single, Tommy Helms walked and Lee May smacked a bases-loaded triple, ruining Short's evening and giving the Reds a 3-1 victory over the Phillies.

In other National League games, St. Louis clubbed the New York Mets 9-2 behind Bob Gibson, San Francisco nipped Houston 3-2 in 15 innings, Pittsburgh downed Atlanta 4-2 and the Chicago Cubs squeezed past Los Angeles 3-2 in 12 innings.

Short married Marsha Hickling of Largo, Fla., in Valley Forge, Pa., after a dizzy whirl of wedding preparations that began Wednesday when the Phillies stepped off a plane from Atlanta.

The couple, who met at the Phillies' Clearwater, Fla., spring training base last spring, obtained a marriage license one minute before the license bureau closed Wednesday.

Pappas Wins 15th

May's triple gave Milt Pappas a 3-0 lead and the Cincinnati right-hander went on to post his 15th victory with ninth-inning help from Ted Abernathy.

Gibson, pitching for the first time since July 15, when a line drive by Roberto Clemente cracked a bone in his right leg, worked five innings and was credited with his 11th victory.

The Cards' ace was tagged for eight hits before turning over an 8-1 lead to reliever Larry Jaster, but said afterward the leg hadn't bothered him.

Dal Maxvill paced the Cards' 16-hit attack with three singles and a double while Roger Maris and Julian Javier connected for homers.

Bob Schroder singled with two out in the 15th inning at San Francisco, took second when Ken Henderson was nicked by a pitch and scored the winning run on Jesus Alou's single. The lose was Houston's eighth in a row. The Giants have won six straight.

Shutout for Lasher

Schrade's Capture Title at Ellenville

Bob Lasher of Kingston pitched the pennant clincher for Schrade-Walden in the Ellenville Softball League Thursday.

Completing an unbeaten 8-0 season, Lasher blanked Woody's Bar and Grill, 5-0, on a 2-hitter with 10 strikeouts in the fifth and final game of the championship series.

Schrade's collected only six blows off Richie Hoffman, another Kingston twirler, but two were home runs by Charlie Page and John Hohman.

Both hits off Lasher were singles and only two runners advanced as far as second base. He walked one batter as only three men reached first as his mates backed him with flawless support.

Score in First

Schrade's reached Hoffman for a first inning run on Darmstadter's two out double and Holmes' single.

Charlie Page led off the second with a solo homer and Hoffman wild pitched the second run home with the bases loaded after Matt Crystal walked, Art Thomas was safe on an error and Lasher bunted successfully.

Holmes' second single and John Hohman's home run accounted for two quick Schrade runs in the sixth. It was Hohman's third homer in the five game playoff.

Kickers on Road

Poughkeepsie Team Joins Soccer Loop

The annual reshuffling of teams completed, the German-American Soccer Association's three divisions launch the 1967-68 campaign with 15 games Sunday.

The two new teams in the League Division are Poughkeepsie Blue and Whites and Dalmatinac of New York. They replace Bridgeport, 1967 champions, and Spring Valley who were promoted to the Premier Division.

Other teams making up the League Division are: Schwaben, American Czechs, Lithuanian, White Plains, Yonkers, West New York and Bavarian. All are holdovers.

BW Gottschee, 1966-67 champions of the Premier Division, moves up to the Major Division, Brooklyn Soccer Club, last in the Major loop, is relegated to the Premier Division.

New York Hota of the Major Division merged with Minerva/Pfaelzer of the League Division and will play in the Major Division as New York/Hota.

Kingston at Peak

Coach Bob Graves also has such veterans as Timo Liekoski, a consistently fine goal tender; Rob Iggers, Bill Newmerchinsky, all-time ace Reiner Schwebel, Jon Weber, Richie Lotze, Jimmy Reinhardt, Tony Alexander, Tony Fitzharris, Lee Roberts and Captain Winnie Soddermann.

"We're in pretty good shape to make a fast start toward next year's pennant," said Graves. "The league shapes up as tougher than last year but we should hold our own."

Schmedake Tops In Trapshoot

Bob Schmedake, the faithful publicity director for the weekly trapshooters at Lake Katrine Rod and Gun Club, finally had a chance to write about himself. He led the field with a .940 average on strings of 23-24.

Other leaders were: Lanning Steitz, .880; Tom Bernardini, .853; Grover Ellsworth (25), .853; Bob Sperl, .840; Frank Austermann, .800.

Practice for the Ulster County Federation championships is scheduled Sunday at Walker Valley Sportsmen's Club where the title event will be held on Sept. 24.

National Football League teams scheduled a record number of 51 exhibition games this year, including 16 with American Football League clubs.

$3 Million Suit In Lema's Death

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Federal court records disclosed Thursday that two damage suits for more than $3 million have been filed against an Illinois air charter service over the death of professional golfer Tony Lema.

Lema and his wife were killed in July 1966 when a private plane crashed near Munster, Ind. They were en route from Akron, Ohio, to Lynwood, Ill.

The First National Bank in Dallas, as executor of the Lema estate, brought the suits against Joliet Air Charter Service, Inc., and Mainline Aviation, Inc., of Joliet, Ill.

One suit asks $1 million in damages for Mrs. Lema's mother, plus $30,000 for hospital bills, funeral expenses and court costs. The other seeks $2 million and similar costs for Lema's mother and son.

Yankee Division All-Star Winner

Stroking 11 assorted base hits and taking advantage of 11 errors, the Yankee division cruised to a 17-5 win over the Met division in the Saugerties Softball League All-Star game Thursday evening.

Maurice Hinchey and Barney Hoyt, who moved from the Met to the Yankee division in an exchange of pitchers for the contest, combined to throw a six-hitter. Bob Wolven was the loser.

Herb Whitaker had three singles in four trips for the winners.

Full Schedule Set For AFL Grid Squads

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The American Football League presents its first full schedule of regular season play this weekend while Detroit is at St. Louis tonight in the start of the National Football League's final series of exhibitions.

The AFL opened its regular season a week ago, Denver taking Boston 26-21 in the only game, but has its first full, four-game schedule starting Saturday.

Defending champion Kansas City is at Houston and Boston is at San Diego, both at night, Saturday. New York is at Buffalo and Denver is at Oakland in day games Sunday.

The NFL offers eight games, six of them Saturday night, with single games Friday and Sunday in the close of exhibitions that is certain to push preseason attendance past the two-million mark. The NFL opens regular season play the following weekend.

Saturday's schedule has Atlanta (2-1-1) at New Orleans (4-1); Baltimore (3-1) at Dallas (2-2); Chicago (1-3) vs. Philadelphia (4-1) at Memphis, Tenn.; New York (1-2-1) at Green Bay 5-0; Pittsburgh (2-2) vs. Washington (3-1) at Norfolk, Va., and San Francisco (2-2) at Los Angeles (5-0).

The Chiefs, odds-on to repeat as AFL champs, have virtually the same team back that dominated the league last year. The major change has defensive halfback Fletcher Smith replacing injured Fred Williamson.

Len Dawson, who sat out the final exhibition game, will start at quarterback for the Chiefs, who beat Houston 24-9 in an exhibition match. Jacky Lee will go for Houston.

Buffalo has settled on trade acquisition Tom Flores as its No. 1 quarterback over Jack Kemp. The Bills' nationally televised game with New York is the first of a four-game home stand. Buffalo beat New York 31-23 in a preseason game less than two weeks ago.

In two major trades Thursday, the Miami Dolphins sent rookie quarterback Jon Brittenum to San Diego for a draft choice, while the Los Angeles Rams acquired defensive tackle Roger Brown from Detroit for three draft choices. The Rams needed Brown as a fill-in for injured Roosevelt Grier.

Supreme Byrd Stakes Winner

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Supreme Byrd flew away with the $15,200 New York Sire Stake for 2-year-old pacing fillies at Batavia Downs Thursday night, winning the top event in the evening's harness racing across the state by nearly nine lengths.

Bill Myer took the winner to the wire in 2:05 2-5 after sending her into the lead at the halfway mark. Look Lively was second, trailed by Dale Barmin.

While Supreme Byrd, a 1-5 favorite, returned $2.60, long-shot betters at Saratoga Raceway collected that track's highest winning payoff of the season.

Razzu returned $127 for a $2 pari-mutual ticket when she won a $600 pace for maidens. That mile-long contest was clocked in 2:09 4-5, with Skidoo Pick second and Small Dome finishing third.

The $1,500 trot at Saratoga Raceway was won by Lizzie Tish in 2:06. Amy C. was four lengths back, trailed by Seer.

The winner returned $20.40.

In races featured at other harness tracks:

Vernon Downs — T. K. Munger ($4.20) defeated Jarvis Ra B by a length and a quarter and won the $1,100 pace in 2:03. Patchyhill Mart was third.

Roosevelt Raceway — Tarport Joe ($8) held on gamely and won the featured pace in 2:00 4-5 under the guiding hand of Harold Dancer Jr. Favored Chris Time was nearly a length back, trailed by Mr. Lucifer.

Sore Shoulder and Hewitt Big Hurdles For Newcombe

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — There are two big obstacles between Australian John Newcombe and the Wimbledon-U.S. tennis double — a sore shoulder and Bob Hewitt.

Newk fears Hewitt the more.

"This shoulder thing just came up in the last couple of days—I was sitting in the clubhouse and I felt a twinge," the handsome, 23-year-old Aussie said Thursday. "Luckily, it's in my left shoulder, otherwise I might not be able to play.

"I got a rub-down and the trainer says he thinks it's just a sore tendon and will go away."

Hewitt won't. This Australian refugee who became a citizen of South Africa, is Newcombe's quarter-final opponent today in the National Tennis Championships at the West Side Tennis Club.

Newcombe seemed to be nursing his sore shoulder Thursday when he beat Ray Moore of South Africa in a fourth round match 7-9, 6-2, 6-2, 6-2. Hewitt smashed young Bobby Lutz of Los Angeles, the U.S. college champion, 11-9, 6-4, 6-4.

The United States has two men in the quarter-finals — a 100 per cent improvement over last year. Seventh-seeded Clark Graebner of Beechwood, Ohio, plays Roy Emerson, winner here in 1961 and 1964 and second-seeded. Gene Scott of New York has a date with Owen Davidson of Australia. The other match sends Ron Barnes of Brazil against the Danish giant-killer, Jan Leschly.

Outlasts Holmberg

Scott outlasted the 29-year-old Ron Holmberg, of Highland Falls, N.Y., 4-6, 6-3, 3-6, 6-2, 6-4. Davidson won a thriller from the 1963 champion, Rafael Osuna of Mexico, 8-6, 8-6, 0-6, 4-6, 6-2.

America's tennis darling, Billie Jean King of Long Beach, Calif., takes the center court today in a quarter-final match against Annette Van Zyl of South Africa. The bespectacled American girl is bidding to become the first American since Althea Gibson in 1958 to win both the Wimbledon and U.S. titles in a single year.

Mrs. Ann Haydon Jones, the 28-year-old British Wightman Cupper, and Australia's Lesley Turner advanced to the women's semifinals Thursday.

Mrs. Jones beat Peaches Bartkowicz of Hamtramck, Mich., the national junior champion, in a baseline slugfest 7-5, 2-6, 6-1. Miss Turner crushed Rita Bentley of Britain, 6-1, 6-2.

Gean Glow Cops Monticello Win

MONTICELLO, New York—Gean Glow, a nine-year-old mare, trotted to a 2:06 win in the feature at Monticello Raceway last night in the hands of trainer and provisional driver Early Lacy, paying $17.40.

When favored Nora V. Spencer went offstride around the first turn Gerard Mir pushed to the lead and held on past the 1:02.4 half. But tiring as they approached the last quarter, Lacy took Gean Glow out to grab the lead, with Miss Barry Prom following out but unable to overhaul Gean Glow who went on to post her sixth win in 16 starts on the year. Flower Print finished third.

The daily double of 5-3 was worth $32.80 as Arthur Bier won the opener on Pete's Spitfire and, Ernest Jacobs drove He's My Boy home on top in the second race.

When Julius Boros won $6,500 in the PGA championship, he ran his 1967 golf earnings to $100,735.

LEGAL NOTICES

THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK BY THE GRACE OF GOD, FREE AND INDEPENDENT TO: Arthur Di Alfi and Marie Drew (second supplemental citation) SEND GREETING:

Upon the petition of Andrew Torregrossa & Sons, Inc., a creditor of the estate of Concetta Cassaro, deceased.

You and each of you are hereby cited to show cause, at a Surrogate's Court to be held in and for the County of Ulster, at the Surrogate's Office in the City of Kingston, in said County, on the 18th day of September next, at 9:30 o'clock in the forenoon of that day, why a decree should not be made awarding Letters of Administration of the goods, chattels and credits which were of said decedent to Fred H. DuBois, County Treasurer of Ulster County.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, we have caused the seal of the said Surrogate's Court to be hereunto affixed. Witness, HON. ARTHUR A. DAVIS, JR., Surrogate of our said County, at the City of Kingston, the 14th day of August in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and sixty-seven.

[L. S.]

MICHAEL SABINO and CARMINE SABINO, Plaintiffs, — against — JAMES MURRAY, JOHN DOE and JANE ROE, the said names JOHN DOE and JANE ROE, being fictitious and being intended to designate any distributees, heirs at law, and devisees of JAMES MURRAY, whose names are unknown and if any of them be dead, their distributees, heirs at law and distributees and every person in being who would have been entitled to an estate or interest in the real property involved in this action by any contingency contained in a devise or grant or otherwise if such event had happened immediately before the commencement of this action and every person who by purchase, inheritance or otherwise have or claim to have an interest in the real property involved in this action, whose names are unknown to plaintiffs and the PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK

To the above named Defendant

YOU ARE HEREBY SUMMONED to answer the complaint in this action and to serve a copy of your answer, or, if the complaint is not served with this summons, to serve a notice of appearance, on the Plaintiffs Attorneys within 20 days after the service of this summons, exclusive of the day of service (or within 30 days after the service is complete if this summons is not personally delivered to you within the State of New York); and in case of your failure to appear or answer, judgment will be taken against you by default for the relief demanded in this complaint.

The foregoing summons is served upon you by publication pursuant to an order of Honorable Louis G. Bruhn, Supreme Court Justice, dated August 22, 1967, and filed on August 22, 1967, with the complaint in the office of the clerk of Ulster County in Kingston, Ulster County, New York, the original complaint therein having been duly filed in said office on August 17, 1967.

The object of the above entitled action is to determine claims to real property pursuant to Article 15 of the Real Property Action and proceedings law of the State of New York, said real property being described as follows:

ALL THAT TRACT, PIECE OR PARCEL OF LAND, situate in the Town of Kingston, County of Ulster, State of New York, assessed on tax roll of said town in the year 1957, to Murray, James and bounded and described on such tax roll from the description furnished pursuant to law thereof as set forth in the notices of sale prepared therefrom and duly published pursuant to law, as follows: 6 acres more or less, described as woodlot 148, Binnewater Class, bounded north by Hanrahan, east by Murray Road, south by Shaw, west by Missano, against which the words "Murray, James" appear on the Assessment Roll of the Town of Kingston for the year 1957, and being the same premises conveyed by Fred H. DuBois as County Treasurer of the County of Ulster, State of New York, to the County of Ulster by Deed dated July 1, 1959.

BEING the same property conveyed by the County of Ulster by deed dated December 23, 1963 to Michael Sabino and Carmine Sabino and recorded March 16, 1965, in the Ulster County Clerk's Office in Liber 1163 of Deeds at page 1066.

Dear Abby

Husbands Go to Stags

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a young housewife with a small child. My husband, I'll call him Arthur, is still in the university, and I work part time to help support us. We have very little money and seldom go out. We have friends occasionally and find time to have fun together, but here is the problem:

A friend of Arthur's is getting married soon and Arthur mentioned that he would like to go to a stag for this friend. I told him if he went out I would not sit home alone, but would also go out and have a good time somewhere. Arthur objected to this.

I say, in the first place a married man has no business going to a stag. Besides that, I don't like to stay home alone. I get depressed and miserable and sit and look at the clock. Am I wrong?

EQUAL RIGHTS

DEAR EQUAL: Yes, you are wrong. Married men do go to stags. And an occasional night out with the boys is healthy for a man and also for his marriage. You show a possessiveness and possibly mistrust that is unbecoming and unjust. Send Arthur to the stag with a smile, and while he's out get your nose back into joint and into a good book.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: There is a man (married) in our circle of friends who always greets me with a great big powerful bear hug.

I am pleased that he feels so warm and affectionate toward me, but I do not happen to feel the same about him. Yet when he gives me this kind of greeting it is impossible for me to refuse his embrace without practically insulting him.

I just do not like to be drawn chest to chest with a man and crushed and hugged. Is there some nice way I can get this big moose to keep his hands off me?

Don't tell me to tell him off. I'm not the type.

PEE-WEE

DEAR PEE WEE: When you see The Cruher, approach HIM with your right arm outstreched, and put a lot of enthusiasm into a welcoming handshake. Try it. It works.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: For some years now I have been wondering what ever happened to the good old-fashioned fist fight between two youngsters when they had a difference of opinion?

Nowadays, it seems that the acceptable method of settling a difference consists of unmerciful—and sometimes—beatings administered not by one fellow, but by three or four cowards—or a whole gang against one.

I grew up in one of the toughest neighborhoods in New York City 40 years ago, and if I happened to wander alone into the other gang's territory, the worst I could expect was that I'd have to fight ONE of the other gang. If I happened to be getting the better of the guy, I didn't have to worry about any of his buddies joining in to help him. Each kid took pride in fighting his own battles.

If anyone jumped in to help a pal, his whole gang would disown him on the spot, and his name would be "yellow belly" from then on.

We never heard of "rat packs" in those days. And we didn't use switchblades and lead pipes. It was one guy's fists against another's. Some of our fights were pretty bloody. But they were fair.

What's happened to our kids? Anyone care to comment?

Horoscope — By SYDNEY OMARR

It's In The Stars—

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 9, 1967

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 19): Direction of purpose necessary. Don't flounder. Applies especially where security, investments concerned. Money affecting mate, partner, close associates spotlighted. Act.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20): Status quo will not remain. Be ready. Make necessary adjustments. May involve written agreement. Get to heart of matter. Deal with legal problems. Consult mate, partner.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Pressure exerted on relations with associates, co-workers. Don't expect something for nothing. Clarify position. Remember resolutions concerning diet, health. Be moderate.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Activity shown in connection with children, creative endeavors. Changes indicated. Could engage in social activity tonight. Confusion exists, but of the exciting variety.

LEO (July 23 - Aug. 22): Shakeup due where routine is concerned. Obtain hint from CANCER message. One who was previously conservative acts in eccentric manner. Be ready. Maintain sense of humor. Go slow in traffic.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Take special care around machinery, traffic. Read LEO message. Be wary of reports not backed up by evidence. Discard rumors. Steer clear of disputes with close relatives.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Money affairs continue in spotlight. Restrictions relaxed. Good night to celebrate. But avoid extravagance. Socialize. Be a good listener.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Impatience could cause impulsive action, statement. Key is self-control. Don't feel everything is closing in. Temporary form of restriction will pass.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Secret information revealed today. You gain co-operation of club, group, special organization. But you must be dynamic, alert, enthusiastic.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Flurry of activity indicated where friends are concerned. Some may ask you to take sides in dispute. Best to remain neautral. Those who battle today are friendly tomorrow.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Tread lightly in dealing with neighbors, higher-ups. Tendency for misunderstanding to arise from minor matter. Make intentions clear in diplomatic manner.

PISCES (Feb. 19-Mar 20): News received could change long-range plans. Travel and correspondence emphasized today. Make use of past experience. Apply lessons. Avoid slipshod methods.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are attracted to people with problems. The key is to be of constructive aid. Avoid persons who take without giving anything in return. Change made recently proves constructive.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Cycle high for SCORPIO, SAGITTARIUS, CAPRICORN. Special word to GEMINI: accept repsonsibility. Do plenty of listening, observing.

The name "wonder bids" has been applied rather scathingly to the set of weak bids so popular today among our leading players. The modern expert uses weak twos and weak jump overcalls as a matter of course. Any other weak bids he uses are a matter of his style and there are plenty to choose from.

We use some weak bids ourselves but have never been so completely sold on them as to believe that they are invincible. Skillfully used, most of them give their users an advantage. unskillfully used they are likely to bite back at you.

One "wonder bid" is the Michaels cue bid invented by the late Mike Michaels. It is usually used over minor suits only and shows both majors. It may be strong but it also may be quite weak.

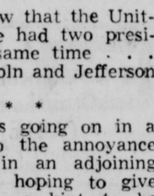

South was using this bid for the first time and decided that his hand called for a jump to three hearts. The hand would support a strong bid over a real cue bid and North expected South to show up with a better hand.

Not that North bid cautiously. South could have a pretty good hand but West might be on lead with the ace and king of diamonds. But North did know he had a mighty good hand for his Michaels cue bid and that it seemed to be a good time to forget science, bid a slam and hope for the best.

We would like to report that South went down but we have to stick to the facts. South wasn't happy with the heart lead but he decided to make the best of things. He won East's jack of hearts with the queen and promptly led a spade. West Jack fell to dummy's queen and South breathed easier. When both opponents followed to the ace of hearts it was just a matter of mopping up. South played a heart to his ten and led a second spade. West dropped the king and South wound up with six spades, five trumps and the ace of clubs.

'Nun' Has Takeoff Trouble

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "The Flying Nun" may be able to glide around on air currents, but the premiere show on ABC Thursday night had plenty of trouble getting off the ground.

It was the hour-long pilot film for the half-hour series and gave viewers a chance to see how Sister Bertille happened to fly.

No Mary Poppins

The situation comedy has for its principal character a compulsive little Miss Fixit in a religious habit. She can play a mean game of gin rummy, dance the watusi and even persuade hard-bitten businessmen to give land to the convent. But Mary Poppins, alas, she is not.

Sally Field plays a 90-pound novice with a bizarre "cornette"—or coif—that looks like a seagull in flight and is supposed to catch any win andd boost its wearer into the sky. She gives the role the same cheerful energy and youthful bounce she once invested in "Gidget."

But "The Flying Nun" has its problem, and that seems to be the rather heavy-handed treatment given the whimsy of the show. Fantasy can only succeed if the audience buys the premise and at no point in the opening show was the flying bit anything more than an obvious and unconvincing gimmick. It seemed to be, in fact, dragged in by the heels.

The report around Hollywood in preseason weeks was that the series might prove to be the surprise hit of the season. Maybe the later episodes will be more amusing and bright.

F. Lee Bailey, the criminal lawyer, made his show business debut as the bland host-interviewer of "Good Company," ABC's adaptation of the old "Person to Person" idea. His first visit was at the home of film star Tony Curtis and family.

Bailey Colorless

The first portion of the half-hour show was interesting because it showed the magnificence of the Curtis estate in Beverly Hills, with Tony indulging in an earnest lecture on art.

Bailey proved to be unexpectedly colorless as host and his questions were the cliches of the movie star interview—"which do you prefer to play in comedies or dramas?"

Kapers Show Opens Oct. 31

President Harold E. Keator Jr., today announced that the Kingston Kiwanis Club will stage the 1967 Kiwanis Kapers on Oct. 31 and Nov. 1 and 2 at the Kingston High School Auditorium.

He reported that Donald MacIsaac will be director and writer of the show, while James V. Geary and Frank H. Reis will be associate directors.

Keator said the Kiwanis Club puts on the Kiwanis Kapers annually to raise funds to be used toward the club's Scholarship Fund Awards.

"We're doing a real worthy service through these awards to enable needy students to obtain a higher education," Keator said, "but it would be impossible to do this without the funds we obtain from our Kiwanis Kapers. We want to help the community in the important area of scholarships, but to do it we need the community's support."

MacIsaac wrote and directed the 1966 Kiwanis Kapers, entitled The Day We Stopped Fighting and Learned to Frug. It was a satire on events and personalities in Ulster County.

MacIsaac also wrote and directed three previous Kiwanis Kapers, Little Abner in 1957, Roaring 20's in 1950 and The Making of a President in 1962.

MacIsaac, a first vice president of the Kiwanis Club, is community relations and information manager for the International Business Machines Corp. in Kingston. Prior to joining IBM, he worked in radio and television as an announcer and writer.

In 1959, 1961 and 1962, Mr. MacIsaac served as director-producer of the New York State Beauty Pageant conducted in Kingston. In recognition of his work in the community, MacIsaac was selected Young Man of the Year by the Kingston Junior Chamber of Commerce in 1962.

Vote Rights Spelled Out

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — After slightly more than five months of effort the Constitutional Convention finally has adopted its first completed article, a measure spelling out the voting rights of New York citizens.

With a self-imposed deadline of Sept. 26 only a little more than two weeks away, the delegates debated more than three hours Thursday before approving the final version of the suffrage proposal by a vote of 139-30.

Thin Arguments

After completing action on the voting-rights plan, the convention spent two hours rearguing an article dealing with powers and functions of the Legislature before adjourning until next Monday. Many of the delegates were headed for judicial nominating conventions today.

No final vote was taken on the legislative proposal because it was sent back to the Committee on Style and Arrangment for incorporation of changes made Thursday in the preliminary draft. It is expected to gain final approval next week with little or no debate.

Meanwhile, in another development, the State Housing Finance Agency reported there were no bidders on a $46.6-million offer of bond - anticipation notes intended to finance construction in the State University system.

Officials blamed the failure to attract bids on concern in the financial community over the "free college" policy preliminarily adopted by the Convention last week.

Last week, Republicans fighting the free college idea in the convention warned that investors might shy away from such investments if the Democratic plan gained approval.

'Highly Disturbing'

Thursday, the convention's Republican minority leader, Earl W. Brydges, said the failure to attract bids was "highly disturbing" and indicated "a frightening lack of confidence on the part of the financial community."

Brydges said the future of higher education was in doubt "unless this convention takes action which will reassure potential investors."

Like all measures before the convention, the free college proposal requires a second approval by the delegates before it can be included in the proposed constitution.

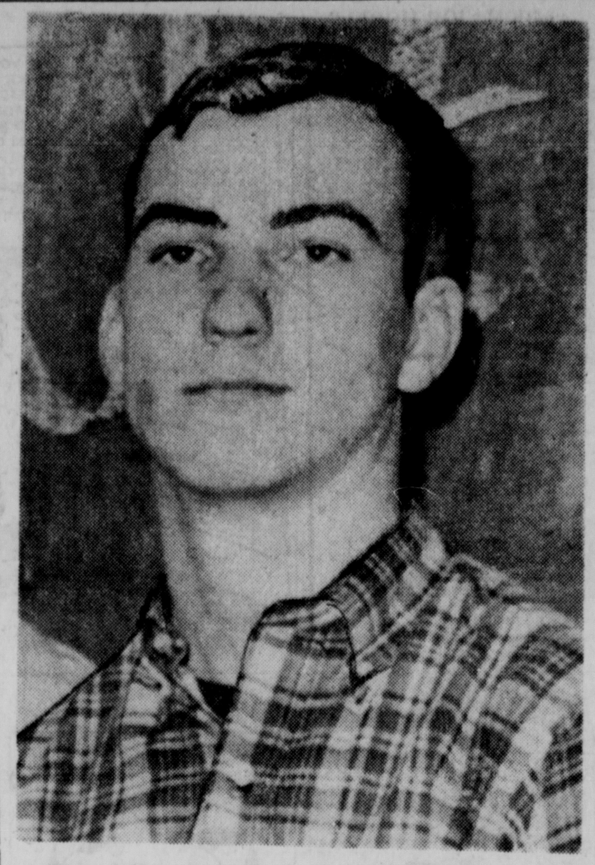

This was the procedure Thursday on the suffrage article. It originally was approved in preliminary form July 24.

It had been assumed that, since extensive debate had taken place before the preliminary approval, there would be little discussion on the measure when it came up for final passage. Such was not the case.

One of the major items in the proposal would leave the minimum voting age at 21 but permit the Legislature to lower it to 18.

Republicans offered two amendments, both of which would have eliminated legislative power to reduce the voting age. One of the amendments would have lowered the age to 20, while the other would have left it fixed at 21.

The GOP argued that the convention was abdicating its responsibility in leaving the voting age question to the Legislature. Democrats countered that the voting age was spelled out at 21 and the article merely permitted the Legislature to act if it saw fit.

HUNTED—Police of Auburn, Ala. have an all points bulletin for the arrest of Edward Albert Seibold, 21, a former student at Auburn University who shot three girls to death and wounded their mother. Arrest Driver On Charge of Cursing Police

A Kingston man was arrested by Sheriff's deputies early today along Route 375 and charged with harassment.

Confined to the county jail in lieu of $200 bail is Albert D. Dunn of 2 John Street. He is accused by Deputies Robert Jordon and Michael Giordano of cursing officers on duty.

According to Deputy Jordon, the deputies were traveling toward Woodstock 3:10 a. m., on Route 375 when they noticed a car parked in the road. Jordon said they halted their patrol car for a routine check.

He told the deputies, Jordon noted, that he had just been runoff the road and inquired whether the deputies had seen the alleged mishap. Jordon replied they had not.

Dunn then explained that he had just been ticketed in Woodstock and asked if the deputies could help him in this respect, Jordon said.

The deputies again answered in the negative.

"Dunn then began to curse us," Jordon stated, "and we were forced to arrest him."

Sentencing Put Off

Leslie Sholts Jr., 19, Wilbur Avenue, accused by police of leaving the scene of an accident, unlicensed operator and unauthorized use of a motor vehicle, pleaded guilty in City Court today. Sentencing was adjourned until Sept. 16. Sholts was arrested early this morning following a crackup on Abeel Street. The defendant is alleged to have lost control of a pickup truck, hit a utility pole and rammed into a house located at 611 Abeel Street.
